Message from the Director

Dear Colleagues, Educators, and Community Members.

I am delighted to introduce Croydon's new SACRE curriculum, a reflection of our commitment to fostering a rich, inclusive, and engaging educational environment for all our students. This curriculum has been thoughtfully developed with input from a diverse range of voices, ensuring that it not only meets statutory requirements but reflects our community.

At the heart of this new curriculum is a focus on promoting understanding, respect, and dialogue among students from all backgrounds. We believe that by exploring a wide range of religious and non-religious worldviews, our children and young people will develop both empathy and insight and approach their journey through life with these important skills.

Thank you for your continued dedication to the students of Croydon. Together, we will inspire and educate the next generation with a curriculum that truly reflects the values of our community

Shelley Davies
Director of Education

Message from the Chair

We are pleased to present the New Croydon agreed Syllabus 2024.

This replaces the previous Agreed Syllabus of 2013 and the update of 2018. This new syllabus places a greater emphasis on World Views and includes increased perspectives from Humanism as a non-religious World View. The six main world faiths plus Humanism are covered through the key stages and teachers can incorporate other religions and world beliefs represented in their school. This Croydon Syllabus also places great emphasis on enquiry-based learning and there are many opportunities for pupils to pose questions and undertake research of their own. Also incorporated are several resource sheets and ideas for teaching. The suggestions for resources in the plans can be borrowed for free from St James The Great Primary School in Windsor Road, Thornton Heath.

The learning objectives are statutory, as requested by the teachers, and it is expected that pupils will be taken on visits to a number of places of worship at each key stage. It is also expected that pupils will still be encouraged to take a religious studies GCSE at Key Stage Four. Croydon has had GCSE RE results that are consistently higher than the national average for many years and it is to be hoped that this will continue to be the case.

Thanks are due to representatives of the major faith communities in our borough and the Humanist contributor, teachers and representatives from SACRE and the Education Authority who consulted together at all stages of the original document and especially to the teachers who assessed materials and worked to bring the material together as a cohesive whole, in particular Mrs Lorna John (Head of RE at Oasis Academy, Coulsdon) and the RE Adviser and SACRE Officer, Mrs Penny Smith-Orr. Religious Education in Croydon has gone from strength to strength and we are confident that the 2024 syllabus will contribute towards further success in our schools.

Croydon SACRE

The 1988 Education Reform Act made it the duty of all Local Education Authorities to set up a SACRE (standing advisory council on religious education).

As religious education is required by law to be taught but is not part of the National curriculum it is the responsibility of the SACRE to oversee RE and collective worship in schools throughout the borough. A SACRE can also advise on methods of teaching the Agreed Syllabus including resources and the provision of training for teachers. It also monitors inspection reports on RE, collective worship and spiritual, moral, social and cultural development, and considers complaints referred from the LEA about the provision and delivery of those subjects. SACRE is also responsible for the Determination process if necessary.

The SACRE is composed of four groups:

COMMITTEE A:

Representatives of Christian Denominations and other religions and their denominations reflecting the principal religious traditions of Croydon. Also in this group is a Humanist Representative

COMMITTEE B:

Church of England Representatives

COMMITTEE C:

Representatives of teacher's associations.

COMMITTEE D:

Local Authority Representatives. Each of these committees has one vote with the Chair, who usually comes from Group D, having a deciding vote if necessary. There is also a clerk and a SACRE Officer who advises SACRE and schools on teaching and learning.

The law says that the LEA must institute a review of its locally Agreed Syllabus every five years, the SACRE then convenes a conference which 'must agree upon a syllabus of religious instruction to be recommended for adoption by the Local Authority'.

The statutory duty is reaffirmed in the Religious Education Guidance in English schools: Non-statutory guidance 2010 which states, "An LA should fund and support a SACRE and an ASC satisfactorily in line with the duty to constitute or convene each of these bodies and to enable them effectively to carry out their function."

Croydon SACRE meets three times a year and publishes occasional guidance documents which are held on the Croydon Council website and www.croydonsacre.co.uk, an Annual Report can be found on the NASACRE website.

Overview of the Questions for each Year

Year Group	Autumn 1	Autumn 2	Spring 1	Spring 2	Summer 1	Summer 2
Year 1 What does it mean to belong?	Why are we thankful?	What places make you feel you belong?	Who is important to you?	Which stories are important to you?	Why do people celebrate?	How do you know you belong?
Year 2 What is Important to People?	What do some people believe about God?	How do people celebrate good over evil?	Who do you talk to if you need some help?	Why are some books special?	How do you show someone is important?	What is special?
Year 3 What do different people believe about God?	How do different people describe God?		What does it mean to be an inspiring leader?		How do people communicate with God?
Year 4 How is my community special to me?	How do I show I'm part of a community?		How do communities celebrate?		Why are places of worship important to communities?
Year 5 Why Should we care for our World?	What are the ways community's care?		In what ways are people judged?		What do Humanists believe?

Year 7 How do I see myself in the world?	How do people gain their identity?		What do Hindus believe and practise?		Why is community cohesion important?
Year 8 What role does belief play in our world?	Jesus Christ - Man or Miracle?		How do people respond to environmental issues?		Who has made a difference in the world?
Year 9 Are Humans equally Special?	Why do we remember?		Is it wrong to be rich?		What are the 5 pillars of Islam?

Introduction

The Principal Aim of Religious Education is to:

- 1. Enable pupils to understand and reflect upon the religious and spiritual beliefs, practises, insights, and experiences that are expressed in humanity's search for meaning in life.
- 2. Provide opportunities for pupils to explore and express their own responses and personal beliefs.

It should be noted that 'providing opportunities for pupils to explore and express their own responses and personal beliefs' allows the addition of looking at World Views as well as individual religious views.

The principal aim of the syllabus will be met through the Programmes of Study which incorporate two components:

- Attainment target 1: Learning about Religious and non-religious Worldviews
- Attainment target 2: Learning from Religious and non-Religious Worldviews and Human Experience.

Regardless of our own beliefs, signs of religion can be found all around, with the landscape full of churches and of other places of worship. Any worldview that we subscribe to, either religious or non-religious, has an influence on many aspects of our lives. Often, we use symbols to reflect our membership of a belief group, including the clothes we wear, the food we eat, our names, language, activities and ways of celebration.

Religious Education promotes pupils' understanding of the multicultural and multi faith society that we live in today by enabling them to explore issues of belief, issues between faiths and explore the many different world views that people hold. Having learned about different faiths and belief and nonbelief systems, pupils are then encouraged to understand how we can interact with each other and explore the interface between groups within contemporary society. Additional assistance with these aspects can be found from representatives in Croydon SACRE and Faiths Together in Croydon, who are available to help teachers with their knowledge and understanding of the range of religious and non-religious worldviews represented in Croydon.

The syllabus focusses on seven central worldviews: Christianity, Islam, Hinduism, Judaism, Sikhism, Buddhism and Humanism.

At every key stage other faith and world views and those which reflect the school community may also be introduced.

In Croydon we have many different faith communities and other secular communities, and our syllabus is designed to give teachers the opportunity to bring in world views which are represented in the classroom which may not be the focus faiths. This might include Alevi, Baha'i, Taoism, Zoroastrian and others. It is very important for the self-esteem of a child who comes from a strong faith background to hear their faith mentioned and valued.

All pupils need to be given an awareness of what life is like from the perspective of someone that holds a different set of beliefs. Knowledge and understanding of the features, ideas and practises associated with each religious or non-religious worldview is important, so that all pupils can distinguish between them, understand what each entail and to promote the British value of tolerance and understanding.

Schools have a duty to promote the spiritual, moral, social, and cultural education of pupils and, although it is important that the school ethos and all subjects to contribute towards this, religious education has a large part to play.

Using this syllabus

In this 2024 Croydon Agreed Syllabus we have thought about the World views Approach to religious education.

The world views approach follows that pupils will all have their own world view and potentially some prior knowledge. There is scope for diversity within and between belief groups and it is an approach where multidisciplinary-theology, philosophy and the social sciences all come together. In other words, believing, thinking and living are all important to the study.

Everyone has a worldview: their way of seeing, making sense of and giving coherence and meaning to the world and to their own experience and behaviour.

Everyone has a worldview: their way of seeing, making sense of and giving coherence and meaning to the world and to their own experience and behaviour.

There are 3 different types of subject specific knowledge that pupils learn in RE:

- Substantive - knowledge about various religions and non-religious traditions
- Ways of knowing - where pupils learn how to know about religion and non-religion
- Personal knowledge - where pupils build an awareness of their own presuppositions and values.

The world views approach follows that pupils will all have their own world view and potentially some prior knowledge. There is scope for diversity within and between belief groups and it is an approach where multidisciplinary-theology, philosophy and the social sciences all come together. In other words, believing, thinking and living are all important to the study.

This syllabus is based on a Big Question for each Year group with a subsidiary question in each year for each term, and weekly questions for each week of the unit. Following the syllabus and using the units of work will enable pupils to explore their own and other attitudes and discover the answers to these questions.

At the end of each year an assessment of whether the pupils have answered the Big Question is advised.

Each unit has a front page which is based on a knowledge organiser principle - teachers can fill in the school values and add to the British values and Sensitivities boxes as required. You will also need to know the prior knowledge of the class.

Focused Religions

The focused religions to be taught at each Key Stage are:

Early Years

An introduction to religion and world beliefs

Key Stage 1

Christianity, Islam, Judaism, Hinduism, and Humanism

Key Stage 2

Christianity, Buddhism, Hinduism, Islam, Judaism, Sikhism, Humanism

Key Stage 3

Christianity, Buddhism, Hinduism, Islam, Judaism, Sikhism, Humanism

Key Stage 4

Christianity and one other worldview - see next pages for Key Stage 4 and 5

At every key stage other faiths and world beliefs and those which reflect the school community may also be introduced.

KS3 is arranged slightly differently, with topics of learning, but still has the knowledge organiser front page for the units.

Teachers in KS3 can spread the topics over a term as suitable.

In Y5 and 6 the units are longer to give time for more in depth thinking.

Visits to the many places of worship in Croydon are an important part of the learning process and it is statutory to take pupils on these visits. One visit in KS 1, two visits in KS2 and one visit in KS3 are the minimum requirement.

As well as resources given at the end of each unit there is a separate Resources tab with additional information for teachers which is to be used alongside this syllabus. There are pictures of many of the places of worship in Croydon in the Resources tab.

Key Stage 4

The law still states that at Key Stage 4 schools are required to teach religious education.

Most schools will follow a syllabus from one of the GCSE Religious Education courses, this choice of exam boards is left to the head of RE in each school.

To fully cover the curriculum will need about 140 hours of teaching

Usually, an RE GCSE covers Christianity and at least one other principal religion.

Pupils who are not entered into an RE GCSE must still be taught religious education according to Law.

Teachers can make their own curriculum with concepts following on from KS3. One online non examined course that teachers might choose is produced by Bristol SACRE KS4 Non-examined course for RE – Bristol SACRE.

5% of teaching time should be given to teaching religious Education.

Pupils should be at least taught to:

- Use appropriate language to develop their knowledge and understanding of the key beliefs, values and traditions of the religions studied.
- Recognise the variety of beliefs and practises within one religious tradition and identify how they may change over time.
- Reflect on secular and religious stories with a moral or spiritual dimension and respond thoughtfully and critically to key features and behaviors.
- Develop the ability to devise and ask relevant questions when investigating religious traditions.
- Consider how belonging to a faith tradition can make a difference to the life-style and moral attitudes of individuals and communities.
- Respond with supporting evidence to a range of contemporary moral and religious issues and human experiences.
- Evaluate, using appropriate evidence, people's different responses to religious and other views on human identity and moral issues.
- Reflect upon their own attitudes, behaviors and experiences and evaluate with reference to inspirational texts and personalities.
- Show respect when visiting places of worship, handling artefacts and listening to others.

Key Stage 5

The law and this Croydon Agreed Syllabus requires schools to provide religious education for all 16–19-year-old students in sixth forms.

Religious Education Post 16 provides an opportunity for students to develop and extend work from earlier key stages.

It should make a significant contribution to the students' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development as they prepare for life beyond schools.

Schools can approach the fulfilment of these legal requirements in one or more of the following ways:

- Through discrete RE courses: schools may, for example, wish to take the opportunity to follow a nationally accredited A/S course.
 - As part of a general studies/school enrichment programme.
 - The organisation of such a programme may include a series of religious education days incorporating a variety of visits, workshops and speakers.
 - A project-based flexible learning approach which gives students time to develop particular interests – possibly leading to an internally awarded certificate.
- As in all Key Stags 5% of teaching time should be given to Religious Education.

Teaching RE in the Early Years

It is a legal requirement for all children registered in a school to be taught religious education. So, children in the early years (but not the nursery, unless the school chooses) must be taught religious education and there is a set of units for them in this syllabus.

It is important for pupils to be introduced to the idea that some people have a faith and that some people do not and that the different practises that are part of belonging to a faith are all equally valid and that everyone's needs are treated fairly and equally.

All the most valid experiences in this age group come from the starting point of the children's own experiences. It is important that young children are encouraged to approach Early Years experiences related to religious education with open attitudes and interest.

Within the setting, an environment where cultural and religious diversity is regarded as positive is important so that children develop their own ideas and feel free to talk about the place religious experience has in their own lives.

It is suggested that the RE experiences in the setting are divided into three themes which encompass nearly all of the early Learning Goals in the Foundation Stage Profile document.

The Big Question for the units are:

- Festivals and celebrations in Autumn - Why do we celebrate?
- Caring and Taking Care in Spring - Why do we care about our world and each other?
- Growing Together in Summer - Why do people have rules?

Practitioners can group the themes into topics, forming either three of the six half term topics or each of the themes could cover a whole term linking into topics already in place in the setting.

The RE coordinator needs to liaise with the Foundation stage practitioners on the faiths that will be introduced. To esteem each child in their own faith or world view the experiences provided in each setting should be planned with the particular years cohort in mind.

In planning and guiding children's activities, practitioners must reflect on the different ways that children learn and reflect these in their practise. Three characteristics of effective teaching and learning are:

- playing and exploring - children investigate and experience things, and 'have a go'
- active learning - children concentrate and keep on trying if they encounter difficulties, and enjoy achievements
- creating and thinking critically - children have and develop their own ideas, make links between ideas, and develop strategies for doing things

Festivals and celebrations: This theme should cover several different festivals bearing in mind that young children need to have opportunities to recognise their home life, reflected in school, different festivals may be focused on depending on the faith make-up of the class and the knowledge of the practitioners.

Caring and taking Care: This includes thinking of the needs of others as well as people who help us, creation stories and ways that different religious groups have of caring for the environment.

Growing Together: This includes rules for living in harmony, consideration for others and consideration of one's own actions. Also experiencing the 'awe and wonder' of the natural world and some scientific experiments.

Special Educational Needs and Disabilities

‘Every teacher is a teacher of pupils with special needs.

The special needs curriculum does not exist separately from the ordinary curriculum: the key lies in the teacher’s knowledge of the child’s skills and abilities and the means of providing appropriate access to the curriculum.’ Croydon Education Authority.

‘So far as practicable, every pupil attending a special school will attend religious worship and attend religious education or will be withdrawn from attendance at such worship or from receiving such education in accordance with the wishes of his parent’. Legal Requirements for Religious Education and collective worship in special schools according to the 1988 Education Reform Act.

For all pupils the principle aims of religious education are:

To enable pupils to understand and reflect upon the religious and spiritual beliefs, practises, insights and experiences that are expressed in humanity’s search for meaning in life.

To provide opportunities for pupils to explore and express their own responses and personal beliefs.

These are met through the learning objectives and activities for each key stage, which incorporate the two attainment targets of 1) Learning about Religion and Worldviews and 2) Learning from Religion and Human Experience.

For further assistance with Special needs activities and lessons please contact the RE Consultant penny.smith-orr@croydon.gov.uk

The term ‘Special Educational Needs’ covers a whole range of learning difficulties, physical, emotional, or intellectual and has degrees from mild to profound. It needs to be recognised that children with special needs, whether in a special school or within a mainstream school, generally have a different base line of experience. Therefore, the basic vocabulary used when teaching needs to be checked against understanding.

The learning objectives are statutory within this document, but it should be acknowledged that when taking account of the learning difficulty the objectives may take longer to achieve. Productive repetition of some ideas will be vital for reinforcing each concept.

Depending on the level of need the pupils may not achieve all the learning objectives within the prescribed key stage. It may also be true that in some cases there will be more than one key stage represented in a teaching group.

Teachers from mainstream and special schools may find that they need to adapt ideas and strategies from the syllabus to allow access to religious education to every child. The best learning starts from the basis of need, interest, aptitude and achievement.

Recognition and appreciation of achievement of any objective, from any key stage, irrespective of the chronological age of the pupil is very important for self-esteem.

Practical experiences are the most valuable educational tool and are essential for pupils with special needs. A wide variety of experiences such as visiting places of worship, although access and attitude need to be thoroughly researched, receiving visitors, handling religious artefacts, self-expression and role play need to be arranged for pupils to make the most of their learning.

Photographic and video evidence of the pupils doing these activities should be displayed to help the pupil remember the experience and feel a sense of self-esteem and achievement.

For each Key Stage there is a page (also below) at the beginning of the year for adapting to Special Needs and some further sensitivities information on the unit organiser.

Guidance EYFS Adaptive Teaching Ideas

Sensitivities

- At this age, some children may show signs of SEN but not yet diagnosed.
- Be aware, some/ lots of pupils will need/benefit from some of these adaptations but may not necessarily be SEN.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Adults to support children where possible
- Consistent visual prompts to be used
- Use choices (starting with between two) when asking some types of questions
- Use 'identifying' questions rather than longer what/why/when asking targeted questions.

Strategies

- Use real objects or pictures when modelling.
- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in class)
- Ongoing opportunities in provision (i.e. making birthday cards, handling objects, making decorations)
- Use children's own experiences. For example, ask parents to provide photos of a celebration/ festival etc. and consider displaying this .
- Consider letting children 'experience' some concepts where possible (i.e. create a celebration in your class)
- Use ICT software/ games to reinforce . Sing/learn songs where you can.

Adapted outcomes

- Say 1-2 key words taught
- Say things personal to them
- Identify using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt
- Take part in activities which support learning throughout provision.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Choose only a few words (2-3)
- Pre teach where possible and reinforce throughout the term.
- Use the same visual aids/ props to support children to learn the words.
- Consider letting children 'experience' the word where possible. For example, create a celebration (if celebration was your chosen key vocab)
- Display key vocab with images (real photos are better) throughout the class over a period of time.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Explain vocab clearly without introducing

Adaptive teaching

- Make use of alternative resources such as iPad/ roleplay and make observations
- Provide opportunities in the provision to reinforce learning over time
- Draw pictures and adult annotates what has been said
- Avoid lots of questioning
- Use visuals (photos are better) on any resource as a prompt.
- Consider breaking a learning objective up and teaching over time
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Think about using matching activities.

KS2 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- For some children, objectives for each lesson may be achieved but this may look different depending on need.
- Some children may experience ‘fine motor’ difficulties so recording /writing may be a barrier
- Some concepts may still be abstract, especially for children with needs.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Adults to support children where possible
- Consistent visual prompts to be used on resources and teaching slides. Provide to adults working with children.
- Identify talk partners carefully, based on child’s particular needs
- Where appropriate, start by using ‘identifying’ questions before moving on to what/why/when/who, when asking targeted questions

Strategies

- Think about what the ‘RE’ learning question is for each lesson and plan activities which will show success meeting the question. Take into account needs and limitations
- Think about adaptations all through the lesson not just the tasks (ie during the carpet session)
- Use videos and real life experiences (photos of children in your class)
- Consider a display for reinforcement throughout the term. Add children’s own pictures from home where possible (for example a child dressed up going to the mosque)
- Use real objects allowing children to handle (where possible)
- Use simplified language when discussing ideas/concepts

Adapted outcomes

- Say some key vocab in each lesson (not all)
- Show an awareness of some concepts over time, through talk and supported work

- Begin to explain their own beliefs and ideas through structured questions/ discussions. This can include, using a choice to answer.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Choose only a few key words over the unit to focus on. Pre teach where possible and reinforce throughout the term.
- Use the same visual aid/ props to support children to learn the words.
- Display key vocab with images throughout the class over a period of time.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Explain vocab clearly without introducing alternative concepts

Adaptive teaching

- Make use of alternative resources such as iPad/ Clicker
- Adapt how children understanding- discussion/ drawing/ annotations etc.
- Avoid using lots of different types of questions during discussions

- Use pictures/images on resources as a prompt.
- Consider breaking a learning objective up and teaching at a slower pace
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Use technology to record sentences to help children say/remember a sentence before writing
- Incorporate drama/ roleplay/art where appropriate
- Use matching activities where appropriate (for example match the picture of the festival to the religion)
- Use a variety of group talk, mixed peer and adult led discussions

Time Allocation

- There are only recommendations around time given by schools for RE, these came from the Dearing Report and are nationally acknowledged by SACREs and equate to 5% of teaching time per year.
- For Early Years there are no recommended time for EYFS, just that is it a discernible element.
- For KS1 it is 36 hours annually (50 minutes a week)
- for KS2 it is 45 hours annually (1 hour a week)
- For KS3 it is 45 hours annually (1 hour a week)
- For KS4 for a GCSE course 140 hours over the Key Stage or 1 Hour per week for non GCSE courses
- Models for RE coverage of a suitable amount can be seen here

RE weekly lessons

- Pupils have time to learn about and from religion
- Regular RE give Opportunity for progress in skills and understanding

RE afternoons

- A unit of work is studied over 3 afternoon sessions
- Allows pupils to focus on RE learning
- Allows greater opportunity for creative learning

RE days and weeks

- A whole unit is covered within a day/day and a half
- Whole school can be doing RE together

Sensitive Issues in the Classroom

Children in our classrooms come from a large variety of faith traditions, or none, and live in one of the most multi faith, multi-cultural, multi-racial society of all the London Boroughs. Likewise, a proportion of the population does not associate with a religion and may hold personal spiritual beliefs or subscribe to worldviews such as Humanism.

Sensitivity to the differences of faith, culture and practises within our schools leads to an atmosphere of tolerance to others and good will. An attitude of respect towards others and willingness to consult are more important than a detailed knowledge of every practise. This advice is given so that the particularly good inter-faith understanding within Croydon will continue to flourish.

People who belong to the same faith or belief group may not express or practise their faith in the same way. There are many denominations of faith groups, to speak to the class as if everyone belonging to the same faith has the same practises might be disagreeable to some. Statements which start with 'All Sikhs...' or 'All Buddhists...' or 'As Christians we...' are generally wrong. Much better is 'Some Sikhs', 'Many Buddhists', or 'Speaking as a Christian I...'. For information on different denominations see the Resources section of the website.

Christianity is the principal religion of the country both historically and constitutionally and the laws on Religious Education make it clear that Christianity must be taught in each year group and is the principal religion. In our syllabus you will find that we have then given an equal status to other faiths and worldviews according to the population of Croydon and to reflect the diversity of beliefs found in Croydon.

The Equality Act

- Religion or belief discrimination is when is when you are treated differently because of your religion or belief, or lack of religion or belief, in one of the situations covered by the Equality Act.
- The treatment could be a one-off action or because of a rule or policy. It does not have to be intentional to be unlawful.
- The Equality Act 2010 says you must not be discriminated against because: Someone thinks you are of a particular religion or hold a particular belief (this is known as discrimination by perception)

In the Equality Act religion or belief can mean any religion or world view, for example an organised religion like Christianity, Judaism, Islam or Buddhism, or a smaller religion like Rastafarianism or Paganism, if it has a clear structure and belief system.

The Equality Act also covers non-belief or a lack of religion or belief.

If you have a pupil who is a member of a faith community you may, by asking privately beforehand, encourage them to talk about their faith to the class. You should remember, and remind the class, that practises can be different so that the pupil does not become accountable for a whole faith tradition.

Religious Education teachers should try to find out the belief background of every pupil in the school. This will give them an understanding of the needs of the pupil and knowledge of when they might, for instance, be celebrating a festival or fasting. The document 'Respect for Pupils of Faith' produced by Croydon

SACRE has useful information for schools.

When a pupil is fasting for religious reasons, excessive exercise should be avoided and a topic on food planned for a different time of year.

You will also want to know if any child has suffered bereavement before embarking on some of the programmes of study. A pupil who is recently bereaved may need to be excused from discussions on loss, change, memorials. Usually, if the pupil is warned, they will be able to cope and participate. Children might want to discuss the ideas of heaven, rebirth or afterlife and the teacher needs to be ready for these questions. Similarly, some religious stories should be taught with an awareness of their graphic content, particularly when introduced to young children.

All religious artefacts should be carefully used, stored correctly, and displayed with sensitivity and a respectful attitude: it may be an artefact to the teacher while it is a sacred object to the pupil. For instance: The Qur'an should be wrapped and kept on the highest shelf when not in use: the Holy writings of the Jewish people are called the Tenakh.

When taking children on a visit impress upon them to always be respectful. It is important for parents to know that pupils will achieve a better understanding of the religion through a visit and that there will be no participation in worship involved.

During a study of a festival try not to let the pupils gain an impression of just a party but to understand what the events and the experiences mean to people of the faith, what beliefs the festival illustrates to them and what are the cultural customs surrounding the celebrations.

Legal Requirements

The Locally Agreed Syllabus for Religious Education is of equal importance with the National Curriculum.

There is a statutory requirement and a legal pupil entitlement for schools to provide a basic and broad and balanced curriculum. This is covered by the National Curriculum and the Locally Agreed Syllabus for Religious Education (RE). Religious education must be provided for all registered pupils in state-funded schools in England, including those in the sixth form.

The position of religious education in the school curriculum has been consolidated through a succession of primary legislation, from the Education Act of 1944 through to the Education Act of 1996 and the School Standards and Framework Act of 1998. Religious Education (RE) is for all pupils.

A locally agreed syllabus is a statutory syllabus for RE recommended by an Agreed Syllabus Conference for adoption by a local authority. The Agreed Syllabus must reflect the fact that the religious traditions in Great Britain are in the main Christian, whilst taking account of the teaching and practises of the other principal religions represented in Great Britain. [Section 375 Education Act 1996]. The exploration of non-religious worldviews should also be included.

RE is locally determined, not nationally, but requirements now vary for different types of schools.

Local Authority Maintained/ Community / Voluntary Controlled schools without a religious character must follow the locally agreed syllabus. Foundation Schools and Voluntary Controlled schools with a religious character also follow the locally agreed syllabus.

Voluntary-aided schools with a religious character should provide RE in accordance with the trust deed or religious designation of the school unless parents request the locally agreed syllabus. Church of England schools (including church academies and church free schools) should provide a wide range of opportunities for learners to understand and to make links between the beliefs, practises and value systems of the range of faiths and worldviews studied.

Academies and Free schools - RE should be provided as part of a broad and balanced curriculum and in line with requirements for Agreed Syllabuses. The requirements for the type of RE that an academy provides, will be set out in their funding agreement. For schools without a faith designation, this will usually mirror the requirements for local authority - maintained schools without a religious character.

Academies may use the locally agreed syllabus, or a different locally agreed syllabus (with the permission of the SACRE concerned) or devise their own curriculum. OFSTED expects Academies to provide an RE curriculum 'of similar ambition' to the subject orders of the National Curriculum. This Agreed Syllabus has been written to support academies in our local area to meet the requirements of their funding agreement and is warmly commended to them. Academies which were formerly Voluntary Aided schools should follow the guidance for Voluntary Aided schools.

Special schools should ensure that every pupil receives RE 'as far as is practicable'. Using the Croydon Agreed Syllabus and information available from the Croydon SACRE Officer.

Parents of pupils at a maintained school may personally request that their child is excused from religious education and/or attendance at collective worship. The school should not incur any expense or extra work through this action.

Teachers may also withdraw from teaching RE or attending collective worship.

Key teaching Points for each Faith and belief

Buddhism

The life and teachings of Siddhatha Gotama, subsequently known as the Buddha, are an important model for Buddhists.

The western order teaches that Buddha is not God and is not worshipped, some Buddhists do however worship Buddha.

Children should not role play the Buddha.

Buddhists do not pray to a supreme being, meditation is an important part of the way of life.

Visitors to a Buddhist place of worship may be asked to remove shoes and sit on the floor.

Christianity

There are many different denominations with different practises. However, all Christians believe in one God, who is the creator, and that Jesus was God's son.

Christianity is the principal religion of Great Britain and is a growing, living world faith. There are Christian communities in every country in the world.

The church is the community of believers and not just the building. The leaders of the church are deemed Gods representatives on earth.

Christians believe in everlasting life for those that believe in God and have accepted Jesus as their Saviour, having asked for forgiveness.

Hinduism

Hinduism is a way of life as well as the name for a follower of the faith.

Religious Hindus believe in one God who has numerous manifestations.

The deities are used as the focus of worship, their images are known as murtis and should not be called idols or statues.

The home is important for worship and most homes will have a home shrine.

Visitors to the Mandir, or temple, must remove their shoes and sit on the floor.

Food, which has been offered to the deities, will be given to visitors.

Islam

Muslims believe in The One True God, Allah, who must be worshipped alone without any partners. Allah sent Prophets to guide mankind to know and worship Him. The first Prophet was Adam, the husband of Eve, both the progenitors of mankind followed by a long series of Prophets and Messengers culminating with the appearance of the Prophet Muhammed PBUH (Peace be upon Him) the son of Abdullah, a descendant of the Prophet Abraham in the 7th Century. (Children should not be asked to role-play or draw the Prophet Muhammed).

Muslims believe that Allah distinguished mankind over all other creation with intellect and free will, to test who among them is best in virtue. Muslims believe that all of mankind will be accounted for their deeds on the Day of Judgement, a day when all wrongs will be righted. Those who followed the call of the Prophets and lived a godly life will be entered into Heaven, but those who disobeyed Allah and rejected His signs and favours will be cast into Hell. Muslims believe that Allah, out of His mercy and compassion, guided His servants to goodness and virtue not only by sending them Prophets and Messengers but also divine revelation. The Qur'an is the direct speech of Allah received by the Prophet Muhammed through the Archangel Gabriel who brought God's final message for mankind. The Qur'an means 'The Recitation' and is read by Muslims every day in their five times daily prayers. The Arabic Qur'an should only be touched by those who have performed the special Islamic washing called 'Wudu'.

Key teaching Points for each Faith and belief

Judaism

Jews believe in one God, who is the creator.

The synagogue is the place of worship, but the home plays an essential part in religious observance of many festivals.

Family life is very important to followers of the Jewish faith.

There are orthodox Jews and liberal Jews.

In an orthodox synagogue men and women sit separately.

Head covering is required for both sexes in the orthodox synagogue.

Humanism

Humanism is not a religion – it is a non-religious worldview based on the conviction that the universe or nature is all that exists or is real (naturalism). It is informed by science, inspired by art, and motivated by compassion.

Humanists believe that moral values are founded on human nature and experience alone. They do not believe in any gods.

They believe that, in the absence of an afterlife and any discernible purpose to the universe, human beings can act to give their own lives meaning by seeking happiness in this life and helping others to do the same.

A significant number of people in the UK (around 29% of the population) hold values that are consistent with Humanism, even though many have not heard of the term.

Humanists can be found all over the world – in Europe, Asia, Africa, and the Americas. It is thought to be the world's fastest growing belief system. Humanists International has member organisations in over 60 countries.

The website for Humanists UK is: <https://humanists.uk/humanism/>

Sikhism

Central to the religion is the idea of equality.

It is not necessary to study the lives of all of the Gurus.

Children should not role-play the Gurus, but pictures of a Guru can be used with a narrator to tell a story.

The holy writing, the Guru Granth Sahib, is seen as the last living Guru and treated accordingly. It is not suitable to have one in the classroom, most Sikhs would not have a copy in their homes.

Care should be taken when introducing and discussing the 5Ks, particularly the Kirpan and Kacchera.

Visitors to the Gurdwara must wash hands and remove their shoes. Seating is on the floor. Food is prepared in the Gurdwara and classified as Langar blessed food this will be given to visitors to eat whether rich or poor, non-Sikh or Sikh, all are welcome.

All Sikh children are known to keep their hair (kesh) without cutting them. Girls will have their hair tied in plats and boys will either have a Patkha (head covering) or a turban.

Under no circumstances should anyone try to pull or take off the head covering as it is legally regarded as a Racial Attack and will be reported as an incident.

Useful Internet Resources

It is very important for teachers to access the sites and check the content before recommending them to pupils.

As well as the resources in each unit here are some general internet sites which will be helpful to teachers and pupils. Some are for teacher information and some for pupils.

Many sites will give information and pictures relating to different festivals, also many sites will give you a virtual tour of a place of worship, which is useful if you are unable to arrange a proper visit. Truetube and Youtube also have clips of useful material.

Skills of Religious Education

Enquiry: Plan what to do and what research is needed. Decide on relevant questions.

Hypothesise: predict and anticipate. Test conclusions and improve on your ideas.

Investigate: Ask relevant questions in a sensitive manner. Develop a sense of curiosity. Use different types of sources to gather information. Investigate the use of sacred texts. Know what may be appropriate information for an understanding of religion(s).

Reflect: Reflect on one's own feelings, thoughts, experiences and relationships. Consider the importance of the environment and natural world. Recognise the significance of special moments. Explore questions of meaning, understand the significance of people, place, object, story and experience. Reflect upon one's own beliefs, values and attitudes and those of others and on feelings, relationships, ultimate questions, beliefs and practises. Think and speak sensitively about values, religious and spiritual topics recognising the significance of special moments.

Interpret: Draw meaning from artefacts, symbols, stories, works of art and poetry. Interpret and understand religious language. Derive and understand meanings of religious texts.

Empathise: Listen with care and respect. Consider the thoughts, feelings, experiences, beliefs and values of others. See the world through the eyes of others and appreciate issues from their point of view. Develop the power of imagination to identify feelings such as love, forgiveness, sorrow, joy, compassion.

Analyse: Distinguish between essential ideas, opinions, belief and fact. Distinguish between key features of different faiths and belief systems. Identify similarities and differences.

Apply: Apply what has been learnt from a religion or belief system to a new situation. Apply their own beliefs and values to situations and concepts in their own and other people's lives making the association between religion, the individual, local community, national and international life. Recognise the rights and responsibilities of the individual.

Synthesise: Recognise similarities and differences. Link coherently feature(s) of religious groups / belief systems. Make links between religion and human experience (AT2).

Evaluate: Look at different viewpoints before making up their own mind. Justify a viewpoint relating to ultimate questions and religious issues. Debate issues of religious significance with reference to experience, evidence and argument. Draw conclusions by reference to experience, evidence and individual belief using a range of reasoned arguments.

Express: Identify, interpret and explain religious language, symbols and rituals. Communicate their responses to their learning in RE through different modes of expression such as oral and written work, art, drama, role play, music and video. Respond to ultimate questions and religious issues through a variety of media. Identify and articulate matters of deep conviction and concern.

British Values and RE

British Values, which are:

- Tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs,
- Mutual respect,
- Democracy,
- The rule of law,
- Individual liberty,

Should be shown throughout the curriculum but are covered very comprehensively in the RE curriculum.

RE has a significant contribution to make to preparing pupils for modern life in Britain by, for example:

- providing a model for reflection, engagement and encounter for life-long learning:
- providing opportunities to explore issues of identity and belonging, encouraging the investigation of a range of lifestyles and ways of thinking in order to understand themselves and others better:
- encouraging reflection on their own and others' beliefs, values and lifestyles and, with sensitivity, to develop understanding of beliefs:
- providing opportunities for the challenge of unhelpful stereotypes and the promotion of key values such as 'respect for all':
- fostering personal engagement with, and a sense of responsibility for, the development of a diverse, understanding and equitable society:
- fostering appreciation of the accumulated wisdom of centuries of human experience as distilled in religious beliefs, practises and texts.
- Following the Croydon Agreed Syllabus 2024 will encompass all these values and contribute to the spiritual, moral, social and cultural education of pupils.

Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural Education

RE has a key role in promoting pupils' spiritual development by fostering skills to enable the exploration of and response to, for example:

- how they relate to themselves, to others, to the world around them and, for some, to God:
- paradox, mystery and the deepest questions of life such as 'Why are we here?', 'Why do people die?' and 'Why is there so much suffering in the world?':
- the lives of individuals and groups who have inspired others:
- what different religious, spiritual and secular traditions teach about the meaning and purpose of life: and
- values such as justice, honesty and truth.

RE has a key role in promoting pupils' moral development by fostering skills to enable the exploration of and response to, for example:

- personal issues and values like why should I tell the truth, and how can I be good?
- a range of ethical and moral issues:
- the role of ethical rules and codes within communities and society: and
- what different religious, spiritual and secular traditions teach about right and wrong.

RE has a key role in promoting pupils' social development by fostering skills to enable the exploration of and response to, for example:

their own growing sense of identity, place in society and different experiences of community, e.g., family, school, national, religious:

- their experience of working in diverse groups and social settings:
- a range of social issues relating to the quality of life in contemporary society:

- how religious teachings have shaped and influenced different communities and societies:
- commonly shared experiences that communities seek to celebrate and mark, e.g., rites of passage:
- how religious, spiritual and secular traditions lead to particular actions and concerns:
- how religion has inspired individuals with a sense of social responsibility that has generated great social change historically.

RE has a key role in promoting pupils' cultural development by fostering skills to enable the exploration of and response to, for example:

- the place of culture and tradition in their own and others' lives:
- the relationship between culture and religion, and how religions and beliefs contribute to cultural identity and practise:
- the ways in which those from different cultures have expressed themselves through the creative and expressive arts:
- the many ways in which meaning, belief and value can be expressed and communicated.

Many of these aspects clearly overlap with Citizenship and Personal, Social, Health, and Economic Education (PSHE), and schools are encouraged to make use of RE to add to the cross curricular dimension of different areas of learning within the primary and secondary curriculum.

Croydon and the 2021 Census

With a population just under 400,000, Croydon is the largest of the 32 London boroughs, with this comes a rich tapestry of different people, faith, and beliefs.

Compared to the census in 2011 there has been a 5.9% increase in those reporting “no religion”, however this is over 10% less than the 2021 national figure of 37.2% and Christianity with 48.9% of followers is higher than the national figure.

Groups that have seen no changes between the 2011 and 2021 census are the Buddhist and Jewish communities with a minimal fall in the Hindu community.

Understanding the implications of this census data is a part of the learning journey for students in order to understand their own worldview. It also helps them to make sense of the diverse and changing nature of their community and the people that live within it.

Croydon’s religious diversity means an enviable range of religious buildings, spaces for prayer and reflection including numerous churches, mosques, mandirs, temples and gurdwaras. A visit to a place of worship forms part the statutory offer. Students in Croydon have an advantage in the borough as many of these places of worship warmly welcome school visits and offer the opportunity for faith members to visit schools.

Religion in Croydon

In 2021, 25.9% of Croydon residents reported having “No religion”, up from 20.0% in 2011. The rise of 5.9 percentage points was the largest increase of all broad religious groups in Croydon. Because the census question about religious affiliation is voluntary and has varying response rates, caution is needed when comparing figures between different areas or between censuses.

Across London, the percentage of residents who described themselves as having “No religion” increased from 21.0% to 27.1%, while across England the percentage increased from 24.8% to 36.7%.

In 2021, 48.9% of people in Croydon described themselves as Christian (down from 56.4%), while 10.4% described themselves as Muslim (up from 8.1% the decade before).

There are many factors that can cause changes to the religious profile of an area, such as a changing age structure or residents relocating for work or education. Changes may also be caused by differences in the way individuals chose to self-identify between censuses. Religious affiliation is the religion with which someone connects or identifies, rather than their beliefs or religious practise.

Assessment

You can only assess what you have taught!

- The Prime purpose of teaching is to bring about learning
- Nothing improves because of assessment
- Assessment must lead to growth or development
- There is no point in assessment unless there is a useful outcome

Assessment should:

- Raises teacher and pupil expectations.
- Enables teachers to identify strengths and weaknesses in pupils' attainments.
- Enables teachers to plan the next steps in the pupils learning.
- Provides the means to chart progress.
- Makes pupils and their parents clear about particular achievements and targets for improvement.

Assessment should:

- Be conducted according to commonly agreed purposes.
- Raise an expectation of success rather than failure.
- Take place in a familiar, supportive environment.
- Be preceded by equal access to the learning programme for all pupils.
- Take into account the way pupils learn in collaboration with others.
- Ensure that pupils understand clearly what is required of them.
- Encourage the involvement of pupils through review and negotiation.
- Be conducted according to agreed criteria.

Assessment

On the cover page of each unit in each year is a suggestion of assessments tasks.

To effectively assess a child's attainment and progress, it is essential that a range of evidence is used so that holistic and accurate judgement can be made.

- Pupil's individual books, pupil's comments
- Class portfolios or big books
- Photographs
- Records of class discussions and debates
- Group outcomes, from acting out, role play, whispered debates etc
- Class displays
- Teacher's evaluations, observations.

Religious Education should not be merely regurgitating or recycling key information or simply providing a distant or superficial opinion or comment. Religious Education should be an active enquiry process, with meaningful, well-informed and balanced conversations, using a variety of disciplines to apply, interpret, analyse, and evaluate what they have learnt about other religions and worldviews in relation to spiritual, ethical, moral and social issues. Through enquiry, pupils will build their knowledge and understanding about religions and worldviews, consider and reflect meaningfully on what they have learnt and create an informed view.

Learning should be planned around 'Big Questions' that relate to finding out about the religions and worldviews reflected in their local community and beyond. These enquiries should encourage pupils to not only specify 'what' beliefs, practises and values are, but to also suggest 'why' these beliefs and values are held or expressed in a certain ways and to identify 'how' they may be interconnected and affect people's lives.

The units of work in the Primary phase have been devised for teachers to use in order to achieve this and should therefore be followed as written. In Key Stage 3 teachers can arrange the Topics in a suitable order for teaching.

At the end of each year teachers should plan a lesson with discussion of the Big Question for that year group and the answers pupils have found.

It is a legal requirement that there should be a report on a pupil's progress in RE at the end of the year, the assessment opportunities through the year should inform the teacher of this progress.

Assessment

This list is not definitive or exhaustive, but pupils may be asked to:

At KEY STAGE 1

- Talk with teacher or friend
- Act out
- Model
- Draw
- Retell
- Illustrate a story
- Share together to help others
- Explain to a teacher, friend or parent
- Write about
- Use names or vocabulary correctly
- Listen quietly
- Show appreciation of others
- Participate in periods of quiet thought or stillness

At KEY STAGE 2

- All of Key Stage 1 plus
- Identify and express feelings and experiences in words, sounds, movement and artwork
- Write about
- Illustrate
- Dramatise
- Talk about to a teacher, friend or parent
- Describe verbally or in writing
- Make a display
- Explain in words, diagrams, charts, pictures
- Listen to people and ask appropriate questions
- Explore through role play
- Behave appropriately
- Imaginatively describe
- Identify and explain symbols
- Use religious terms correctly
- Participate in periods of quiet thought and stillness

Progression of Festivals

Festivals and celebrations occur in many forms within each faith community and in the wider world.

Schools will return to Christmas, Easter and Harvest celebrations particularly throughout the Primary phase.

It is important that a progression is shown in the teaching of these festivals and pupils are not taught the same thing each year.

Also, just telling the story and the customs of celebration (clean house, new clothes, presents etc.) is not religious education. It is the beliefs and feelings and experiences of the believer that are important and to be reflected on. For instance, the beliefs of a Christian at Christmas are expressing the belief of incarnation - of God becoming human in Jesus and the experiences lead to A renewal of commitment to follow the teachings of Jesus. Likewise, a celebration by Muslims at Eid is the belief of expressing thanks to Allah for the gift of self-control during Ramadan and the experience encourages a Muslim to continue to be faithful, generous and charitable.

On the following slides are ways to ensure that Christmas, Easter and Harvest are celebrated and taught in a different way each year.

Other faith and belief festivals are to be taught throughout the units as seen. As with Christmas and Easter festivals that are celebrated each year must be approached differently in each year group.

10 Ways to approach Christmas in School

Christmas is expected to take 3 weeks in each Year group in the Primary Stages. It is very important to show progression in planning for this. Below are some ideas for RE Coordinators to give to teachers who can then expand on them.

Every year group in the Primary school will cover Christmas in some way. Just retelling the story each year is not sufficient coverage and teaching about Christmas and Easter is part of the 51% Christianity teaching.

- The Christmas story: The key events in correct sequence Birthdays- whose birthday are we celebrating, how do we celebrate birth? Who was happy and who was sad?
- Journeys: What journeys were undertaken and by whom? What happened to the characters after the birth?
- Symbols and meaning of Advent: The different meaning for each week of advent. Christmas celebration around the world How do Christians celebrate Christmas? What symbols are common to the world celebrations? What are the similarities and differences with your own Christmas
- The local church at Christmas: The importance of Christmas in the church year Why some people go to church only at Christmas? The role of the church in the community at Christmas
- Significance of light at Christmas: Comparing with other festivals of light What do Christians mean by 'Jesus is the light of the world'?
- The Local church at Christmas: The importance of Christmas in the church year

Why some people go to church only at Christmas? The role of the church in the community at Christmas

- Religious Christmas/ secular Christmas: What does Christmas mean to Christians What are the differences between a religious Christmas and a secular celebration. What are the religious/ secular symbols on cards. Look at religious symbolism, are there any secular symbols
- Christmas through art: Reasons why the nativity is painted in contemporary clothing and settings Differences in the portrayal of the baby What are the colours used to signify? Feelings conveyed by the pictures Comparing artistic interpretation to biblical accounts
- Caring at Christmas: Christmas can be joyful and sad for different people Study of one of the charitable groups and their work at Christmas
- Invisible gifts at Christmas: What makes a good present? Christian belief in God's 'present' to humanity The ultimate Christmas present What sort of wishes are bestowed on people at Christmas?

Recap the story of the nativity with year 5 or 6 A comparison of the Christmas story from different Gospels. Two of the Gospels have a story of the birth of Jesus and both are very different with different emphasis on the characters. How did we get to the Nativity story we know today from these two sources?

Ways to Approach Easter

Easter is the most important of the Christian festivals in the year and defines the Christian belief that Jesus was born to save them. Christians attend church services, sing Easter hymns, give cards, and light candles as symbols of new life.

This story answers the big question for Christians 'Is there life after death?' Christians believe that God came into the world in the person of Jesus and through him living a perfect life his death can take away people's wrongdoing who call on him.

Some schools link spring and new life to Easter but we must be careful that children do not just think of Jesus death in terms of the spring awakening of hibernating animals. Christians believe that Jesus is a special case of someone who died and rose again never to die again, death has given way to the victory of the everlasting goodness of God.

Children should also hear that this is controversial, but it is the central belief of Christianity.

There should be a progression through the school (as at Christmas) so that children do not look at the same aspect of Easter in each class.

For example, from Foundation to year 6 could be:

Easter – The Life of Jesus: To understand the significance of Easter for Christians and to know some of the ways it is celebrated by the faith community. It

Is an opportunity to know some of the key events in the life of Jesus and to recognise some of the ways in which Jesus is important to Christians

The Easter story, Make an Easter Garden.

- Celebration food, what are the origins of a Hot Cross Bun, the Easter egg, Simnel Cake, boiled eggs, Easter Bread. What do Christians do on Easter Day? Why might they be having a feast together? This could also be a visit a church opportunity to understand the significance of Easter for Christians and to know some of the things that happen within a church during Lent, Holy Week and Easter Day.
- Giving, Receiving and Thankfulness, Children to mind map what Easter means to them including what they can remember of the Christian Easter story. Make an Easter display with some Christmas odd one out items.
- Can children distinguish between the two festivals?
- what are the connections between Jesus the baby and Jesus the man?
- Palm Sunday and the disciple's feelings, and their actions. {why did the crowds change their attitude between then and the following Friday?} Interviews with the 'main characters' for a newspaper report.

Palm Sunday commemorates the entrance of Jesus into Jerusalem (Matthew 21:1–9), when palm branches were placed in his path, before his arrest on Holy

Thursday and his crucifixion on Good Friday. Jesus rode into Jerusalem. The crowd Shouts of 'Hosanna'. Waving palms. Jesus as King and Saviour. Make Palm leaves out of green paper. Act out the ride into Jerusalem.

Activity: Greetings. How do we greet a friend? Someone new? Jesus was greeted as a King by the people but also the Pharisees wanted to kill him. Why? The Jewish leaders were angry with him for upsetting their traditions and some of their laws. They looked down on him for eating with sinners and associating with those deemed unclean or unworthy. But most of all, they hated Jesus because he claimed to be from God, and as time went on, dared to make himself equal to God.

Healed on a Holy Day – not allowed in Jewish Law (Luke Ch13, v14) (John Ch5, v10)

Knocked over the tables in the Temple (Matthew Ch 21, v12)

He ate with tax collectors and others that were not seen as good people (Luke Ch5 v30) (Matthew Ch 9, v10)

Jesus came from God. This was seen as hard to believe and offensive by some. (Luke 3, 22), (Mark Ch14, v61)

Discussion - How do you decide if a person is good or not? Words/actions. Kind words, kind actions.

Signs and symbols of Lent - Lent observances around the world- Pre-Lent celebrations around the world. What do Christians do during Lent?

Look at a real Paschal candle. Get a local vicar in to talk about the symbols, Decorate your own candles What is important about the symbol of light? Look at metaphors to do with light. 'It dawned on me'. Look in a local church for signs of sunrise which symbolises the resurrection. Make a 'welcome the new day' banner.

Signs and symbols - Make a three sided 'icon' from card with photographs, memories, a poem or wish for peace. What did Jesus leave us? Words such as leadership, friendship, putting others first, could be beautifully lettered on one side. Decorate a branch with 'new life' leaves which have words (as above or wishes for the future) on them. Use artefacts in a display of contrasts. With Purple background for Good Friday with a crucifix, a crown of thorns, a cross, a closed tomb And a Yellow background for Easter Day with an open tomb, flowers, spring display, Easter cards

- Design an altar cloth for Easter time.
- Design a stole for the vicar at the Easter service.

Sadness and Joy - Crucifixion/Resurrection

Last Supper and Garden of Gethsemane. Children could look at the Stations of the Cross and then make their own set.

- Design an altar cloth for Easter time
- Design a stole for the vicar at the Easter service

To understand why the resurrection so important to Christians

look at a painting depicting part of the Easter story and consider who is in the pictures, what is happening and how it makes you feel.

Look at the picture in the link above. How has the artist chosen to depict the crucifixion? Why have they decided to paint the picture this way? How does it make you feel? Who can you see in the picture? Can you see a soldier? How is he feeling standing guarding Jesus' body?

Who are Jesus' followers? How are they feeling? Can you see Jesus' mother? How is she feeling? Can you see the tomb?

What could appear in the picture just before or just after this one? Write the next part of the story. Pretend to be one of the characters in the picture and write about what you can see and how you are feeling.

Why is the empty tomb so important in the Easter story? What is resurrection? Christians believe that Christ was raised from the dead and that death is not the end.

Can you be a Christian if you don't believe in the Resurrection?

Research what Christians believe about Resurrection. Look at the Apostles creed.

Harvest Ideas for Schools

During the work on harvest the children need to be allowed to reflect and develop a basic knowledge of the ways harvest is celebrated and develop some understanding of why they are celebrated. Also, to reflect on their personal responses and experience of these festivals. Unless the children are given opportunities to reflect on the ‘why’ and ‘how am I affected’ questions the celebration becomes a cultural study rather than a development of RE.

Harvests happen worldwide at different times of the year for different foods. Harvest always involves a celebration of thanks that there is food to eat and an element of sharing with others. In this country the Christian customs for harvest are celebrated sometime between the end of August (fishing harvest in Scotland) and the beginning of October (a grain harvest). Food is brought to Church and thanks given to God. The food is then distributed to the elderly or people in need.

Believers from other faiths give thanks to their God for food at harvest time. The Jewish harvest festival of SUKKOT is also celebrated during the Autumn.

As it is a festival that has the potential of being returned to each year it is wise to focus on different aspects within each year group, for instance:

- Religious Traditions, festivals, celebrations, thanksgiving and praise, witness to beliefs
- Seasons, pattern and change, seeds becoming fruits, sowing and reaping
- Earth’s resources, providing, sustaining, conserving, sharing
- Beliefs, God as a creator, provider, sustainer, Creator and created, Knowing God
- Human beings, self, others in the world, human need and greed
- Human toil and creativity, harvest of the rich and poor, human harvest

The festival and celebration aspect being particularly relevant to the foundation stage.

1. Christian Harvest

Collect can/box labels and look at where our food comes from.

History of harvest – our long holiday stems from the need for all, including children, to gather in the harvest.

Make contact with a local church and help to parcel up the food.

Make labels for the parcels.

Cut out pictures of favourite foods or foods you would have for dinner or a picnic and stick on paper plates for a display.

Make a thank you tree. Either a painted bare tree on the wall or some bare twigs in a pot children draw on a leaf shape something they are thankful for and attach to the branches.

Make paper chains and decorate the classroom/hall. Write what you are thankful for on the links of the paper chains.

Harvest video: <https://www.bbc.co.uk/teach/school-radio/articles/z896qfr>

Summary: The video starts with two boys describing the farm they live on in Cambridgeshire and some of the food they grow there. They talk about the harvest and all the work that is done on the farm during that time. They are joined by other children who then consider the questions: What’s your favourite food? Where does your food come from? What sort of things do farmers in the UK grow? Why is it important to know where your food comes from? Why is Harvest Festival important? Show the video and talk about the questions posed.

Harvest Ideas for Schools

The Food Hub

Do some online research into your local food hub. You may be able to get someone to come from the hub to talk to the children.

Find out what items the food hub needs. Who uses the food hub? How can we support the food hub? Where can people donate?

Design posters to put up around school informing staff and children about the food hub. Include what and where people can donate. Make them eye catching and easy to read.

Be aware that some families may be using the hub. Emphasise that the hub can be used by anyone who needs some extra support and that it isn't a negative thing. You can talk about food/energy bills/etc.

Christian Harvest in Church

A church is central to the Christian faith, and it is where the community comes together to worship and praise God.

The church is:

the place of worship for all Christians

where the community gathers

where works of charity are carried out

a place of healing

Having a place of worship is important for Christians as it provides the opportunity to feel closer to God, to meet other Christians with the same beliefs and to feel like a part of a community of believers who regularly come together to express their faith.

For Christians gathering together as a community for worship is key and based on the Gospel of Matthew. Jesus taught that when people gathered together to worship him, then he would be present. This is one reason why the Catholic faith teaches that Jesus is truly present in the Mass.

For where two or three are gathered in my name, I am there among them.

Matthew 18:20

Let us be concerned for one another, to help one another to show love and to do good. Let us not give up the habit of meeting together, as some are doing. Instead, let us encourage one another all the more, since you see that the Day of the Lord is coming nearer.

Hebrews 10:24-25

Research some Harvest songs/hymns/poems. What do they tell us about why and how Christians celebrate?

Can you write your own poem/song about being thankful? What are you thankful for?

2. Hindu Festivals that celebrate the Harvest

Makar Sankranti is a Hindu festival celebrated on the 14th of January every year. It marks the end of the harvest season and the start of Spring. Farmers celebrate it to thank mother nature for a bountiful crop. In general, it depicts the start of a period of peace, prosperity and goodwill.

- Families get together for fun and frolic on this day. They exchange sweet preparations with each other. Since sugar cane is harvested as the first crop and converted into jaggery, it is used extensively in making sweets for this festival.
- Another ingredient commonly used in the sweet preparations is sesame seeds or til. This is because til generates heat in the body and hence good for winters. Also, sesame seeds are believed to absorb negative energy and give out positive energy.
- Since the day is associated with the start of purity and peace, people take a dip in the holy waters of the Ganges, Yamuna, Krishna, Godavari to purge them of their sins.

Harvest Ideas for Schools

- Kite flying is an important aspect of this festival. As the sun moves towards the north, its rays are said to have a medicinal effect on the body. Hence, people get out in the open to fly kites and receive the healing rays of the sun. In north India, on this day, the sky looks painted in a multitude of colours because of the kites being flown.
- In short, Makar Sankranti is a day of offering gratitude to nature for everything that it has bestowed on us.

- Art ideas make some kites to go on display each child could write what they are thankful for on their
- Hindu Harvest – Pongal The Hindus who celebrate this are celebrating thankfulness for the things their life depend on. New clothes are worn, and unwanted clothes and possessions are thrown or given away. An offering of rice and boiled milk is given to the deity SURYA, the sun God and on the second day of the festival cows are washed and decorated with garlands before a procession which reflects the sacred nature of the cow, and all living things. On the third day visits are made to family and friends.

3. Jewish Harvest - Sukkoth

- Further resource in Year 1 The Jewish harvest celebrated in the Autumn. Jewish people remember the time when they were on their journey out of Egypt to find their new land Israel. During the journey, which is supposed to have lasted forty years, they had no permanent home and lived in temporary tents. To give thanks for their safe journey Jewish people build a Sukkah (or shelter) and live, eat and even sleep in it for seven days. Jewish people gathering their harvest in the autumn build shelters in the fields.
- Visit a local synagogue and look at their Sukkah.

Early Years Guidance

All registered school children, including those in the Foundation stage (excluding nursery settings), must receive Religious Education.

In the Foundation Stage, the aim is to introduce pupils to diverse religious and world beliefs and expressions. This education promotes awareness that many people hold religious beliefs and explores how they express them. Access to a nurturing learning environment is crucial, fostering holistic development in all aspects. This environment should offer a balanced approach across various learning areas. Central to this approach is an ethos that respects each child as an individual, valuing their efforts, interests, and purposes as integral to successful learning.

Foundation - The 7 areas of learning

In early education, seven interconnected areas shape programs. All are vital, but three particularly ignite children's curiosity, enthusiasm, and capacity to learn, form relationships, and thrive.

The prime areas, are:

- Communication and language
- Physical development
- Personal, Social and Emotional development

Providers must also support children in four specific areas, through which the three prime areas are strengthened and applied.

These specific areas are:

- Literacy
- Mathematics
- Understanding the World
- Expressive Arts and Design

The following are particularly relevant to the teaching of RE:

- Understanding the World
- Communication and language development provide children opportunities to experience a diverse language environment, boost their confidence, and hone expressive skills: and to speak and listen in a range of situations.
- Personal, social and emotional development involves helping children to develop a positive sense of themselves, and others: to form positive relationships and develop respect for others: to develop social skills and learn how to manage their feelings: to understand appropriate behaviour in groups: and to have confidence in their own abilities.
- Understanding the world involves guiding children to make sense of their physical world and their community through opportunities to explore, observe and find out about people, places, and the environment.
- Expressive Arts and Design involve enabling children to explore and play with a wide range of media and materials, as well as providing opportunities and encouragement for sharing their thoughts, ideas and feelings through a variety of activities in art, music, movement, dance.

Guidance EYFS Adaptive Teaching Ideas

Sensitivities

- At this age, some children may show signs of SEN but not yet diagnosed.
- Be aware, some/ lots of pupils will need/benefit from some of these adaptations but may not necessarily be SEN.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Adults to support children where possible.
- Consistent visual prompts to be used
- Use choices (starting with between two) when asking some types of questions.
- Use 'identifying' questions rather than longer what/why/when asking targeted questions.

Strategies

- Use real objects or pictures when modelling.
- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in class).
- Ongoing opportunities in provision (i.e. making birthday cards, handling objects, making decorations).
- Use children's own experiences. For example, ask parents to provide. photos of a celebration/ festival etc. and consider displaying this.
- Consider letting children 'experience' some concepts where possible (i.e. create a celebration in your class).
- Use ICT software/ games to reinforce. Sing/learn songs where you can.

Adapted outcomes

- Say 1-2 key words taught.
- Say things personal to them.
- Identify using pictures/continual visual aids as a prompt.
- Take part in activities which support learning throughout provision.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Choose only a few words (2-3).
- Pre teach where possible and reinforce throughout the term.
- Use the same visual aids/ props to support children to learn the words.
- Consider letting children 'experience' the word where possible. For example, create a celebration (if celebration was your chosen key vocab).
- Display key vocab with images (real photos are better) throughout the class over a period of time.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables.
- Explain vocab clearly without introducing.

Adaptive teaching

- Make use of alternative resources such as iPad/ roleplay and make observations.
- Provide opportunities in the provision to reinforce learning over time.
- Draw pictures and adult annotates what has been said.
- Avoid lots of questioning.
- Use visuals (photos are better) on any resource as a prompt.
- Consider breaking a learning objective up and teaching over time.
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable.
- Think about using matching activities.

- Including children with SEN in RE Including pupils with SEN and/or disabilities in primary RE (ioe.ac.uk)

EYFS Roadmap

Caring and Taking Care

This theme should cover several different Creation stories bearing in mind that young children need to have opportunities to recognise their home beliefs reflected in school, different Creation stories may be focused on depending on the faith make-up of the class and the knowledge of the practitioners.

Practitioners should include the Scientific theories about how the World came into being. Children should explore the local environment and how to care for it. They should also explore people who care for each other including those in caring professions and faith leaders.

T2

T3

Festivals and Celebration

This theme includes rules for living in harmony, consideration for others and consideration of one's own actions. It explores how religions are different and yet have similarities as well. It explores the idea of respecting everyone whatever their beliefs.

T1

Growing together

This theme includes rules for living in harmony, consideration for others and consideration of one's own actions. It explores how religions are different and yet have similarities as well. It explores the idea of respecting everyone whatever their beliefs.

EYFS - Festivals & Celebrations

This overarching theme should encompass a variety of festivals, taking into consideration the importance of allowing young children to see elements of their home life mirrored in the school environment. The selection of specific festivals to explore can be tailored based on the religious diversity within the class and the expertise of the educators.

When planning to introduce children to the celebration of different faith festivals the following should be taken into consideration by each setting:

- Festivals should be celebrated at the correct time of year to put them into context and so that children who may be celebrating at home recognise similarities and differences to their own celebrations within the school setting.
- Be aware of the need to avoid racial, cultural and gender stereotyping.
- Teach there are different reasons for celebrations: the birth or death of the founder, new year, the triumph of good, the end of a fast etc.
- Make it clear that the festival belongs to a certain faith group e.g., Purim is a Jewish festival celebrated by Jews.
- Introduce the history/story of the festival at an appropriate level.
- Use correct terminology and religious vocabulary wherever possible.
- Make it clear to the children and their carers that the festival is not being celebrated at the level of the believer.
- Introduce the idea to the children that there is a special dimension to the celebrations if you are a believer of the faith.
- Although all faiths have a time of celebration there is more to belonging to a faith community than taking part in a series of celebrations.
- Bring parents and grandparents in to talk to children about their own celebrations and encourage children of faith to share their own experiences of each festival.
- Festivals often include food as part of the celebration and different faith groups practise different food laws. It is good practise to include cooking and sharing food together. It is important to avoid confusion by ensuring that the food laws of each faith are strictly adhered to. It is also important to check for food allergies when sharing food with the children.
- Lessons should include looking at non-religious festivals also.

Festivals & Celebrations: Why do we Celebrate?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- Find out that people can celebrate in many different ways.
- Know how people celebrate.
- Know why faith communities celebrate particular festivals.

What a child should be able to do: (Assessment)

- Children can talk about a celebration.
- Children can describe key features and facts about the celebration.
- Children can explain why celebrations are important to faith groups.

Background knowledge for teachers:

Religious Education in the Foundation Stage should be a way to introduce pupils to the concept that many people have a religious belief, or no belief, and to some of the ways people express their beliefs.

Sensitivities

Some children such as Jehovah Witnesses do not celebrate birthdays or Christmas.

Questions to consider:

What is a celebration?
Which occasions do we celebrate?
How do people celebrate?
How do faith groups celebrate?
How do people celebrate in the church, Mosque, Gurdwara, synagogue or temple?

Specific Vocabulary:

- Diwali
- Hannukah
- Eid-ul-Fitr
- Christmas

Key words:

- Celebration
- Festival

British Values Addressed

Mutual respect for and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs, and for those without faith.

School Values Addressed

Respect Inclusion
Community
Reflection

Core Concept

What is it like to celebrate a festival as part of belonging to a religious or non-religious group?

AT2

Understand that festivals and celebrations are important to faith groups and those of no faith as a way of bringing people together and creating a sense of belonging.

Key Stage 1 Guidance

In order to deliver the programmes of study, schools will need to devote 5% of curriculum time to RE at Key Stage One which is the equivalent of 36 hours per year.

Statutory requirements at Key Stage One

- The Key Question for lesson which represents the learning objective.
- Harvest, Christmas and Easter in each year –ideas for these are included in the introductory pages.
- At least one visit to a place of worship during the key stage.

Introduction to Key Stage One

- The programmes of study for Key Stage One have been devised to encourage pupils to explore religion as a living, community-based way of life and teaching will be able to reflect the variety of faith and belief traditions within the school and local community.
- Suggested examples/questions for the attainment targets of Learning about religions and other world views and Learning from religions and world views are given within every unit. While facts are important learning from religions and other world views is what makes religious education a fascinating subject.
- The front page of each unit has sections on What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit and What a child should be able to do: (Assessment).

- Using these and the different methods of collecting evidence of assessment, from the Introduction pages, should enable teachers to make assessment judgements.
- Resources are also suggested and 'Resource sheet' indicates a document in the resources section at the end of the units for the year.
- There is also a resources section which has extra general information for teachers of religious education.

Guidance KS1 Adaptive Teaching Ideas

Sensitivities

- At this age, some children may show signs of SEN but not yet diagnosed.
- Be aware, some/ lots of pupils will need/benefit from some of these adaptations but may not necessarily be SEN.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Adults to support children where possible
- Consistent visual prompts to be used
- Use choices (starting with between two) when asking some types of questions
- Use 'identifying' questions rather than longer what/why/when asking targeted questions.

Strategies

- Use real objects or pictures when modelling.
- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in class)
- Ongoing opportunities in provision (i.e. making birthday cards, handling objects, making decorations)
- Use children's own experiences. For example, ask parents to provide photos of a celebration/ festival etc. and consider displaying this .
- Consider letting children 'experience' some concepts where possible (i.e. create a celebration in your class)
- Use ICT software/ games to reinforce . Sing/learn songs where you can.

Adapted outcomes

- Say 1-2 key words taught
- Say things personal to them
- Identify using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt
- Take part in activities which support learning throughout provision.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Choose only a few words (2-3)
- Pre teach where possible and reinforce throughout the term.
- Use the same visual aids/ props to support children to learn the words.
- Consider letting children 'experience' the word where possible. For example, create a celebration (if celebration was your chosen key vocab)
- Display key vocab with images (real photos are better) throughout the class over a period of time.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Explain vocab clearly without introducing

Adaptive teaching

- Make use of alternative resources such as iPad/ roleplay and make observations
- Provide opportunities in the provision to reinforce learning over time
- Draw pictures and adult annotates what has been said
- Avoid lots of questioning
- Use visuals (photos are better) on any resource as a prompt.
- Consider breaking a learning objective up and teaching over time
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Think about using matching activities.

Further help

- Including children with SEN in RE Including pupils with SEN and/or disabilities in primary RE (ioe.ac.uk)
- For a range of games/ clips LGfL Home | LGfL CBeebies festivals clips.

Year 1 - Autumn 1

Why are we Thankful?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- Find out that people can be grateful for family and skills, as well as food.
- Know how people show they are thankful.
- Know why religious people show gratitude to their God for what they have

What a child should be able to do: (Assessment)

- Children can talk about what they could be thankful for.
- Children can describe the things people thank God for.
- Children can explain why faith communities thank God.
- Children can explain what things both religious and non-religious people are grateful for

Background knowledge for teachers:

RE offers children opportunity to learn how to ask questions that don't have an obvious or known answer. Introduction to thinking about who they are grateful to and what they are grateful for. For some this is their family and members of their community, others it is their God. Children will have the chance to explore what they are thankful for in their own life.

Sensitivities

Gratitude and Thankfulness can be directed to a God or higher power or simply to humans, animals etc.

Questions to consider:

What does it mean to be thankful?

Who can we be thankful to?

Why are people thankful for their talents?

What are the many different ways of showing gratitude?

How are we thankful at Harvest?

What are the many ways in which people thank God?

Specific Vocabulary:

- Thankful
- Sukkot
- Pongal

Key words:

Glossary

Year 1 - Autumn 1 Why are we Thankful?

Sukkah	During the journey out of Egypt, which is supposed to have lasted forty years, Jewish people had no permanent home and lived in temporary tents. To give thanks for their safe journey Jewish people build a Sukkah (or shelter) and live, eat and even sleep in it for seven days.
Pongal	Celebrated by Hindus and Tamils in January celebrating thankfulness for the things their life depend on. New clothes are worn and unwanted clothes and possessions are thrown or given away. An offering of rice and boiled milk is given to the deity SURYA, the sun God. On the second day of the festival cows are washed and decorated with garlands before a procession which reflects the sacred nature of the cow, and all living things. On the third day visits are made to family and friends.
Sukkot	An eight day harvest festival celebrating the period when the Israelites lived in the wilderness, also called ‘Tabernacles’.

Assessment Opportunity

- Children can talk about what they should be thankful for.
- Children can describe the things people thank God for.
- Children can explain why faith communities thank God.
- Children can explain what things both religious and non-religious people are grateful for.
- See Assessment section for examples and ideas of how you can collect evidence for this.

Year 1 - Autumn 2

Year 1 - Spring 1

Who is important to you?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- Identify the leader/founder of each religion.
- Recall some key facts about each leader/founder.
- Observe some of the qualities a leader needs.

What a child should be able to do: (Assessment)

- Children should be able to name each leader and state some facts about them.
- Children should be able to identify the qualities of a leader with reference to religious or secular figures.

Background knowledge for teachers:

Children will be exploring the founders/leaders of the four religions studied in KS1. Christianity: Jesus: Islam: Muhammed : Hinduism: Krishna: Judaism: Moses. Humanism (a non-religious worldview) does not have a single founder, but first came to prominence in 14th century Northern Italy. Prof Alice Roberts is a current, prominent Humanist. They will learn a little about each of their background and teachings: and begin to discover the qualities a leader needs.

Specific Vocabulary:

- Aum, Miracle, Hadith

Key words:

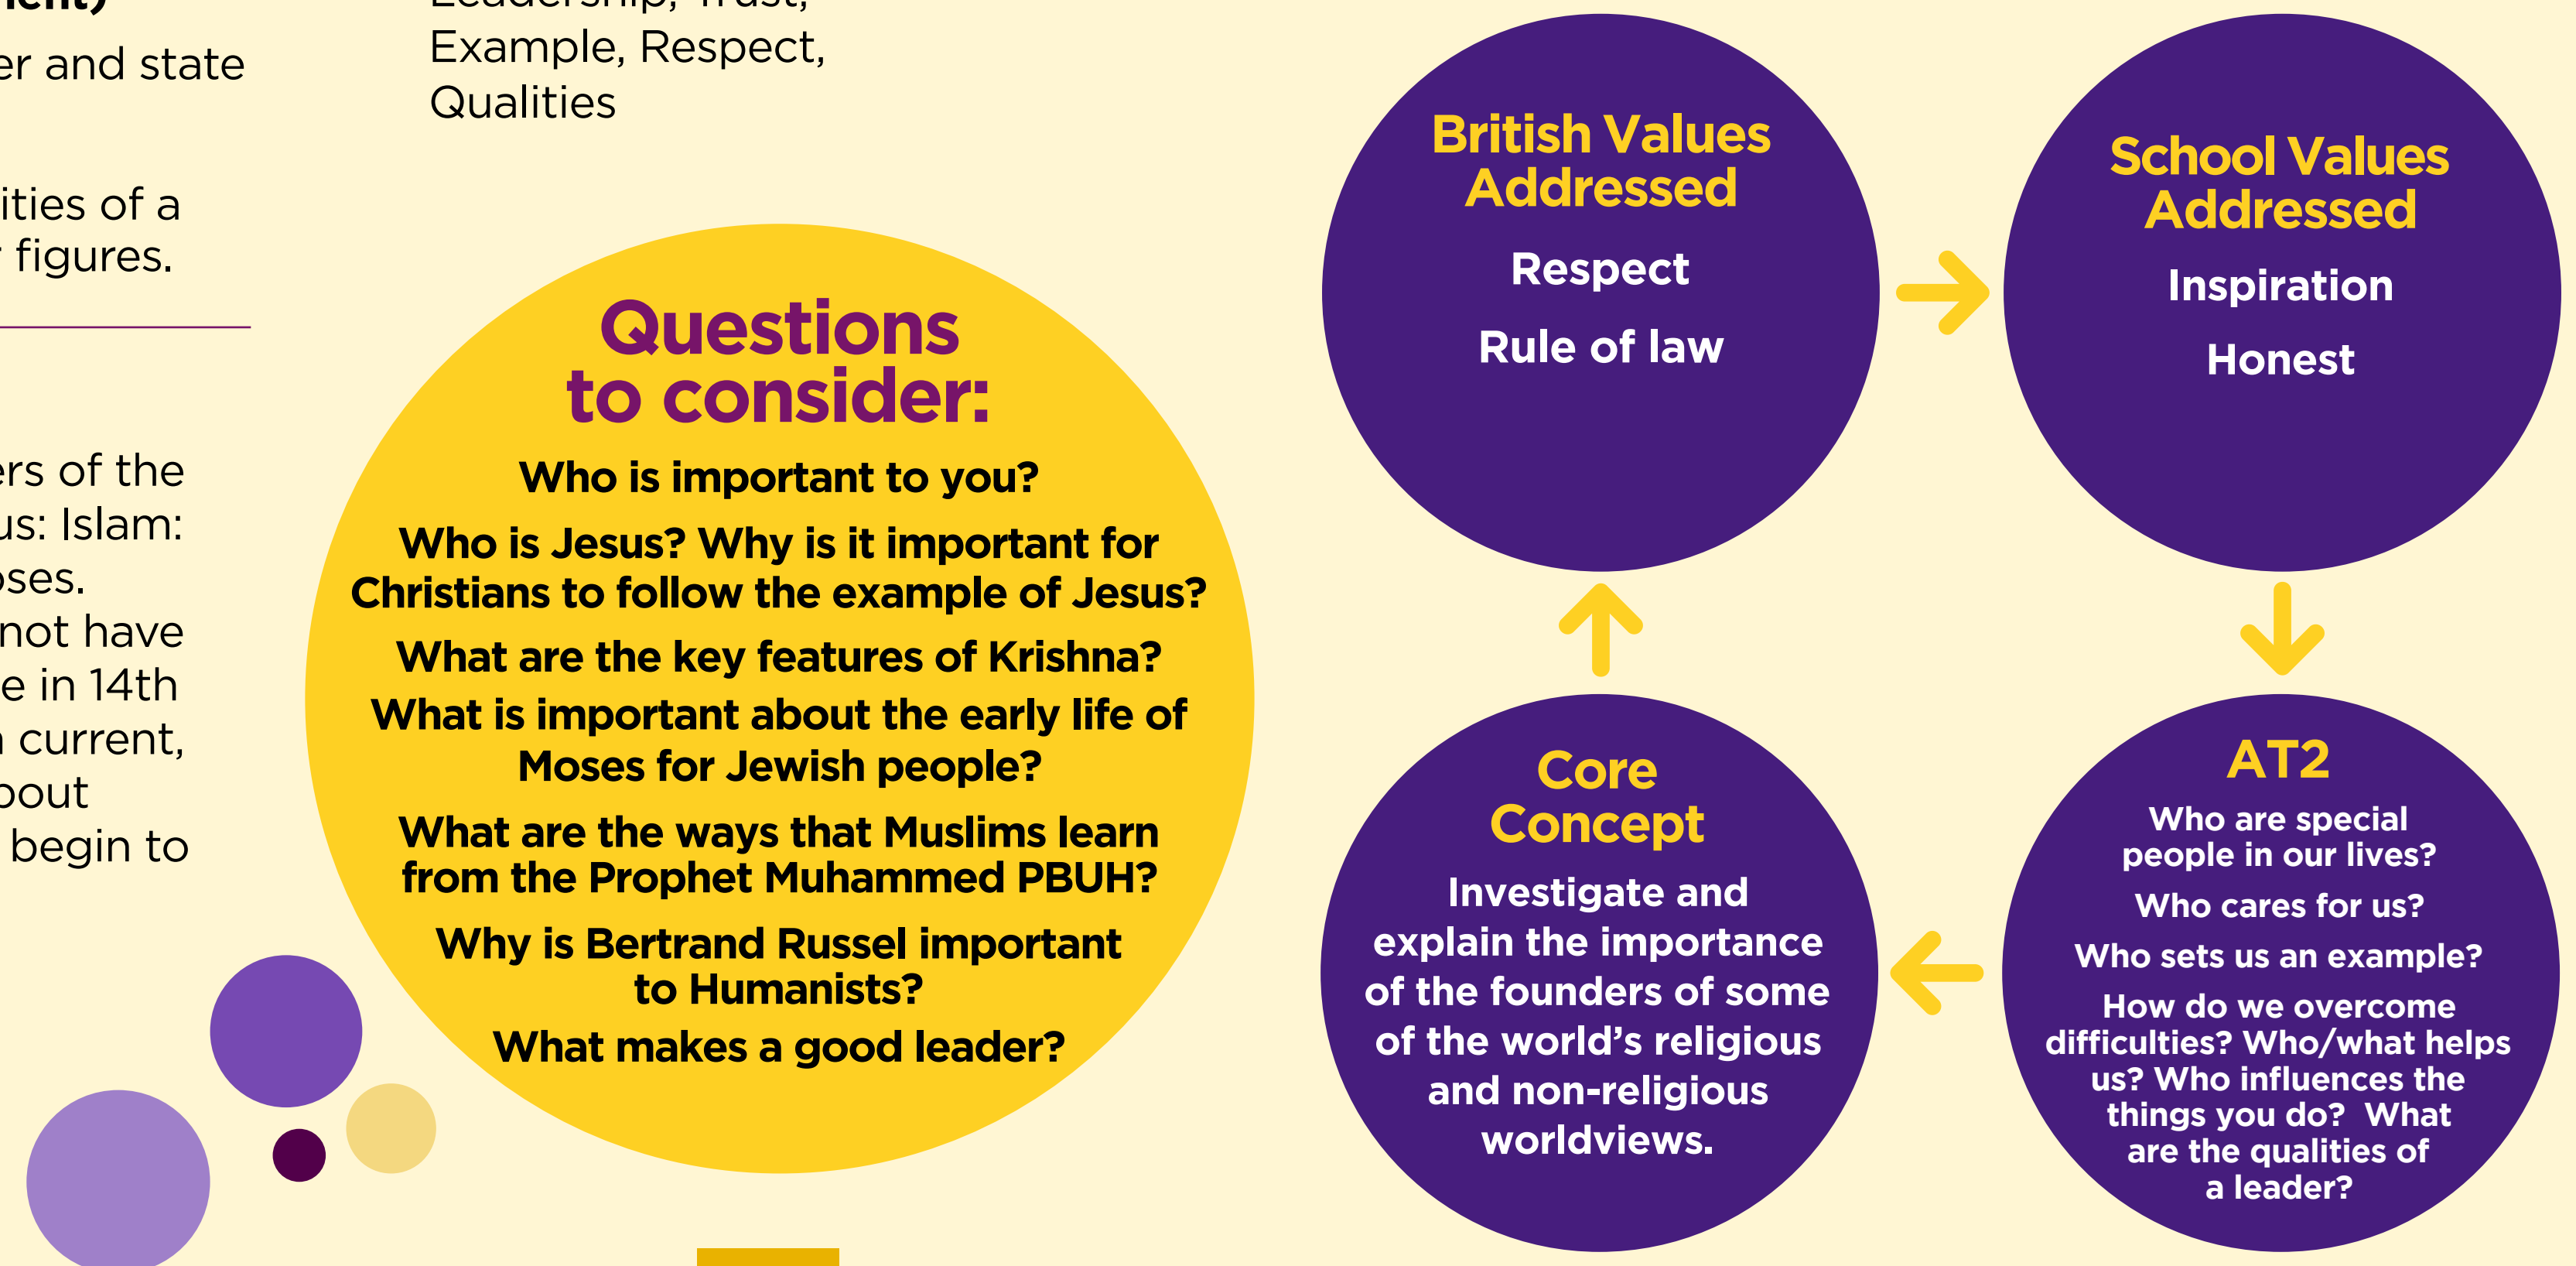

- Authority, Leadership, Trust, Example, Respect, Qualities

Prior knowledge

- During EYFS children will have explored many of the festivals and celebrations across the year and touched on beliefs.
- In Aut 1 they will have studied places of worship and encountered these figures.

Sensitivities

Teachings of each religious leader need to be treated with respect. Visual depictions of certain religious leaders are not appropriate or acceptable (Muhammed)

Investigating Facts and beliefs about God

Religions have teachings which tell which beliefs should be accepted by followers who want to belong to the faith group.

Beliefs cannot generally be proved while facts can be proved. For instance, there is historical evidence that Jesus was a real person, but Christians believe he was the Son of God.

There are many different reasons why we believe in something. Sometimes it's because we have been told: sometimes because we've experienced it: sometimes because we feel it: or sometimes because we've seen it.

Write out the following filling in the blanks.

I believe my name is	I believe this to be true because
I believe the best football team is	I believe this to be true because
I believe there is/is not a God	I believe this to be true because
I believe water freezes and becomes ice	I believe this to be true because
I believe when it rains, I become wet	I believe this to be true because
I believe it's important not to steal	I believe this to be true because
I believe the Bible is a special book for Christians	I believe this to be true because

Which of the beliefs above do you think all the class would agree with?

Now think of something you consider to be true and why

I believe my name is	I believe this to be true because

Features of Lord Krishna

Lord Krishna is an avatar, Krishna, by many authorities in Hinduism, is regarded as the original form of God. Krishna is a popular deity: he reminds Hindus of their responsibilities and expects people to contribute to a well-ordered society by putting others before themselves. He also reminds them that God's creation is theirs to enjoy responsibly while also having fun.

There are many stories of him from childhood to the saga of the Bhagavad Gita and his teachings and help to Arjuna. He is a guide and support and teaches not to be narrow in our views and opinions, that distinctions are not relevant to the development of an everyday understanding of what to do and how to live in this world.

Children should be taught that deities, especially Krishna, are often depicted as being blue in colour because that makes them more beautiful.

- Krishna wants a special close relationship with all those who worship him.
- Examples of stories that show Krishna's character well.
- Krishna and the Gopis
- The Kaliya Serpent.
- Krishna and the Buttermilk

Krishna and the Serpent

One day the cowherds took the calves to the Jamuna River. They were very hot and thirsty, and all quickly bent to drink the water but immediately collapsed onto the ground. What they didn't know was that deep in the water lived a horrible hundred-headed snake called Kaliya. He had polluted the river and all the grass and trees, except one, had shrivelled up and died. Krishna and his brother Balaram came past and saw all their friends lying as if dead.

Krishna quickly climbed the only tree that was left growing and from high up he could see the snake lying in the middle of the water. He tied his belt to the top branch of the Kadamba tree and leapt from the top. He landed with a huge splash and attracted the snake's attention. 'Why are you disturbing me?' hissed the snake and started to fight with Lord Krishna and winding him up in his huge coils. For hours they fought with each other, and all the villagers came to watch. Some were almost frightened to death because the snake fought so fiercely, and the earth trembled, and meteors fell from the sky.

Every time Krishna was caught in the snake's coils, he expanded his body and quickly contracted again so he could slip out of the coils. The serpent's eyes glowed red and he spat poison from his hundred heads and tried to sink his fangs into Krishna's body. Lord Krishna smiled and danced from head-to-head crushing the snake, until he had to admit defeat. Other snakes, Kaliya's wives, came out to beg Krishna to show mercy. 'Take your wives and family and go and live in the ocean. Never come back to this river again.' Said Lord Krishna. 'I have lived here because I am afraid of the king of the birds, the great eagle called Garuda. I knew he would not kill me here but if I go to the ocean he will surely swoop down and eat me.' Said Kaliya.

Krishna told him that he would be safe because Garuda would see the marks of his feet on Kaliya's heads and would know not to hurt him. So Kaliya and his wives and family went to live in the ocean. Lord Krishna went to the riverbank and touched all the cowherds and the calves. His touch brought them back to life and everyone who had watched the fight praised Krishna for his great bravery and the happy ending he had brought about.

(A longer version of this story and other stories about Krishna can be found in Vedic stories, A Das. ISBN 0952749211.

Sayings from the Hadith

Hadith are the sayings and teachings of Muhammed . He stressed the equality and the responsibility of each individual to the community and lived by the correct conduct and customs as revealed to him by the angel sent by Allah.

- Have sincerity in your actions
- Be Truthful
- Show mercy to others and you will receive their mercy
- Avoid anger, save yourself from jealousy
- One who encourages others to do good deeds is like one who performs them
- Avoid going into debt
- Treat others with the best manners
- One who makes false accusations will not enter paradise

The Hadith is a form of authority for Islam which is second only to the Qur'an.
Look at the sayings from the Hadith and think how they would guide your actions.

The Two Brothers

There were once two brothers who were Muslims. One of them was married with children and one was single.

They lived on a farm that they both owned and shared things equally between them. One night the married brother was counting his blessings and thinking about the harvest. He thought about his brother who had no wife to care for him or children of his own to make him happy. He decided to give him a treat and crept out into the night and moved 6 sacks of grain from his store into his brother's store.

On the same night the unmarried brother was lying awake and thinking about how his brother had a wife and children to feed and that he should really have a larger share of the farms' produce. He knew his brother would feel embarrassed, so he crept out into the night and moved 6 sacks from his store into his brother's storehouse.

They were both very surprised in the morning to find they each had as many sacks as they had started with. Neither of them ever mentioned it to the other as they didn't want to show off about their generous thoughts.

- What does the story tell you about the brothers?
- What does the story tell you about the teachings of Islam?
- Illustrate the story in comic book form.
- Write your own story using this concept.
- How could the brothers have shown further respect for each other?

Wanted – A Disciple

- Discuss the children's ideas about Jesus and the sort of person he was.
- Emphasise that he was a good person who preached that people should be kind to each other and their enemies.
- Leaders in those days were expected to be warlike and to fight their enemies.
- Brainstorm ideas about what makes a good person:
- Who do you look up to?
- Who are your role models?
- What sort of person would you follow?
- Listen to the story of how he called the Disciples (Mark 1:14-20, Luke 6:12-16)
- Would children give up their lifestyle to follow someone?
- Find out about the former lifestyles of the twelve
- Make a shield for each disciple to display
- Look at The Miracle Maker.
- Use the worksheet: What would you think if you had heard Jesus' preaching?
- What would you say if Jesus asked you to come and be a disciple?

Year 1 - Spring 2 - Resource Sheet

Krishna and Draupadi

One Day Krishna and his sister were getting ready to go somewhere very special. His sister had put on her best Sari which had a beautiful border of gold thread at the bottom. She had so looked forward to this outing as it had meant at last that she was able to wear her Sari for the first time.

Krishna was in the kitchen waiting for his sister. It was a hot day, and the journey was going to be long so he thought it would be a good idea to cut some fruit off the tree. He reached for the knife but suddenly shrieked with pain. The knife had cut his arm, and he was bleeding badly.

Krishna's sister heard the scream and ran into the kitchen straight away. When she saw the injury, she immediately ran over to Krishna – but then stopped suddenly. What should she do – Krishna needed her help but if she got blood on her new Sari, she would not be able to wear it that day. Straight away she said 'Krishna, please don't worry, I must go and change out of my Sari into old clothes then I will come back to see to your arm.'

As she went to change, Krishna's friend, Draupadi, came into the house. She too had a beautiful new Sari on but as soon as she saw the wound, she ripped off the bottom part of her Sari and wrapped it around the injured arm. Krishna thanked his friend: he realised what a sacrifice she had made to make him feel better and how she had acted as a 'true sister.'

Raksha Bandhan

Raksha means protection and Bandhan means to tie. The sister ties the bracelet round the brothers wrist and he promises to protect her.

This Hindu Festival is used to illustrate part of the question 'Who is a friend'.

A good start to this unit is through Attainment Target 2 with general discussions about the nature of friendship and its symbols and feelings. There are a number of suggestions in the syllabus for questions and activities.

Then using Attainment Target 1 you can focus in on the festival of Raksha Bandan and how it shows us friendship.

Starting with a story is the simplest method and there are various versions of the story to be found. ('Krishna and Draupadi', 'Celebrate: Hindu Festivals', 'Festivals: Hindu Festivals')

Some subsequent activities could include:

- Exploring a range of different Rakhi and noting the symbols on them, leading to an understanding of the symbols in worship.
- Making a Rakhi and discussing the feelings that Hindu children are expressing when they perform the ceremony.
- Looking at A Rakhi Tray.
- Exploring symbols found on Raksha Bandhan cards Look at messages in the cards
- Look at pictures or a murti of Krishna and discuss the importance of Krishna to Hindus.
- Listen to some more stories about his life,

Shabbat

Learning outcomes

To recognise the importance of the home and family for Jewish people. To understand the terms Sabbath and Shabbat. Alongside work in the classroom on special days or the Sabbath the role play area could be used as a Jewish home.

Resources

- Usual home corner equipment with cooker removed or covered. A film case or small square box, labelled Mezuzah stapled to the entrance.
- Put three silver stars high up on wall above house to represent the stars that start and end the Sabbath.
- Scarves for girls, 'best' dressing up clothes.
- A white cloth or large sheet of white paper for the table.
- Tape of Shabbat songs.
- Two candle sticks and candles. Children could make these from cotton reels or thick card rolls covered in foil or painted silver. Candles could be made from thinner card rolls painted yellow with yellow paper in the top, when the candles are lit the paper is pulled up and when unlit the paper is pushed down again.
- A collecting box decorated and labelled charity or TZEDAKAH BOX and some toy money.
- A wine cup, made from a desert pot painted silver.
- Braided Challah bread, made from plaited yellow play dough.
- Challah covers. Use paper fringed at each end, children to design (patterns /pictures of candles and broken bread) and colour using wax crayons.
- Table decorations, made from paper flowers and pretend candles
- Wine coasters, Draw round circles, cut out and colour.
- Havdallah candle, three strips of coloured paper plaited together with yellow paper flame on top.
- Havdallah spice box, decorated cardboard box with a little cinnamon or a few cloves sealed inside.
- Fishing game. Decorated paper fish with words/ sounds on one side and a paper clip on the top, children go fishing using a magnet, if they can read the word they keep the fish.

Activities

- Make all the resources indicated to the left.
- Write or draw on a small strip of paper an example of good behaviour or kindness that the children need to remember. Put these into the 'mezuzah'.
- Write a simple prayer of thanks for the world around us.
- Draw a picture representing something to be thankful for.
- Tidy the area and lay the table for the group.
- Put some play money in the charity box, write a note of how much is collected and what charity it might go to.
- Act out the breaking of bread and lighting the candles.
- Pretend to have a family meal all sitting at the table.
- Play the fishing game to represent the fish that is often eaten.
- Play 'Hunt the spice box'.
- Act out the end of Shabbat using the Havdallah candle and spice box.

Verses from the Qur'an

Look at the verses of the Qur'an and reflect upon their importance to the Muslim way of life.

Respect/Good Conduct

19.76 And Allah doth advance in guidance those who seek guidance: and the things that endure, Good Deeds, are best in the sight of thy Lord, as rewards, and best in respect of their eventual return. 35.31 That which We have revealed to thee of the Book is the truth, – confirming what was revealed before it: for Allah is assuredly- with respect to His servants – well acquainted and fully observant.

Cleanliness/hygiene

5.6 O ye who believe! When you prepare for prayer, wash your faces, and your hands (and arms) to the elbows: Rub your heads (with water): and (wash) your feet to the ankles. If ye are in a state of ceremonial impurity, bathe your whole body.... But if ye can find no water, then take for yourself clean sand or earth, and rub therewith your faces and hands. Allah doth not wish to place you in a difficulty, but to make you clean, and to complete his favour to you, that ye may be grateful.

Patience

3.200 O ye who believe! Persevere in patience and constancy: vie in such perseverance: strengthen each other: and fear Allah, that ye may prosper. 11.115 Not so do those who show patience and constancy and working righteousness: for them is forgiveness and a great reward. 16.126 And if ye punish, let your punishment be proportional to the wrong that has been done to you: but if ye show patience, that is indeed the best for those who are patient.

Charity

2.110 And be steadfast in prayer and regular in charity: And whatever good ye send forth for your souls before you, ye shall find it with Allah, for Allah sees well all that ye do. 2.277 Those who believe, and do deeds of righteousness, and establish regular prayers and regular Zakat (charity) will have their reward with their Lord: On them shall be no fear, nor shall they grieve.

5.45 We ordained therein for them: "Life for life, eye for eye, nose for nose, ear for ear, tooth for tooth, and wounds equal for equal." But if anyone remits the retaliation by way of charity, it is an act of atonement for himself. And if any fail to judge by the light of what Allah hath revealed, they are wrong-doers.

Diet

Forbidden to you are: dead meat, blood, the flesh of swine, and that on which hath been invoked the name of other than Allah: that which hath been killed by strangling, or by a violent blow, or by a headlong fall, or by being gored to death: that which has been eaten by a wild animal: unless ye are able to slaughter it: that which is sacrificed on stone altars: forbidden also is the division of meat by raffling with arrows: that is impiety. This day have those who reject faith given up all hope of your religion: Yet fear them not but fear Me. This day I have perfected your religion for you, completed my favour on you, and have chosen for you Islam as your religion. But if any is forced by hunger, with no inclination to transgression, Allah is indeed Oft-forgiving, Most

Year 1 - Summer 2 - Resource Sheet

The 5 Pillars of Islam

The Muslim religion is like a shelter held up by five pillars:

1Shahadah

the declaration of faith

2Salah

prayers which are said 5 times a day

3Zakat

giving and the purification of wealth

4Sawm

fasting from dawn to dusk during Ramadan

5Hajj

a pilgrimage to the Holy city of Makkah at least once

Can you draw 5 pillars holding up a house?

The 5 Pillars of Islam

The dart board can be used in many ways for the purposes of group discussion and categorising things in order of importance.

In groups children decide which is most important to least important for hindus. Put on the Dartboard as appropriate and talk about why they think this.

Guidance KS1 Adaptive Teaching Ideas

Sensitivities

- At this age, some children may show signs of SEN but not yet diagnosed.
- Be aware, some/ lots of pupils will need/benefit from some of these adaptations but may not necessarily be SEN.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Adults to support children where possible
- Consistent visual prompts to be used
- Use choices (starting with between two) when asking some types of questions
- Use 'identifying' questions rather than longer what/why/when asking targeted questions.

Strategies

- Use real objects or pictures when modelling.
- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in class)
- Ongoing opportunities in provision (i.e. making birthday cards, handling objects, making decorations)
- Use children's own experiences. For example, ask parents to provide photos of a celebration/ festival etc. and consider displaying this .
- Consider letting children 'experience' some concepts where possible (i.e. create a celebration in your class)
- Use ICT software/ games to reinforce . Sing/learn songs where you can.

Adapted outcomes

- Say 1-2 key words taught
- Say things personal to them
- Identify using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt
- Take part in activities which support learning throughout provision.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Choose only a few words (2-3)
- Pre teach where possible and reinforce throughout the term.
- Use the same visual aids/ props to support children to learn the words.
- Consider letting children 'experience' the word where possible. For example, create a celebration (if celebration was your chosen key vocab)
- Display key vocab with images (real photos are better) throughout the class over a period of time.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Explain vocab clearly without introducing

Adaptive teaching

- Make use of alternative resources such as iPad/ roleplay and make observations
- Provide opportunities in the provision to reinforce learning over time
- Draw pictures and adult annotates what has been said
- Avoid lots of questioning
- Use visuals (photos are better) on any resource as a prompt.
- Consider breaking a learning objective up and teaching over time
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Think about using matching activities.

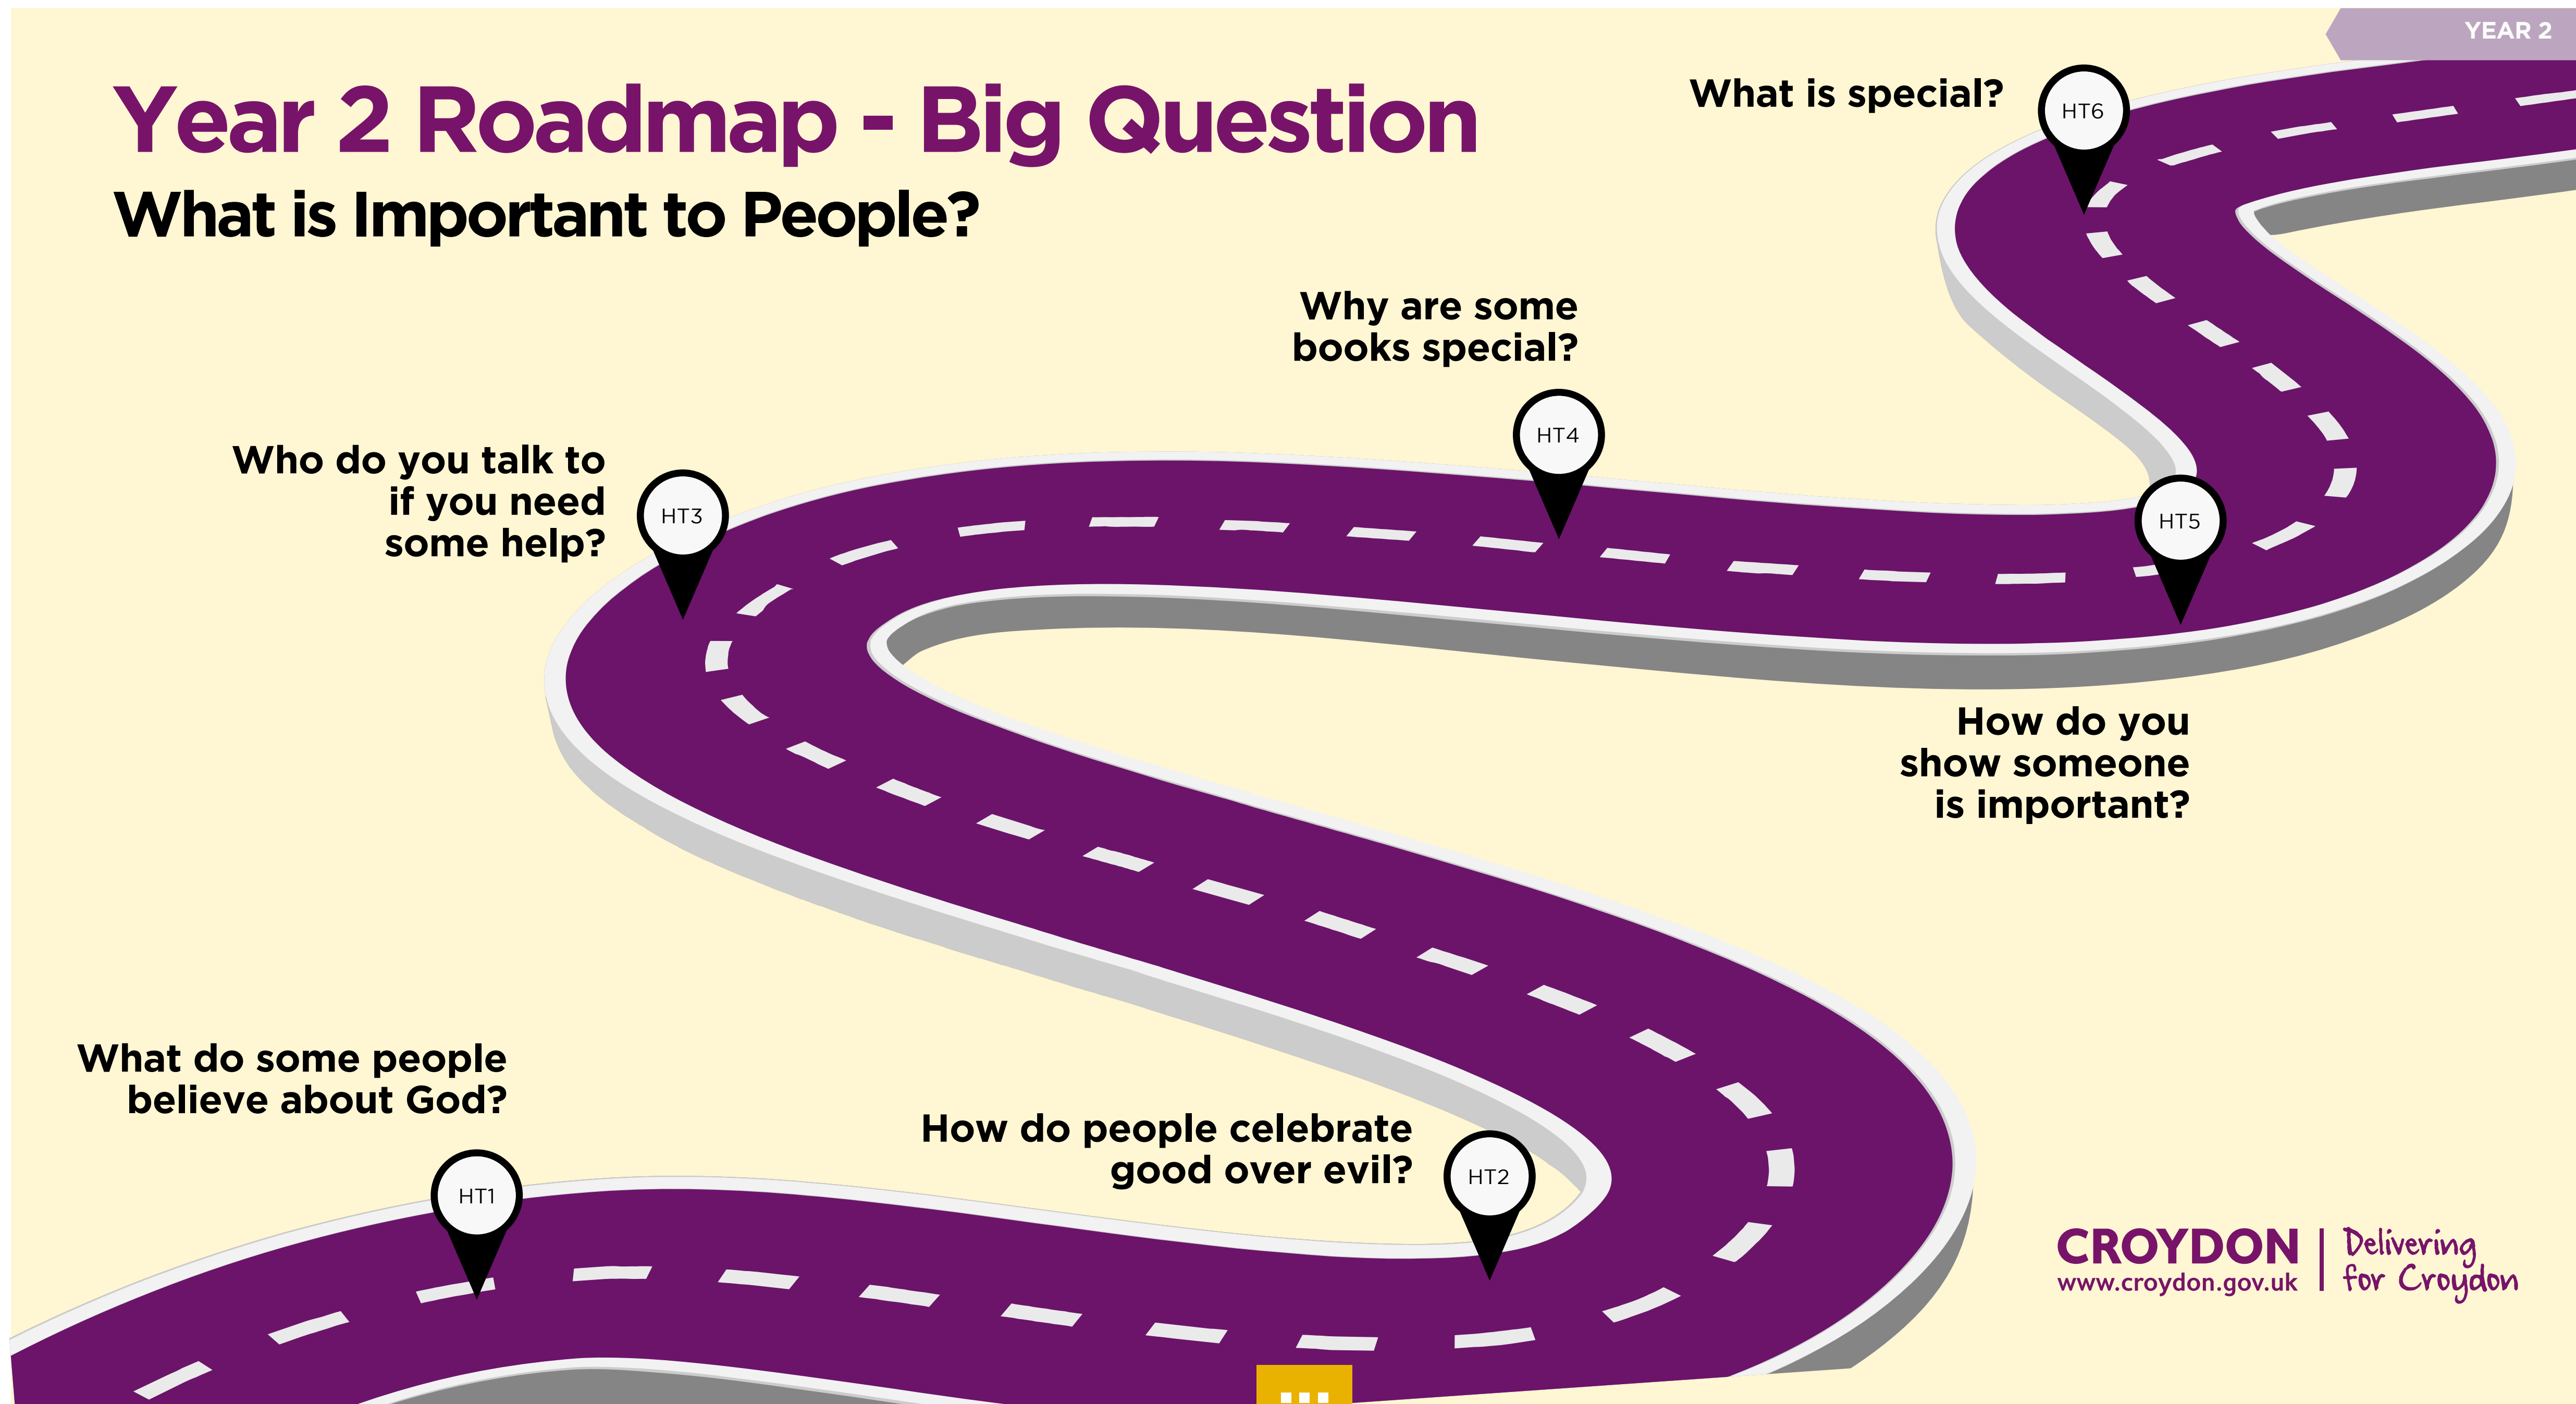

Further help

- Including children with SEN in RE Including pupils with SEN and/or disabilities in primary RE (ioe.ac.uk)
- For a range of games/ clips LGfL Home | LGfL CBeebies festivals clips.

What is Important to People?

Year 2 - Autumn 1 - What is important to people?

What do some people believe about God?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- Children consider what is important to them, what do they believe in.
- Learn about what each of the four featured religions believes about a deity
- Reflect on why people believe in God and why they don't.

What a child should be able to do: (Assessment)

- Children can say what many people think about God.
- Children can describe what is similar about the beliefs in God from the religions studied.
- Children can discuss similarities and differences from religion.

Background knowledge for teachers:

Jews believe in one God. Muslims believe in one God. Christians believe in one God and Jesus is his son. Hindus believe in one God who has numerous manifestations. Atheism is an absence of belief in any Gods. Nonreligious world views, ie Humanism, are atheists.

Specific Vocabulary:

Attributes of Allah

- Islam is an Arabic word which means 'peace, submission and obedience'.
- Followers of Islam are called Muslims. Muslim means 'one who has submitted to God'.
- The Arabic word for God is Allah.
- The central belief of Islam is the existence of Allah. The universe exists because Allah brought it into existence. Allah is neither male nor female.
- 'Allah is one, the eternal God. He begot none, nor is He begotten. None is equal to Him.
- Holy Qur'an.' Surah 112
- 'He is Allah, the One, Allah is Eternal and Absolute. None is born of him, He is unborn. There is none like unto Him.' Holy Qur'an.
- Surah112
- Muslims try to understand Allah through his qualities and

Task 1

Children can brainstorm other names they know for God e.g. Brahman, Waheguru, God, Yaweh

Task 2

Look at the sheet of 99 names. Look up the meaning of some in a dictionary. What would Allah do to show the characteristic?

Task 3

Look at a suba, Muslim prayer beads which have 99 beads one for each of Allah's names

Task 2

Write the name on a card with the characteristic on the other side and hang up round the room.

Explaining Brahman - Teachers notes

‘There is only one God, who resides deep inside all objects and beings. He is everywhere and the inner self of all’. (Svetashvatara Upanishad 6: 11)

God is like the root of a tree — by doing good things you serve God who is at the root of everything.

‘That which is one, the wise call by many names. (Rig Veda)

These words sum up the basis of what is believed by most Hindus about the nature of the Supreme Being known as Brahman.

He is unlimited, the source and power of all life (omnipotent) and is all- knowing (omniscient).

Hindus also describe Brahman as the ultimate reality which pervades the universe and is within everything (omnipresent).

The atman (real self or soul) in all living things is a tiny fragment of Brahman and is eternal.

Many Hindus believe that when they reach moksha (their final liberation) they will be reunited with God.

The universe is constantly going through the pattern of birth, growth, and death. The three most important functions of God within this world relate to this continuous cycle of life.

These three have corresponding Deities known together as the Trimurti and are represented by Brahma (not to be confused with Brahman) as the creator, Vishnu the preserver and Shiver the destroyer.

The Trimurti are believed to control the three qualities of goodness, passion and ignorance which permeate and regulate all matter. God has many ways of acting and being known, he creates new worlds and universes in the form of Brahma. Without Gods actions life could not continue, when evil threatens the world Vishnu comes to fight it. He has come ten times in different forms called Avatars, two of these have been Krishna and Rama.

When the world and the universe have come to an end God takes the form of Shiva who destroys the old so new life can grow.

The Blind men and The Elephant

Once upon a time there were six wise men who lived together in a small town. The six wise men enjoyed discussing the ways of the world but they were all blind.

One day an elephant was brought to town. The six wise men wanted to see the elephant, but how could they?

“I know”, said the first man “we will feel it”.

“Good idea”, said the others. “then we will know what an elephant is like”.

So, the six men went to see the elephant.

The first one touched the elephant’s big, flat ear. He felt it move slowly back and forth. “The elephant is like a fan”, he cried.

The second man was feeling the elephant’s big strong legs. “He is like a tree”, he cried.

“You’re both quite wrong”, said the third man who was feeling the elephant’s tail. “It is quite obviously like a piece of rope”.

Just then the fourth man pricked himself on the elephant’s sharp tusk. “Oh, the elephant is like a sharp spear”. He cried out.

“No, no,” cried the fifth wise man, who was feeling along the elephant’s side as he spoke. “He’s like a high wall”.

The sixth man was holding the elephant’s trunk. “You are all wrong, the elephant is quite like a snake”, he said. “No, no, like a rope”, “Snake”, “Wall”, “Fan”, “Tree” “Spear”, “You’re wrong” “I’m right”

The six men shouted at each other for an hour, and they never found out what an elephant was like.

The Puja Ceremony

The Puja ceremony is performed at the home shrine, or Grumandir, and at the Mandir. It involves all the senses. The Puja tray is an important part of the home shrine.

The home shrine is generally found in a quiet part of the Hindu home. On the shrine there will generally be pictures or murtis of the favourite household deities.

There may be a picture of a Hindu saint or teacher. The Hindu symbol AUM and possibly a book of Hindu scripture such as the Bhagavad Gita. Fruit or nuts to offer to the deity. Mala or prayer beads.

It is decorated with garlands and tinsel and will have a wall hanging and pictures hanging up.

The Puja Tray contains:

- A pot of Kum Kum powder – for putting a red mark on the forehead of the deity and worshipper to symbolise good health.
- A bell – to alert the deity to the presence of the worshipper.
- An incense stick holder – to make a pleasant smell for the deity
- A pot of water or milk – a symbol of purity to wash the deity.
- A spoon – to offer the milk or water to the deity and the worshipper.
- A diva – to symbolise enlightenment, to show a knowledge of what is good.

Questions

Which of the senses relates to which object?

- The worship starts with the bell being rung to wake the deity, the diva and the incense is lit and offerings of fruit or nuts are made.
- Arti, or hymns, may be sung and prayers are said. The deity is washed and the kum kum powder is used.
- The worshipper may use the mala to help with meditation or may meditate on a picture on the shrine.
- Reading from the sacred writings may also be part of the worship.
- It is easy to turn the role play area into a Hindu home with a home shrine.
- Groups of children could make items for a mini shrine in a box, alternatively the children could bring in their own precious objects and make a class shrine of these.

Story of Bilal

Bilal was an African slave who live in Makkah. His master worshipped many Gods and, as a slave, Bilal was supposed to do the same. However, he heard Muhammed preaching and was moved to believe in the one God, Allah.

His master, Ummaya, was angry and punished Bilal in all sorts of ways, including putting him into an iron suit and leaving him in the blazing sun. Bilal kept repeating 'One God. There is no God, but Allah and Muhammed (PBUH) is His messenger'.

As he was about to die, he was rescued by Abu Bakr, Muhammed's closest friend, and made a free man. He spent all his time with Muhammed and his companions learning about Islam.

When the Muslims moved to Madinah the first Mosque was built. People went there to pray but were often late, as there was no way to call them to prayer. One night one of Muhammed's close friends had a dream in which a man wearing green clothes said the following words from the roof of the Mosque and after began to pray:

- God is most great
- God is most great
- God is most great
- God is most great
- I testify that there is no god but God
- There is no god but God
- There is no god but God

- I testify that Muhammed is God's Messenger
- I testify that Muhammed is God's Messenger
- Come to prayer
- Come to prayer
- Come to salvation
- Come to salvation
- God is most great
- God is most great
- There is no god but God
- There is no god but God

When Muhammed heard about the dream, he agreed that it had been a vision. He chose Bilal to be the one to call the people to prayer, as he said he was a man of paradise and had a strong, sweet voice. He was the first muezzin and the call to prayer is called the adhan.

All mosques have a tower, called a minaret, at the side from where the people are called to prayer five times a day.

Year 2 - Spring 1 - Resource Sheet

What Helps people to pray

Prayer can take the form of:

- A conversation with your God
- Thankfulness
- Supplication
- Meditation
- Adoration

Questions to ask

- What is prayer?
- What is the purpose of prayer?
- Is it important to pray?
- What sort of people pray?
- What do they say/do and how do they pray?
- How many times and when do people pray?
- How does prayer or time to reflect improve the quality of a person?
- Do we need quiet times during the day?
- What sort of situations might make you want to pray?
- Do you need special places to go to, to pray or think?
- Is prayer a personal or communal activity?

General Activities

- Could a piece of writing, a picture or music be the basis of a prayer or inspire prayer?
- Look at pictures and respond in discussion and written work
- Paint own picture or abstract to show prayer
- Make a montage of pictures as a stimulus for prayer
- Listen to music and write down ideas that come into your mind
- Read or listen to poetry and discuss whether it could be used as a prayer or provoke prayerful thoughts
- Younger children could listen to stories about special, secret places
- Look at stories of Saints, how did their prayer and devotion change their lives.
- Make a prayer tree or a thought tree.
- Use some brick effect wallpaper to make a prayer or thought wall
- Look at pictures of people who are praying
- and discuss why they are, pictures of people at football matches, war memorials, the Wailing wall are particularly good.
- Make a Buddhist prayer flag or tie thoughts to a tree or bush in the playground.

Judaism - The Torah

The most important Holy writings are called the Tenakh, this name is made up of,

Te: Torah The five books of Moses

Na: Nevi'im The writings of the prophets

Kh: Kentuvim Psalms, Proverbs and Job

The word Torah means teaching, instruction, and law and is most important. It contains the books of Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy. It is the word of God and treated with honour and respect. The message given to Moses and the rules for living are within the Torah. The Talmud explains how to follow them.

There are 613 mitzvot, laws, 365 negative and 248 positive commandments, from which the Ten commandments come..

The Torah is written in Hebrew on a parchment scroll by a scribe, or sofer, and wound round two wooden rollers. It must not have any mistakes and when read a Yad or pointer is used as the scroll must not be touched. In the synagogue it is the most sacred object and is dressed in special cloth and kept in a cupboard called the Holy Ark. The Sefer Torah is read at the synagogue during worship, the annual cycle of reading is celebrated at Simchat Torah when the last part of Deuteronomy is read and the first part of Genesis is started again. It is also studied in the home.

The most important part of the Torah is the Shema, from Deuteronomy 6:4-9, a statement of the faith of the Jews. It is put in a tefillin, a box, which is strapped to the forearm and forehead during prayer by some Jews. The Shema is also found in the Mezuzah, a special container found on the doorposts of Jewish homes.

The Talmud, or oral law, is made up of the Mishnah, the first writing of the oral law and the Gemara, which is a commentary on the Mishnah.

- Look at the Shema and discuss why it is important to Jews.
- Link the 10 commandments to the rules found in other Holy writings.
- Make a class Mezuzah containing a statement of intent by each child.
- Visit a synagogue and see the Sefer Torah

Key Stage 2 Guidance

To deliver the programmes of study schools will need to devote 5% of curriculum time to RE at Key Stage Two which is the equivalent of 45 hours per year.

Statutory requirements at Key Stage Two:

- The Key questions for the lesson which are the learning objectives of faiths and beliefs to be studied.
- At least two visits to a place of worship during the key stage.
- Coverage of Harvest, Christmas, and Easter for KS2 pupils in each year. There is information on different ways to celebrate these in the Introduction pages. This will ensure progression.
- The programmes of study for Key Stage Two have been devised to encourage pupils to explore religion and belief as a living community-based way of life and to celebrate the diversity of our Croydon Community. In Key Stage 2 there are three themes per year so that teachers can spend quality time in lessons.
- Two components which relate to the current attainment targets.
 - AT1 – Learning about religions and world views
 - AT2 – Learning from religion and human experience.
- Resources are suggested to enhance lessons. The resource sheets mentioned can be found at the end of each year's units.
- General resources can be found on a separate tab.
- There is also a glossary at the end of each termly unit.

KS2 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Some concepts may still be abstract and new ones may add to the cognitive overload. · Children may be more familiar with their own 'self' and ideas related to themselves and family.
- Recording / writing may still be difficult - consider this at the outset for success.
- For some SEND children, learning questions may still be able to be answered but how this is achieved may look different.
- Some children may have expert knowledge if learning relates to them. Plan for this to enable them success
- Consider any sensory issues
- Some children will require parallel activities not within these adaptations
- When assessing, give children a chance to show what they know using alternative materials/ means or provision where necessary.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Pair children according to need.
- Use 'think, pair share' to allow children time to think, discuss their ideas.
- Plan questions in advance. Consider using blanks level questions (select type depending on need)

- Consider allocating roles in a discussion to keep children focused.
- Plan carefully for transition times between discussions. Prepare children for this using visual prompts or warnings.
- Where needed, adults to have visual prompts with child/ children they are working with as well as class teacher.

Strategies

- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in your class). Use other children as experts.
- Use real objects allowing children to handle (where possible).
- Use simplified language when discussing ideas/concepts · Begin to reflect on prior learning to make links and connections.
- Consider how writing may be a barrier to success and plan independent tasks carefully. Identify the 'RE learning' you want to take place and plan activities for success.
- Make use of workshops/ visits/ visitors where possible. · Use pictures and symbols to make Learning Questions clear and visual.
- Try and ensure tasks are interesting and engaging and incorporate a wide range of learners needs (visual, kinaesthetic, multisensory for example).
- Teach in small chunks. All learning questions may not be achieved in each lesson.

Adapted outcomes

- Use some key vocabulary functionally.
- May be able to discuss things that they have experience of related to themselves.
- Identify objects and artefacts using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt.
- Take part in some activities which support learning.
- Unable to relate to abstract concepts such as faith, friendship, belief.
- Unable to transcribe at a level which reflects their understanding.
- Learning should remaining challenging but adaptations should be made (where needed) to make outcomes achievable.
- Verbal feedback should be considered where understanding might be a challenge.
- Take into account children's variety of responses (verbal, group work) when assessing against any learning criteria.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Select essential vocabulary for children to learn. Where possible, pre teach vocabulary and revisit where possible.
- Have vocabulary accompanied by an image, displayed around the class. Consider using real images as opposed to cartoons.
- Teach new words in context. · Play games to reinforce learning of a new word in a fun way.
- Use word trees to build vocabulary and reinforce over time.

- Use mind maps to revisit prior learning and connect ideas and concepts.
- Use word mats which show key vocabulary with pictures.
- Try and keep the pictures used consistent with those used in any teaching or resource.
- Label resources to support

Adaptive Teaching

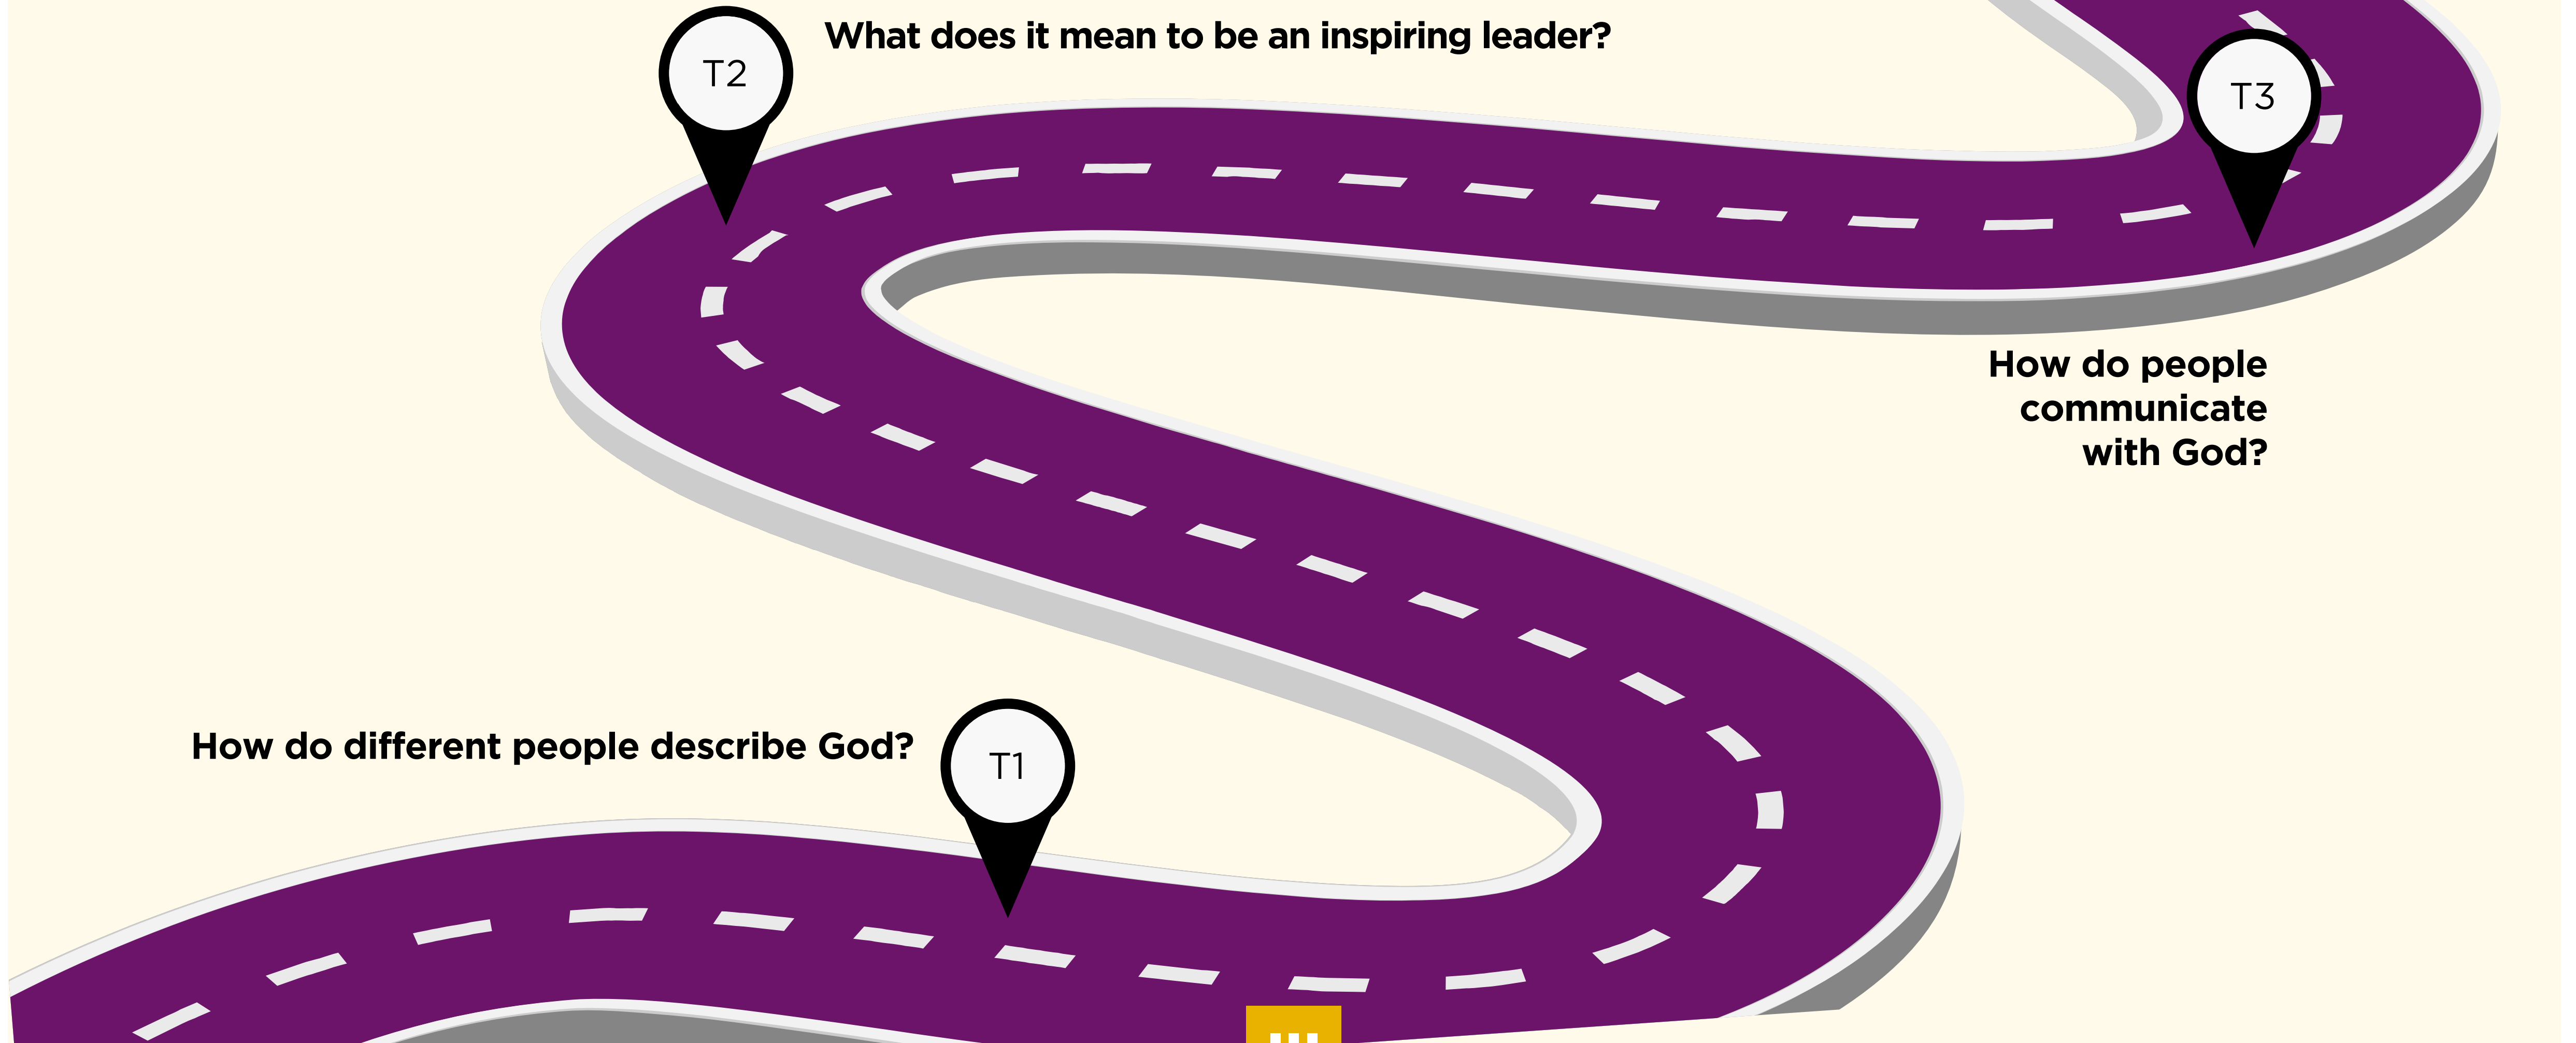

- Consider ICT, for children to create presentations etc as an alternative to writing.
- Adapt how children show understanding- discussion/ drawing/ annotations etc.
- Avoid using lots of different types of questions during discussions.
- Use pictures/images on resources as a prompt. · Incorporate drama/ roleplay/art where appropriate.
- Use a range of mixed peers/ near peers and group tasks as well as individual tasks.
- Where possible, use local references and photos of things they may be familiar with.
- Pupil made videos to show learning for some children where writing is a barrier

How do Buddhist focus their mind if they do not pray and why are prayer flags important to Buddhists?	Buddhists meditate to clear their minds of immediate thoughts and connect with their desire to understand life and their purpose, these desires are like silent prayers to yourself while you meditate or chant a meditational mantra. Some prayers seem so important that making a prayer flag can cause that desire to be continually expressed between meditations for others to receive and react to. Issues like world peace, love and compassion, goodwill to all.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are meditation and prayer the same thing? • Do you need to have a religion to meditate? 	What do you find on a Buddhist shrine and why? How might these things encourage a Buddhist to enjoy life more and suffer less? Show pictures or a prayer flag and talk about wishes for the world that could be written on them.	Investigate what is found on a Buddhist shrine. Create prayer flags to hang in the classroom or the playground Resource sheet on a Buddhist Shrine	Meditate Prayer flag
Bringing it all together: What similarities and differences are there?	The main difference between prayer and meditation is that prayer involves belief in a deity and active communication, while meditation requires no beliefs and is an independent practise of non-judgmental observation of the present moment. Humanists have a scientific but also a sympathetic, generous and cautiously optimistic understanding of human beings and the ability to shape our own lives and make a difference to the world through our own actions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How do people use their homes to communicate with God? • How is communication with God similar/different throughout each religion? Sayings from the Hadith

Hadith are the sayings and teachings of Muhammed . He stressed the equality and the responsibility of each individual to the community and lived by the correct conduct and customs as revealed to him by the angel sent by Allah.

The Hadith is a form of authority for Islam which is second only to the Qur'an.

Look at the sayings from the Hadith and think how they would guide your actions.

How would you illustrate them in action?

- Have sincerity in your actions.
- Be truthful.
- Show mercy to others and you will receive their mercy.
- Avoid anger. Save yourself from jealousy.
- One who encourages others to do good deeds is like one who performs them.
- Avoid going into debt
- Treat others with the best manners.
- One who makes false accusations will not enter paradise

The Story of Prince Siddhartha - The Buddha

The Buddha was born a long time ago - about 2,500 years ago. The Buddha was not the name he was given at birth. His birth name was Siddhartha Gautama, and he was a Prince. He was born in a part of the world that we now call Nepal (the country that has the highest mountains in the world). Siddhartha's father wanted to protect his son and so Siddhartha grew up in the palace grounds. He never went outside the grounds and had no idea what life was really like for most people. He had a rich and happy life, with everything he could possibly want food to eat, clothes to wear, and when he was old enough, he married a beautiful girl, and they had a son. But still Siddhartha had not seen anything of life outside the palace grounds.

Soon he began to grow bored with his sheltered life and one day he left the palace. Now he began to see the world as it really was. As he rode around, he saw suffering everywhere. He saw an old man who was weak and nearly at the end of his life. He saw a man who was sick and in great pain, and he saw a funeral with the family of the dead man crying around his body. Then Siddhartha came across a holy man, a man who had devoted his life to following God. This man seemed to be happy and peaceful.

These things made Siddhartha think. He went back to the palace, but he couldn't forget what he had seen. He decided he had to go in search of the answer to why there was suffering in the world. On the night before his 29th birthday he left his palace with its riches, beauty and safety.

He went to learn from the famous teachers and religious leaders. They told people to find answers to questions by sitting very still and thinking or meditating. The prince tried to do this, but he didn't find any answers, though it made him better at thinking clearly. So he decided he must find the truth on his own.

Then he saw some people who had given up everything they owned to try and find the answer to his questions. These people thought that life would be simpler thought if they did not have to worry about things like food, drink, washing and possessions. Then they could concentrate on the answer to the meaning of life rather than be distracted by smaller, less important matters.

They ate and drank very little and owned no possessions. They would sit for hours thinking really hard about some of the questions they wanted answers to. They also tried to stop feeling any pain by lying on beds of nails or standing on their heads for hours.

The prince decided to give this method a go. He ate very little, just a couple of seeds a day and became very thin. As he didn't wash, his hair was so matted and dirty that birds even started to nest in his hair.

Soon he became very ill. Then one day he heard a guitar playing and started to think about what part of the guitar made the beautiful music. He realised that if the strings were too tight, they would snap: if they were too loose there would be no sound at all. The beautiful music was made when the string was tightened just right.

The prince realised that if he lived a life of extremes, never washing or eating, or even washing and eating too much, then this could cause him problems. He realised that rather than eat nothing at all he should eat just a little each day.

Soon he felt much better. The other people who never washed and ate very little thought he was

Year 3 - Spring Term

weak and had given up the search, but the prince had learnt an important lesson. He hadn't found the answer by living a life of luxury as a prince nor when he lived a hard and painful life. Perhaps there was a middle way.

He travelled on until he came to a great tree. Today we call this tree a Bodhi tree. It's like a fig tree. He sat under this great big tree and began to meditate, that is to think deeply. It was the night of a full moon. After a long time, the truth came to him and discovering the truth gave Siddhartha a feeling of great peacefulness. It was a feeling of release from all the things that had been troubling him. Suddenly he was able to stop thinking about himself and his worries. Siddhartha had become enlightened - he had found truth and so he became known as the Buddha - the enlightened one.

The Buddha learned many things while meditating under the Bodhi tree and he spent the rest of his life teaching people about what he had learned so that they might find peace in their own lives. One of the things he discovered is that very often people make themselves and others unhappy because they are always wanting and needing things. They are tied to the things they need and want, like a dog tied to a tree. The more they want the more they get tied up in knots, like the dog getting tangled in the rope that attaches it to the tree. The Buddha taught his followers about how they could be free of the things that tie them down and how this would give them peace and happiness. He taught them that they could become enlightened too by following his teachings.

The Four Noble Truths

- All life is suffering
- Suffering is caused by Selfish desires
- This suffering could be ended
- There is an eightfold path to the end of suffering

Siddhartha Gautama - The Buddha was the first or founder who was born in 563 BC.

Born in a palace of a prince and princess, it was foretold at birth that he would be either a great world ruler if he stayed in the palace but if he left and encountered suffering, he would become a great ascetic and teacher.

His father made him stay in the palace and surrounded him with luxury and he grew up and married Yasodhara and had a son. However, he persuaded his charioteer to take him out of the grounds on an adventure and he saw the four sights:

- An old man
- A sick man
- A corpse
- A wandering Holy Man

Words of The Prophet Mohammad PBUH

- Regard the life and property of every Muslim as a sacred trust. Return the goods entrusted to you to their rightful owners.
- Hurt no one so that no one may hurt you.
- Remember that you will indeed meet your Lord, and that He will indeed reckon your deeds.
- O People, listen to me in earnest, worship Allah, say your five daily prayers (Salah), fast during the month of Ramadan, and give your wealth in Zakat.
- Perform Hajj if you can afford to. Remember, one day you will appear before Allah and answer your deeds.
- So beware, do not stray from the path of righteousness after I am gone.
- I leave behind me two things, the QURAN and my example, the SUNNAH and if you follow these you will never go astray.

The Golden Rule sheet

Baha’i	He should not wish for others that which he doth not wish for himself.
The Buddha	I will act towards others exactly as I would act towards myself.
Christianity	Treat others as you would like them to treat you.
Confucianism	Do not do to others what you would not like for yourself.
Epictetus	What you would avoid suffering yourself, seek not to impose on others.
Hinduism	This is the sum of duty: Do naught to others which, if done to thee, could cause thee pain.
Jainism	He should treat all beings as he himself should be treated. The essence of right conduct is not to injure anyone.
Judaism	What is harmful to yourself do not to your fellow men. That is the whole of the law and the remainder is but commentary.
Islam	None of you ‘truly’ believe, until he wishes for his brothers what he wishes for himself.
Sikhism	As thou deemest thyself, so deem others. Cause suffering to no one: Thereby return to your True Home with honour.
Humanists	Agree with these rules because they are based on the way human beings have worked out the best way of living with each other

Year 3 - Summer Term

What helps people to pray and think?

Prayer can take the form of:

- A conversation with your God
- Thankfulness
- Supplication
- Meditation
- Adoration

Attainment Target 1

- What is prayer?
- What is the purpose of prayer?
- Is it important to pray?
- What sort of people pray?
- What do they say/do and how do they pray?
- How many times and when do people pray?

Attainment Target 2

- How does prayer or time to reflect improve the quality of a person?
- Do we need quiet times during the day?
- What sort of situations might make you want to pray?
- Do you need special places to go to, to pray or think?
- Is prayer a personal or communal activity?

General Activities

- Could a piece of writing, a picture or music be the basis of a prayer or inspire prayer?
- Look at pictures and respond in discussion and written work
- Paint own picture or abstract to show prayer
- Make a montage of pictures as a stimulus for prayer

- Listen to music and write down ideas that come into your mind
- Read or listen to poetry and discuss whether it could be used as a prayer or provoke prayerful thoughts
- Younger children could listen to stories about special, secret places
- Look at stories of Saints, how did their prayer and devotion change their lives.
- Make a prayer tree or a thought tree.
- Use some brick effect wallpaper to make a prayer or thought wall
- Look at pictures of people who are praying
- and discuss why they are, pictures of people at football matches, war memorials, the Wailing wall are particularly good.
- Make a Buddhist prayer flag or tie thoughts to a tree or bush in the playground.

Year 3 - Summer Term

A Buddhist Shrine

- The building that Buddhists meet in is called the Vihara, Temple or Centre.
- There are no chairs so clothing should be loose to allow for sitting on the floor, although there may be a chair for the meditation teacher. Shoes are removed to keep the floor clean.
- In the building there will be a shrine room which will contain an image or statue.
- People pay homage to the Buddha, placing hands together in front of the forehead and bowing.
- Offerings of food and flowers are given, and candles and incense are lit.
- The flowers symbolise the impermanence of life, the candles symbolise the lighting up of our lives and the incense is a symbol that all actions have consequences in the world.
- The three refuges and the five precepts are recited.

Year 3 - Summer Term

The Importance of Prayer

Children should learn that it is an important part of the life of religious people and that there are different kinds of prayer.

Christianity

Prayer is a conversation with God and there are many different kinds of prayer, formal and informal, personal, thankful, supplication, adoration. The Catholic Church has prayers which petition Saints to intercede for them. The most well-known Christian prayer is the 'Our Father' which was taught by Jesus to his followers as a way to talk to God. This prayer is used in most Christian acts of worship regardless of denomination. Daily prayer is encouraged, clergy are required to pray morning and evening which is a model for the faithful. The whole service is seen as a prayer including the hymns.

Hinduism

People of the Hindu faith worship in their homes and in the Mandir. Hindus believe in one God whose many facets are represented by different deities. In the home there is a shrine, Gruhmandir, to the favourite deities of the family. Puja takes place each morning at the shrine and the worship may include hymns, offerings, meditation and reading from a Hindu scripture.

The prayers and ceremony are part of the fulfilment of the four aims of life, Dharma, religious merit, Artha, gain of wealth, Karma, fulfillment of wishes and Moksha, the release from the cycle of birth and death.

Sikhism

Sikhs believe there is one God and that all people are equal. The purpose of life is self-realisation and on knowing oneself one meets God. Prayer and hymn singing are important for focusing on God and realising God within. Set prayers from the Guru Granth Sahib are said by many Sikhs morning and evening. The Nitnem- daily prayers- morning prayers comprise 5 various prayers of which one has 40 verses. However, that same prayer is also recited at other times and only the first 5 verses and the last verse is recited during that time. The Mool Mantra is a statement of belief for Sikhs composed by Guru Nanak and found at the beginning of every chapter of the Guru Granth Sahib.

Year 3 - Summer Term

The Importance of Prayer

Islam

Before praying a Muslim washes in a ritual way in order to be clean and ready to talk to God. This washing is called wudu. Muslims pray at five set times a day wherever they are. The prophet Mohammad said, 'Prayer is a refreshing stream into which you dip five times a day'. A prayer mat is used to ensure that the person is on a clean area. Muslims remove their shoes in the Mosque and home to keep the floor clean as there is no set place for prayer. Muslims believe that your body is useless without your soul and therefore in the same way as you feed your body you should feed your inner self by prayer. The first pillar of Islam is the Shahadah which is a statement of belief and which is whispered to newborn Muslim babies along with the call to prayer as the first sounds which they hear.

Judaism

Prayers are said at the Synagogue every weekday. It is every Jewish man's duty to attend prayers as often as possible because they can only take place if ten adult males are present to form a minyan, or quorum.

Men should pray in the morning, afternoon and evening. The prayer book is called the siddur and contains different types of prayer including the Shema, which affirms belief in One God, which is repeated morning and night. The Shema is rolled up in the mezuzah and placed on the doorposts of Jewish homes and within the tefillin, which is strapped onto the forehead and arms during morning prayers.

There are set prayers to be said as well as prayers for many occasions, such as seeing the new moon, for food and drink or setting out on a journey so that faith and prayer permeates the whole of life.

KS2 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Some concepts may still be abstract and new ones may add to the cognitive overload.
- Children may be more familiar with their own 'self' and ideas related to themselves and family
- Recording / writing may still be difficult- consider this at the outset for success
- For some SEND children, learning questions may still be able to be answered but how this is achieved may look different.
- Some children may have expert knowledge if learning relates to them. Plan for this to enable them success
- Consider any sensory issues
- Some children will require parallel activities not within these adaptations
- When assessing, give children a chance to show what they know using alternative materials/ means or provision where necessary.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Pair children according to need
- Use 'think, pair share' to allow children time to think, discuss their ideas
- Plan questions in advance. Consider using blanks level questions (select type depending on need)
- Consider allocating roles in a discussion to keep children focused.
- Plan carefully for transition times between discussions. Prepare children for this using visual prompts or warnings.

- Where needed, adults to have visual prompts with child/ children they are working with as well as class teacher.

Strategies

- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in your class). Use other children as experts.
- Use real objects allowing children to handle (where possible)
- Use simplified language when discussing ideas/concepts
- Begin to reflect on prior learning to make links and connections.
- Consider how writing may be a barrier to success and plan independent tasks carefully. Identify the 'RE learning' you want to take place and plan activities for success.
- Make use of workshops/ visits/ visitors where possible.
- Use pictures and symbols to make Learning Questions clear and visual.
- Try and ensure tasks are interesting and engaging and incorporate a wide range of learners needs (visual, kinaesthetic, multisensory for example)
- Teach in small chunks . All learning questions may not be achieved in each lesson.

Adapted outcomes

- Use some key vocabulary functionally
- May be able to discuss things that they have experience of related to themselves.

- Identify objects and artefacts using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt
- Take part in some activities which support learning
- Unable to relate to abstract concepts such as faith, friendship, belief
- Unable to transcribe at a level which reflects their understanding
- Learning should remaining challenging but adaptations should be made (where needed) to make outcomes achievable
- Verbal feedback should be considered where understanding might be a challenge
- Take into account children's variety of responses (verbal, group work) when assessing against any learning criteria.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Select essential vocabulary for children to learn
- Where possible, pre teach vocabulary and revisit where possible
- Have vocabulary accompanied by an image, displayed around the class. Consider using real images as opposed to cartoons
- Teach new words in context.
- Play games to reinforce learning of a new word in a fun way.
- Use word trees to build vocabulary and reinforce over time.
- Use mind maps to revisit prior learning and connect ideas and concepts

- Use word mats which show key vocabulary with pictures. Try and keep the pictures used consistent with those used in any teaching or resource.
- Label resources to support.

Adaptive teaching

- Consider ICT, for children to create presentations etc as an alternative to writing
- Adapt how children show understanding- discussion/ drawing/ annotations etc.
- Avoid using lots of different types of questions during discussions
- Use pictures/images on resources as a prompt.
- Incorporate drama/ roleplay/art where appropriate
- Use a range of mixed peers/ near peers and group tasks as well as individual tasks
- Where possible, use local references and photos of things they may be familiar with
- Pupil made videos to show learning for some children where writing is a barrier.

Further help

- Including children with SEN in RE
- Including pupils with SEN and/or disabilities in primary RE (ioe.ac.uk)
- For a range of games/ clips LGfL Home
- LGFL BBC Bitesize for clips Blanks level s of questioning BBC teach.

Year 4 - Autumn Term - How is my community special to me?

How do I show I'm part of a community?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- That members of faith groups follow guidelines set out in their religious books and writings.
- That members of different religions believe it is important to follow the guidelines for their community.
- Members of different religions follow the guidelines because they believe it is what God requires of them.

What a child should be able to do:

(Assessment)

- Know that the religions they have studied have rules for the believers to follow.
- Be able to outline the rules each religion follows.
- To explain why many religions have rules.

What is the role of the 'leader' in a place of worship	Places of worship often have designated leaders such as priests, ministers, imams, rabbis, or monks who guide the religious activities and provide spiritual guidance. They also serve as centres for religious education and learning for followers of the faith.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Why can't someone just say they are a Priest/ Imam/Rabbi etc.? The 5 Pillars of Islam

The Muslim religion is like a shelter held up by five pillars. They are called:

- Shahadah, the declaration of faith
- Salah, prayers which are said 5 times a day
- Zakat, giving and the purification of wealth
- Sawm, fasting from dawn to dusk during Ramadan
- Hajj, a pilgrimage to the Holy city of Makkah at least once

Draw a picture of the five pillars with their correct name and use the ‘bricks’ below to fill in the pillars.
See if you can make up some more examples of how your life might be affected by following the five pillar

When my dad returned from Makkah it meant he could be called Hajji.	It makes us realise all wealth belongs to Allah.	During this month I try to read the Qu’ran.
We have been saving for five years to go to Makkah.	When we break the fast at night, I like to eat dates, but my Turkish friends eat olives.	Giving charity helps people who are ill or poor.
I don’t like to have pictures of pop-stars in my bedroom as it might tempt me to worship them.	It is difficult to fast when we are doing cooking at school.	I get tired during Ramadan as it’s such an exciting time of year.
We always show respect for the Prophet Muhammed ’s name.	In some countries you can paint your house after Hajj.	At school I need to find a place to pray during lunch-time.
When we give charity we are being helped too.

The Story of Navratri

Navratri is a time when Hindus celebrate the goddess Durga for killing the demon, Mahishasura.

A more powerful God, Lord Brahma, had blessed Mahishasura with the gift of immortality because of his dedication to him, which meant he could never die.

However, this gift did come with one condition - the only person who would be able to defeat Mahishasura would be a woman.

Mahishasura didn't think any women would be strong enough to kill him and was happy with the deal.

Over the years, Mahishasura and his men became a powerful force attacking people on Earth and no gods were able to defeat him.

Finally, Lord Brahma, Lord Vishnu and Lord Shiva - the three most powerful Hindu gods - decided to come together and create the goddess Durga, a powerful woman whose job would be to destroy Mahishasura.

The gods equipped the new goddess Durga with lots of weapons before she went into battle with Mahishasura.

Durga fought the demon for 10 days, and it proved quite difficult as he kept changing his form to confuse the goddess. However, when he finally turned into a buffalo, Durga was able to defeat him.

Year 4 - Spring Term

Hindu Festival of Holi

Holi is a famous and very popular Hindu spring festival in Northern India. It celebrates the arrival of spring flowers and when the main crops are almost ready for the spring harvest. The festival lasts anything from three to five days and is known as the festival of colour.

Holi usually begins with the lighting of bonfires which have been built by everyone. People light their household fires, and then the community fire is kindled by a Brahmin priest. The ripening of the first wheat and barley crop is celebrated by being offered to the fire, and the roasted barley is eaten. The ashes of the fires are marked on the forehead to bring good luck in the year ahead.

After the bonfires comes the throwing of colour. People throw coloured water and red powders over friends or anyone who passes by. It is a happy celebration: everybody dances and has great fun. Processions of floats carrying statues of the gods line the streets.

Some believe the origin of the festival lies with Krishna who was very mischievous as a young boy and threw coloured water over the Gopis (milkmaids) with whom he is believed to have grown up. This developed into the practical jokes and games of Holi.

The legend of Prahlad and Holika is also connected with Holi. Prahlad was the son of King Hiranyakashyapu. The king wanted everyone in his kingdom to worship him. However, his son, Prahlad refused to and worshipped Lord Vishnu instead.

The king's sister Holika, who was supposed to be immune to fire, tricked her nephew Prahlad into sitting on her lap in a bonfire to destroy him. However, because she was using her powers for evil, the plan failed and Prahlad emerged from the fire unharmed, while his aunt was devoured by the flames. During the festival, people burn the image of Holika as a symbol that good has defeated evil. This is often followed by the burning of rubbish, to show that past wrongdoing is forgiven.

This event is seen to symbolise good overcoming evil and is why traditionally bonfires are lit at Holi. Ashes from Holi bonfires are thought to bring good luck.

Suggested songs: Holi from Festivals (all the year) by Jean Gilbert, published by Oxford University Press.

The Story of The Buddha

The Buddha was born a long time ago - about 2,500 years ago.

The Buddha was not the name he was given at birth. His birth name was Siddhartha Gautama, and he was a Prince. He was born in a part of the world that we now call Nepal (the country that has the highest mountains in the world). Siddhartha's father wanted to protect his son and so Siddhartha grew up in the palace grounds. He never went outside the grounds and had no idea what life was really like for most people. He had a rich and happy life, with everything he could possibly want - food to eat, clothes to wear, and when he was old enough, he married a beautiful girl and they had a son. But still Siddhartha had not seen anything of life outside the palace grounds.

Soon he began to grow bored with his sheltered life and one day he left the palace. Now he began to see the world as it really was. As he rode around, he saw suffering everywhere. He saw an old man who was weak and nearly at the end of his life. He saw a man who was sick and in great pain, and he saw a funeral with the family of the dead man crying around his body. Then Siddhartha came across a holy man, a man who had devoted his life to following God. This man seemed to be happy and peaceful.

These things made Siddhartha think. He went back to the palace, but he couldn't forget what he had seen. He decided he had to go in search of the answer to why there was suffering in the world. On the night before his 29th birthday he left his palace with its riches, beauty and safety.

He went to learn from the famous teachers and religious leaders. They told people to find answers to questions by sitting very still and thinking or meditating. The prince tried to do this, but he didn't find any answers, though it made him better at thinking clearly. So, he decided he must find the truth on his own.

Then he saw some people who had given up everything they owned to try and find the answer to his questions. These people thought that life would be simpler thought if they did not have to worry about things like food, drink, washing and possessions. Then they could concentrate on the answer to the meaning of life rather than be distracted by smaller, less important matters.

They ate and drank very little and owned no possessions. They would sit for hours thinking really hard about some of the questions they wanted answers to. They also tried to stop feeling any pain by lying on beds of nails or standing on their heads for hours.

The prince decided to give this method a go. He ate very little, just a couple of seeds a day and became very thin. As he didn't wash, his hair was so matted and dirty that birds even started to nest in his hair.

Soon he became very ill. Then one day he heard a guitar playing and started to think about what part of the guitar made the beautiful music. He realised that if the strings were too tight they would snap: if they were too loose there would be no sound at all. The beautiful music was made when the string was tightened just right.

The prince realised that if he lived a life of extremes, never washing or eating, or even washing and eating too much, then this could cause him problems. He realised that rather than eat nothing at all he should eat just a little each day.

Soon he felt much better. The other people who never washed and ate very little thought he was weak and had given up the search, but the prince had learnt an important lesson. He hadn't found the answer by living a life of luxury as a prince nor when he lived a hard and painful life. Perhaps there was a middle way.

He travelled on until he came to a great tree. Today we call this tree a Bodhi tree. It's like a fig tree. He sat under this great big tree and began to meditate, that is to think deeply. It was the night of a full moon. After a long time, the truth came to him and discovering the truth gave Siddhartha a feeling of great peacefulness. It was a feeling of release from all the things that had been troubling him. Suddenly he was able to stop thinking about himself and his worries. Siddhartha had become enlightened - he had found truth and so he became known as the Buddha - the enlightened one.

The Buddha learned many things while meditating under the Bodhi tree and he spent the rest of his life teaching people about what he had learned so that they might find peace in their own lives. One of the things he discovered is that very often people make themselves and others unhappy because they are always wanting and needing things. They are tied to the things they need and want, like a dog tied to a tree. The more they want the more they get tied up in knots, like the dog getting tangled in the rope that attaches it to the tree. The Buddha taught his followers about how they could be free of the things that tie them down and how this would give them peace and happiness. He taught them that they could become enlightened too by following his teachings.

Year 4 - Spring Term

WESAK

Wesak, also known as ‘Buddha Day’, is the most important of the Buddhist festivals. It celebrates the Buddha’s birthday, and, for some Buddhists, also marks his enlightenment and death. It is the most important day in the Buddhist calendar.

During Wesak, Buddhists celebrate the life of the Buddha and his teachings. They remember the night of his enlightenment and his insights into his previous lives, as well as his revelations about the nature of death, karma and rebirth, suffering and desire. Wesak is celebrated with great joy and vivid colours. Homes are cleaned and decorated in preparation. Celebrations begin before dawn: Sutras are chanted by monks and devotees through the temples early in the morning to meditate and take the Five Precepts which are rules on behaviour and how to live.

The five precepts are:

- Not harming any living beings.
- Not taking what does not belong to you
- Not being greedy.
- Not telling lies or speaking unkindly.
- Not clouding the mind with drink or drugs

An extra five precepts followed by some Buddhists, and remembered on Wesak are not to:

- Take substantial food after midday (from noon to dawn)
- dance, sing or listen to or play music
- use garlands, perfumes and personal adornment like jewelery
- use luxurious beds and seats
- accept or hold money, gold or silver

Buddhist monks actually follow 227 precepts. Celebrations vary from one country to another. ‘The Bathing of the Buddha’ often takes place. Water is poured over the shoulders of statues of the Buddha as a reminder of the need to purify the heart and mind. Offerings are made to the monks and the temples, and may be laid on the altar as a sign of respect for the Buddha and his teachings. Special lectures on the teachings of the Buddha are given, and candle lit processions take place through the streets. In China, traditional elements from Chinese culture, such as dancing dragons, are incorporated into celebrations. In Indonesia, Wesak lanterns are made from paper and wood. Another popular custom in some countries is the release of caged birds, symbolising letting go of troubles and wishing that all beings be well and happy. Buddhists in some parts of the world make origami paper cranes which are used as decorations or sometimes floated down rivers to symbolise the same thing.

Activities

- Can children think of any other festivals that celebrate the births or death of the founders of other faiths or key characters?
- Light is used as the symbol of enlightenment in this festival. What other concepts might light symbolise?
- The theme of compassion and love are central to the religion of Buddhism. Children could listen to and act out the story of Prince Siddhartha.

KS2 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Some concepts may still be abstract and new ones may add to the cognitive overload.
- Children may be more familiar with their own 'self' and ideas related to themselves and family.
- Recording / writing may still be difficult- consider this at the outset for success.
- For some SEND children, learning questions may still be able to be answered but how this is achieved may look different.
- Some children may have expert knowledge if learning relates to them. Plan for this to enable them success.
- Consider any sensory issues.
- Some children will require parallel activities not within these adaptations.
- When assessing, give children a chance to show what they know using alternative materials/ means or provision where necessary.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Pair children according to need
- Use 'think, pair share' to allow children time to think, discuss their ideas
- Plan questions in advance. Consider using blanks level questions (select type depending on need)
- Consider allocating roles in a discussion to keep children focused.
- Plan carefully for transition times between discussions. Prepare children for this using visual prompts or warnings.

- Where needed, adults to have visual prompts with child/ children they are working with as well as class teacher.

Strategies

- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in your class). Use other children as experts.
- Use real objects allowing children to handle (where possible).
- Use simplified language when discussing ideas/concepts · Begin to reflect on prior learning to make links and connections.
- Consider how writing may be a barrier to success and plan independent tasks carefully. Identify the 'RE learning' you want to take place and plan activities for success.
- Make use of workshops/ visits/ visitors where possible.
- Use pictures and symbols to make Learning Questions clear and visual.
- Try and ensure tasks are interesting and engaging and incorporate a wide range of learners needs (visual, kinaesthetic, multisensory for example)
- Teach in small chunks . All learning questions may not be achieved in each lesson

Adapted outcomes

- Use some key vocabulary functionally · May be able to discuss things that they have experience of related to themselves.
- Identify objects and artefacts using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt

- Take part in some activities which support learning.
- Unable to relate to abstract concepts such as faith, friendship, belief.
- Unable to transcribe at a level which reflects their understanding.
- Learning should remaining challenging but adaptations should be made (where needed) to make outcomes achievable.
- Verbal feedback should be considered where understanding might be a challenge.
- Take into account children's variety of responses (verbal, group work) when assessing against any learning criteria

Teaching Vocabulary

- Select essential vocabulary for children to learn
- Where possible, pre teach vocabulary and revisit where possible
- Have vocabulary accompanied by an image, displayed around the class. Consider using real images as opposed to cartoons
- Teach new words in context.
- Play games to reinforce learning of a new word in a fun way.
- Use word trees to build vocabulary and reinforce over time.
- Use mind maps to revisit prior learning and connect ideas and concepts
- Use word mats which show key vocabulary with pictures. Try and keep the pictures used consistent with those used in any teaching or resource.

- Label resources to support.

Adaptive Teaching

- Consider ICT, for children to create presentations etc as an alternative to writing · Adapt how children show understanding- discussion/ drawing/ annotations etc.
- Avoid using lots of different types of questions during discussions.
- Use pictures/images on resources as a prompt.
- Incorporate drama/ roleplay/art where appropriate.
- Use a range of mixed peers/ near peers and group tasks as well as individual tasks.
- Where possible, use local references and photos of things they may be familiar with.
- Pupils made videos to show learning for some children where writing is a barrier

Further help

- Including children with SEN in RE
- Including pupils with SEN and/or disabilities in primary RE (ioe.ac.uk)
- For a range of games/ clips LGfL Home
- LGFL BBC Bitesize for clips Blanks level s of questioning BBC teach.

Year 5 Roadmap - Big Question

Why Should we care for our World?

In what ways are people judged?

What do humanists believe?

What are the ways community's care?

Year 5 - Autumn Term

What are the ways communities care?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- How different groups of people holding religious and non-religious world views care for the local and world environment
- Why people think they have a duty to preserve the planet

What a child should be able to do: (Assessment)

- See similarities between the different ways people care for the world
- Talk about how religious people are instructed to care for the world
- Understand why everyone on the planet should look after the world

Background knowledge for teachers:

Pupils should know that the communities studied are current living communities and are working to protect our world

Specific Vocabulary:

- ahimsa, Suffering, Karma, Tu, B'shevat, Stewardship, Zaka, Khalifahs, Langar, Sewa

Key words:

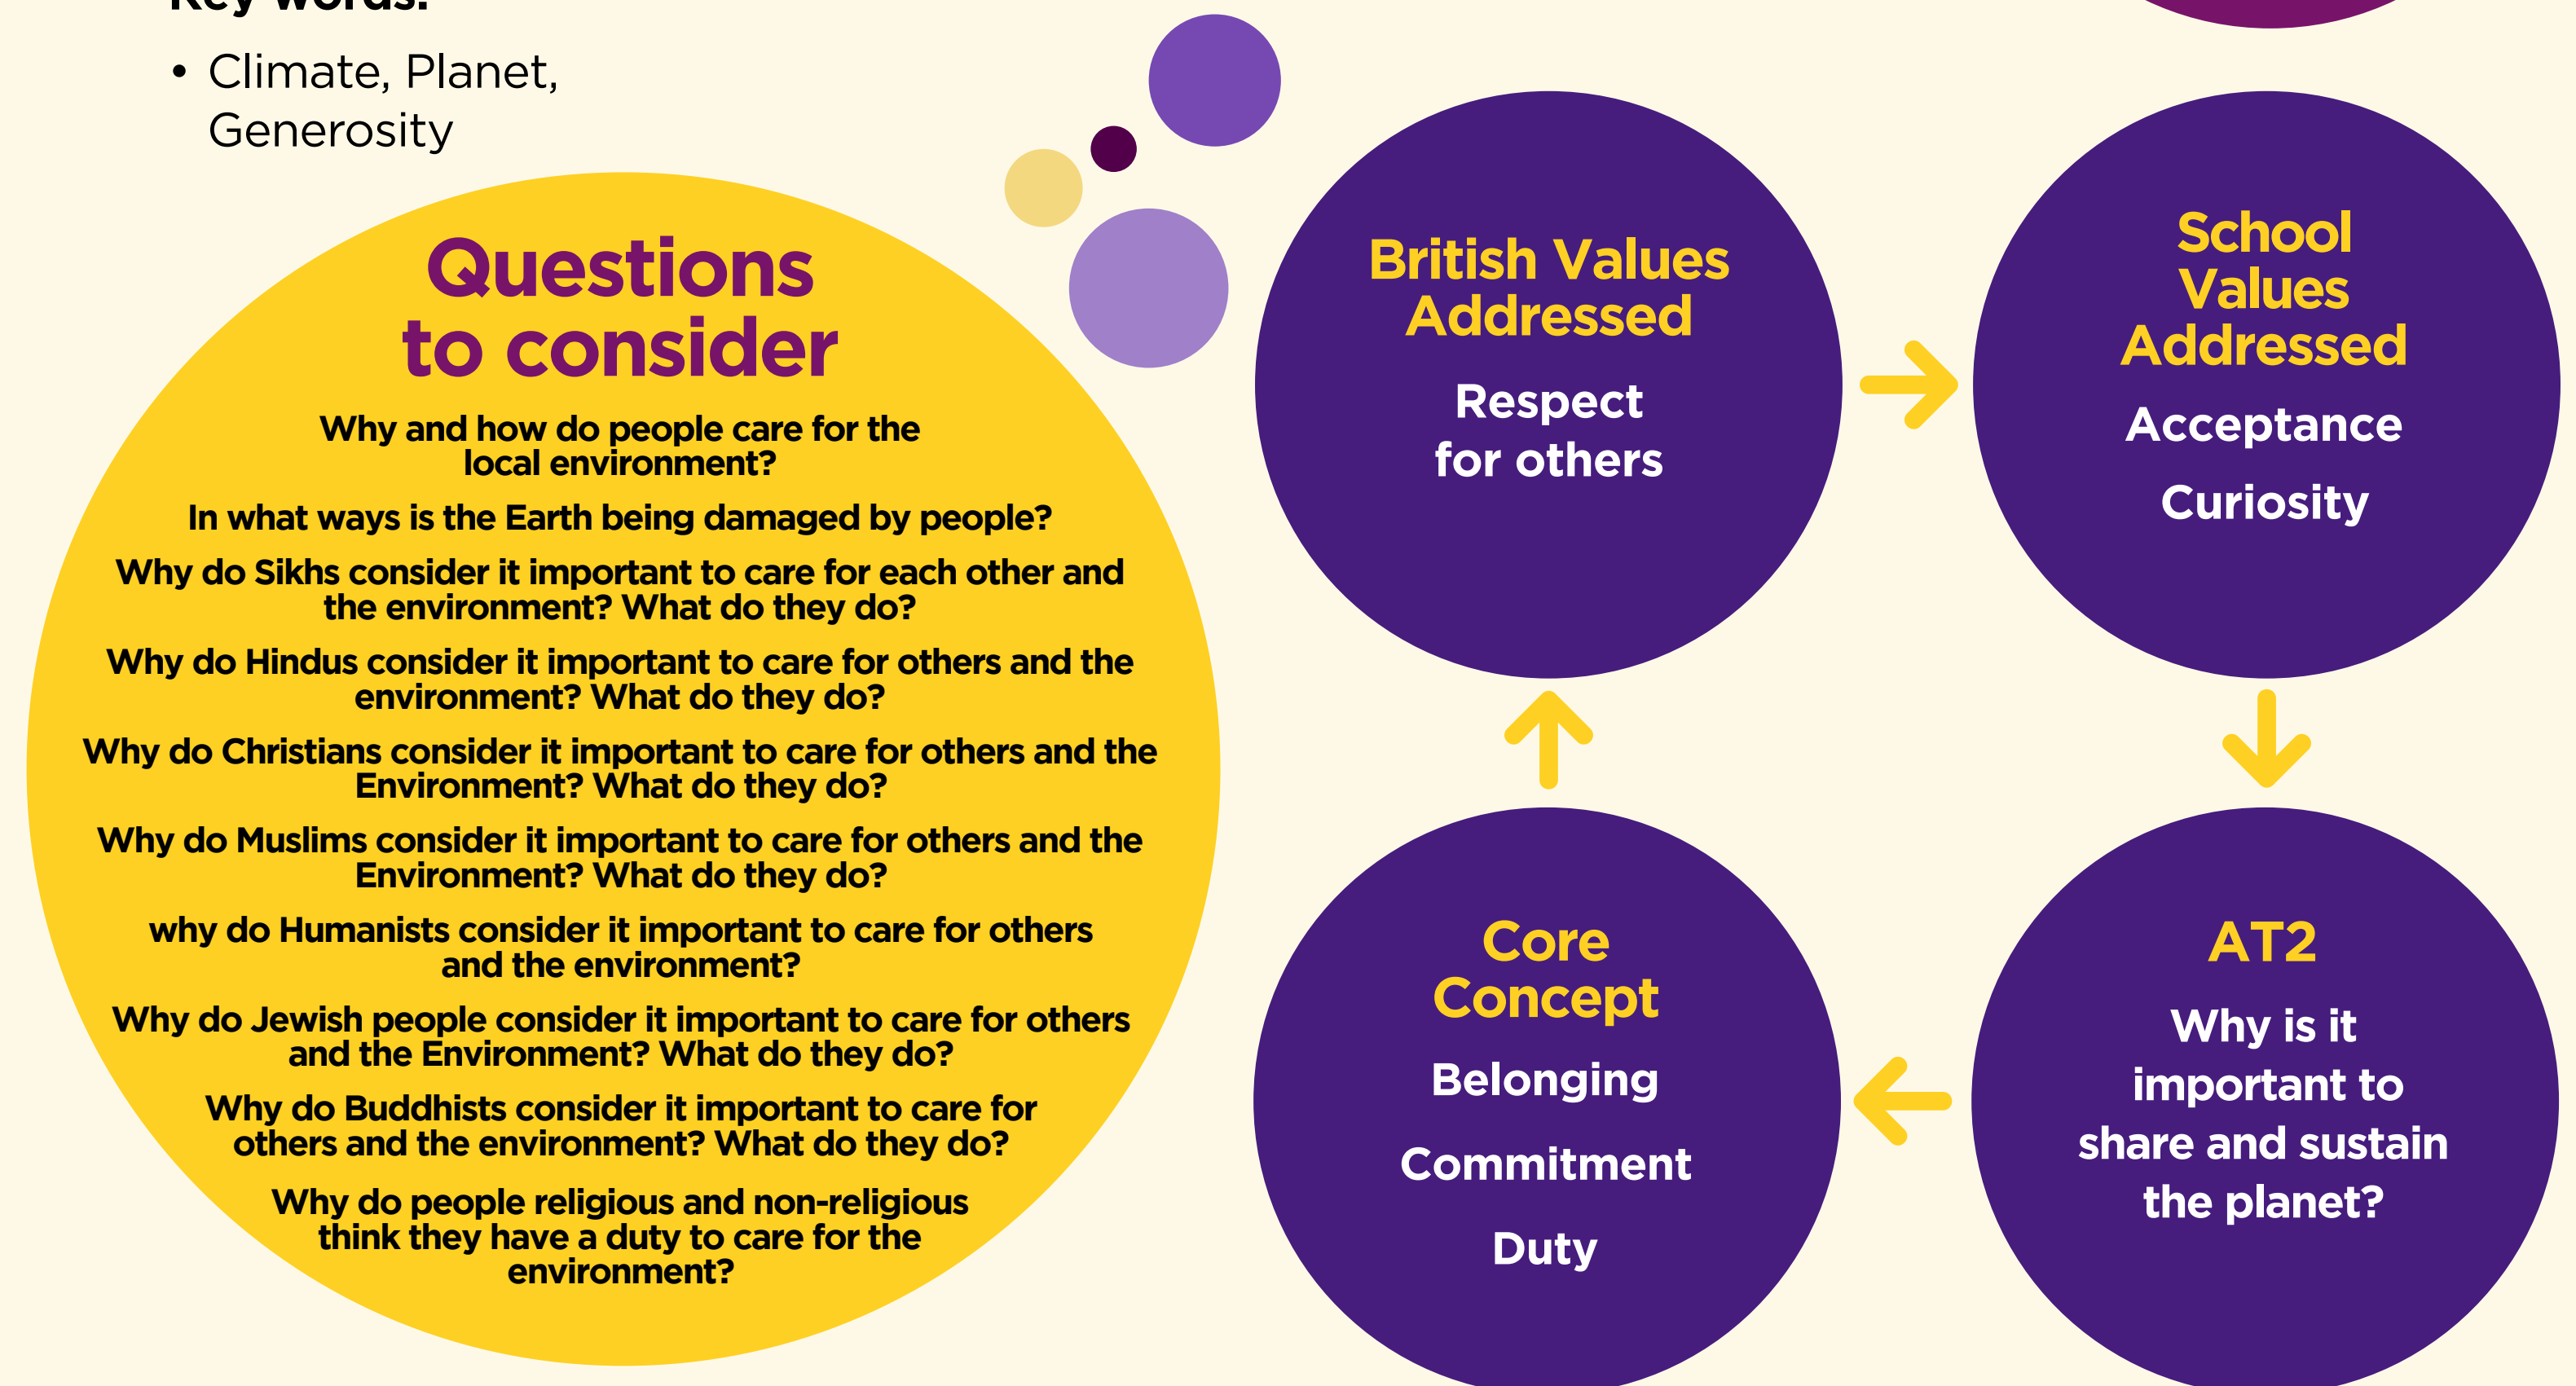

- Climate, Planet, Generosity

Prior knowledge

- Many festivals and celebrations touched on in EYFS

What do Humanists believe?

What a child needs to know and remember by the end of the unit:

- Children consider what is important to them, what do they believe in?
- Understand how Humanists view the world
- Understand the importance of science and reason to Humanists
- Understand the basis for compassion and kindness in a non-religious worldview

What a child should be able to do: (Assessment)

- Children can say what Humanists believe about the world
- Children can describe what is similar about the beliefs of Humanists and religious communities

Background knowledge for teachers:

Humanism is a non-religious worldview. Around 5% of the UK population describe themselves as Humanists, but around 22% hold beliefs consistent with Humanism.

Humanists hold a naturalistic worldview, and so don't believe in anything supernatural. They hold science and reason as the best way to understand the world and our place in it.

Specific Vocabulary:

- Humanism, Humanists, Reason

Key words:

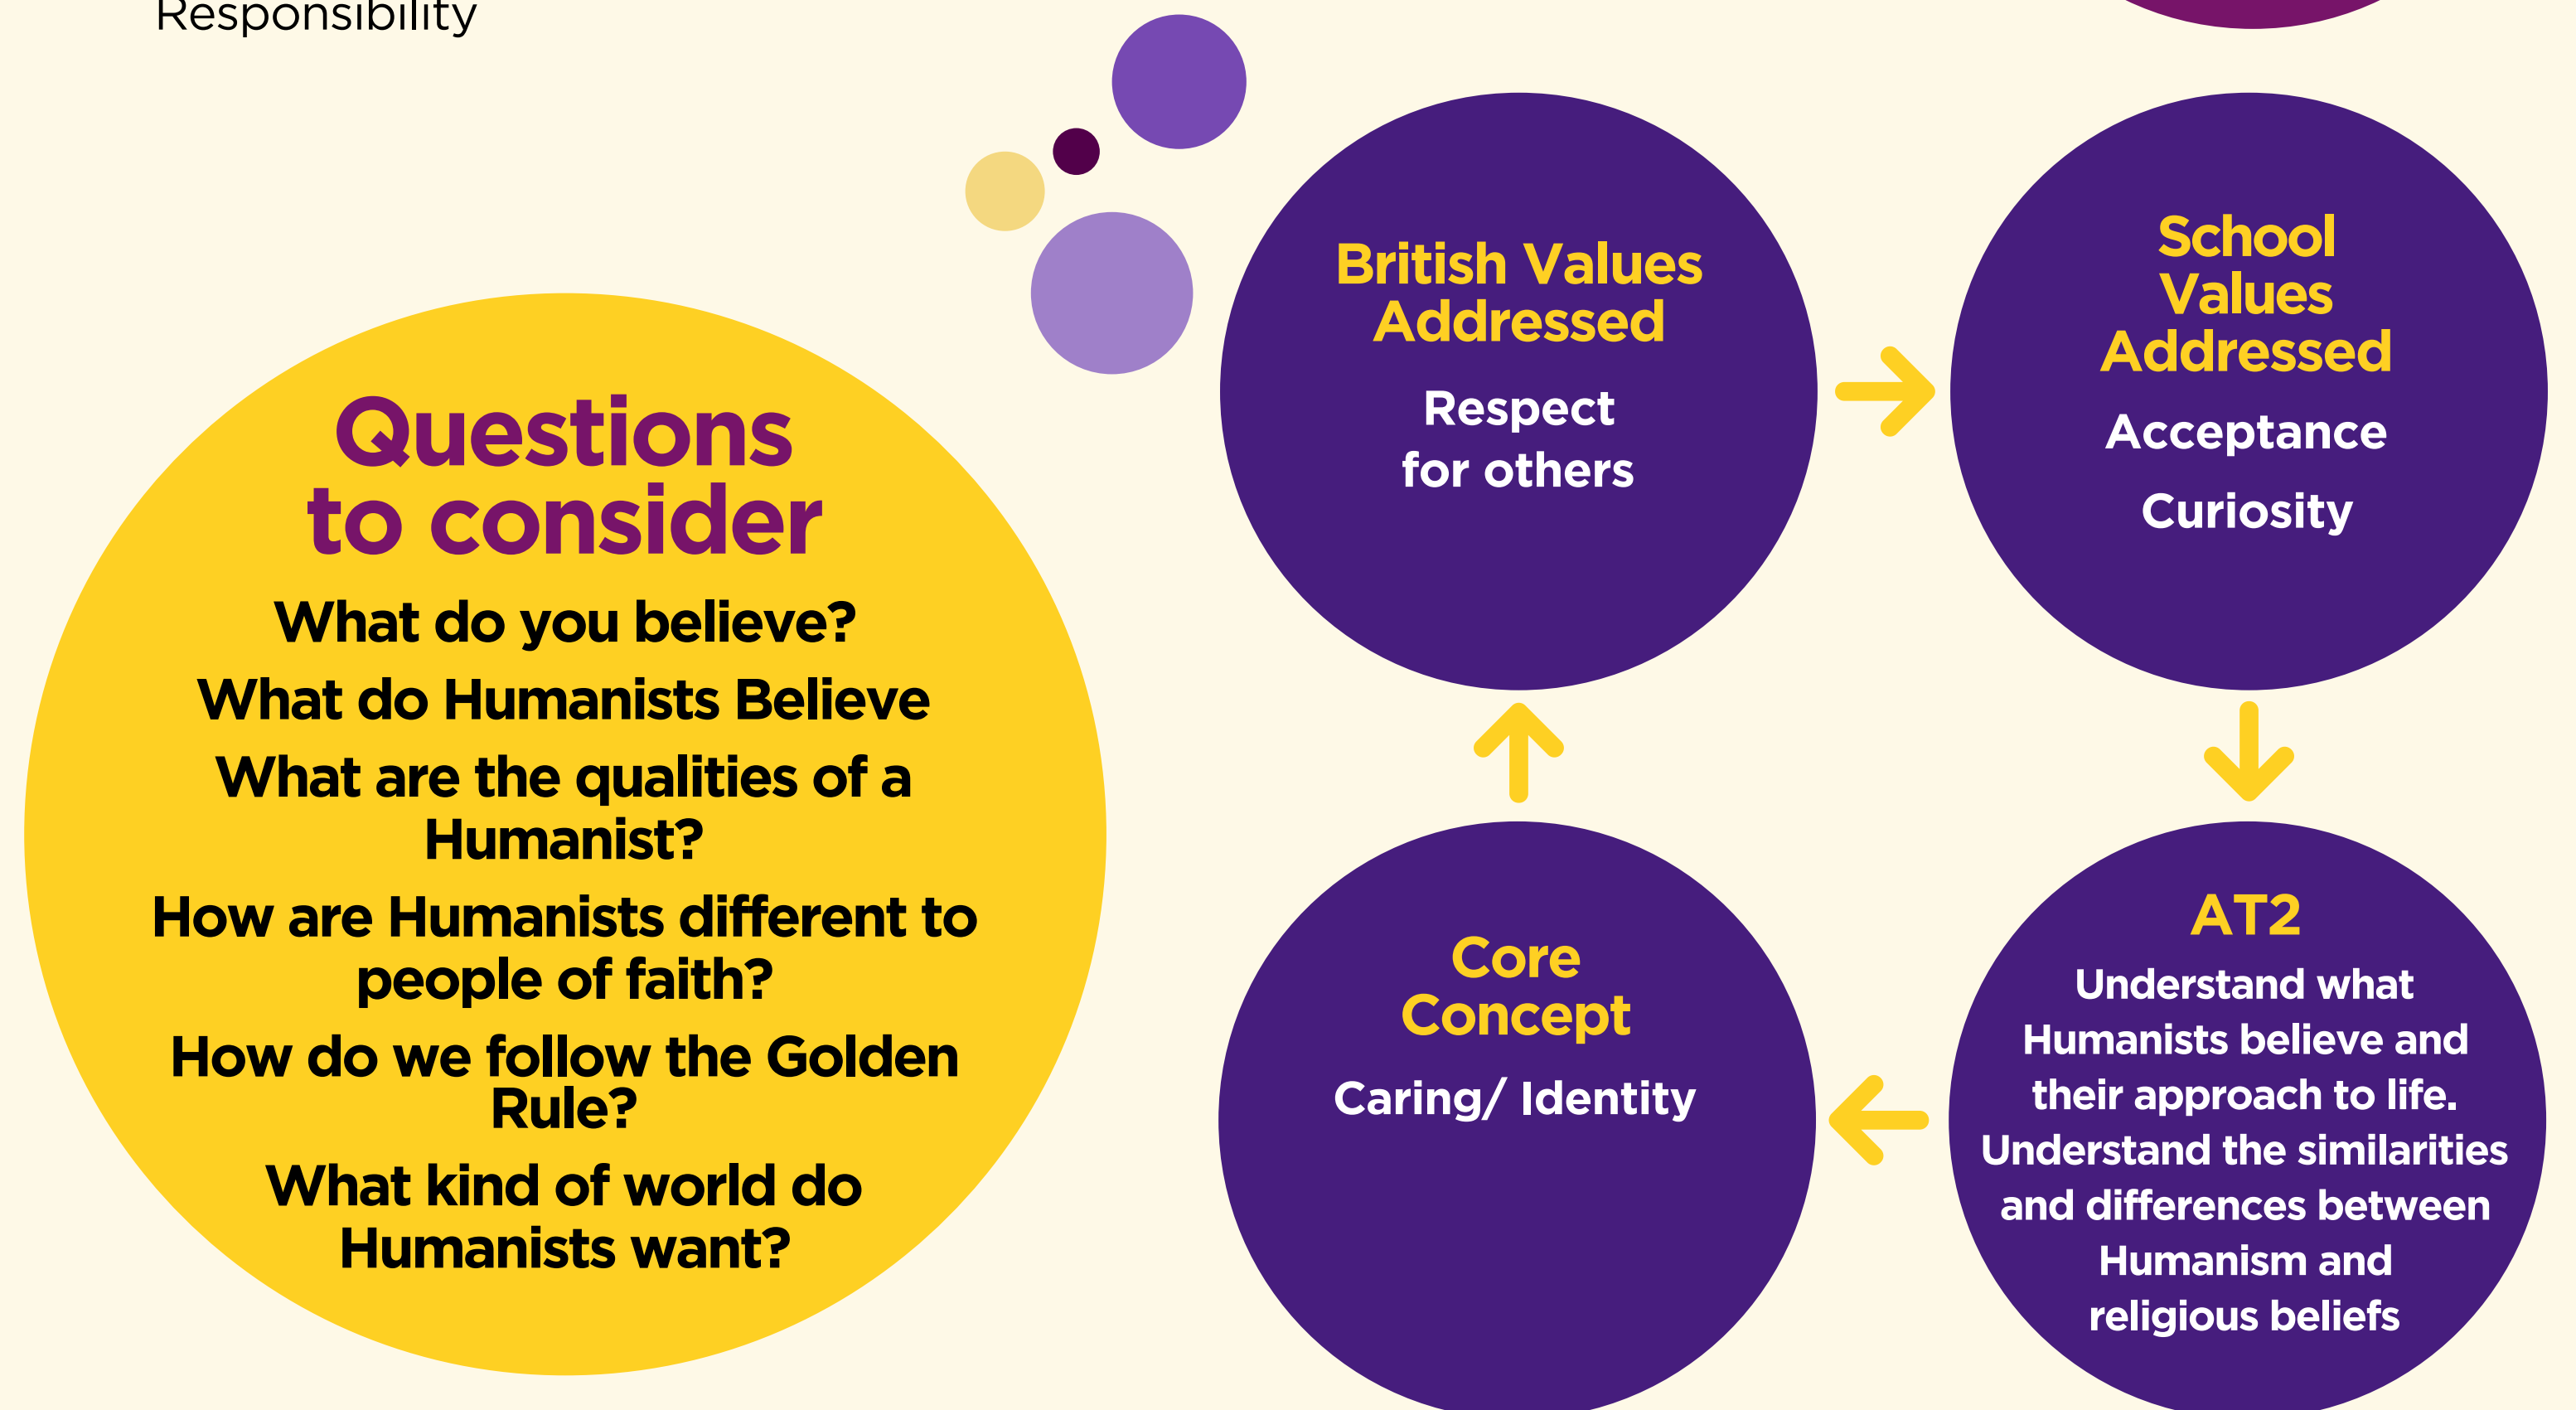

- Science, Dilemma, Responsibility

Prior knowledge

- Learning about the ways of religious communities. Knowledge of Humanism so far

Sensitivities

Comparing personal beliefs, Humanists are atheists (they do not believe in gods) which can conflict with the beliefs of others. Humanists also don't believe in an afterlife, so care should be taken around bereavement.

Year 5 Autumn Term Chief Seattle's Testimony

Chief Seattle, leader of the Sioux tribe is attributed with the following, which is extracted from a speech made in response to an offer to buy land from the Indians.

The great, and I presume also good, white chief sends us word that he wants to buy our lands but is willing to allow us to reserve enough to live on comfortably.

There was a time when our people covered the whole land, as the waves of a wind-ruffled sea cover its shell-paved floor. That time has long since passed away with the greatness of tribes now almost forgotten.

Our religion is the traditions of our ancestors, the dream of our old men, given them by the Great Spirit and is written in the hearts of our people. We will ponder your proposition, and when we have decided we will tell you. But should we accept it, I here and now make this the first condition: that we will not be denied the privilege, without molestation, of visiting at will the graves of our ancestors and friends. Every part of this country is sacred to my people. Every hillside, every valley, every plain and grove has been hallowed by some fond memory or some sad experience of my tribe.

How can you sell the sky or the warmth of the land? The idea is strange to us. Yet we do not own the freshness of the air or the sparkle of the water. When the buffaloes are all slaughtered, the wild horses all tamed, the secret corners of the forest heavy with the scent of many men and the views of the ripe hills blotted by talking wires, where is the thicket? Where is the eagle? Gone.

Only when the last tree has died, and the last river has been poisoned and the last fish been caught will we realise that we cannot eat money

Year 5 - Spring Term

British Values and RE

Tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs:

British law protects freedom to choose and hold other faiths and beliefs and this should never be the cause of prejudice or intolerance from others. RE lessons can embody this attitude. Learning about different ways of life requires openness. Rather than just aiming for tolerance, RE can help pupils to value and celebrate diversity.

Mutual respect

RE can help to engender positive attitudes towards diversity. It can allow pupils to explore what happens when people are not treated respectfully due to their faith or beliefs. RE is not a subject where everyone needs to agree at all times, but disagreement should take place in a respectful environment.

Democracy

RE is a subject where pupils are often encouraged to state and justify opinions, carefully thinking through issues for themselves – all pupils have an equal right to be heard. Primary pupils may well be thinking about the importance of fairness in RE.

The rule of law

Rules and laws from different communities are often a focus of RE lessons (e.g. The Ten Commandments). Pupils may focus on how these rules would affect their own lives and lives of believers. Comparisons can be made between religious and moral rules and state ones, with pupils thinking about what happens when the two collide.

Individual liberty

RE is a time for pupils to consider questions about identity and belonging. They may think about the way they are themselves and free, but also think about constraints and responsibilities placed on all of us by our cultures, faiths and beliefs. Pupils may look at how people may choose to practise faiths in different ways, focusing on diversity within each religion.

Year 5 - Autumn Term

The People of the Garlands

Chief Seattle, leader of the Sioux tribe is attributed with the following, which is extracted from a speech made in response to an offer to buy land from the Indians.

In the beginning the world was very still. Everything was silent and petrified and grey. The earth at that time appeared to be covered with small mounds of grey sand. When you examined the mounds very carefully you could see that they were not mounds of sand but the shapes of people who were so still that they did not move even to take a breath. When touched they felt cold and hard and unfriendly.

One day the sun appeared in the sky and shone on the world. Gradually the earth, the air, the stars, the oceans, the soil, the mountains, the trees, and the sky took some warmth from the sun. The last to take the warmth the sun offered were the people.

As the people became warm the blood began to flow through their bodies and brought them to life. They stretched, looked at each other, reached out and touched each other, spoke to each other and embraced each other in friendship.

They went off in groups and explored the world. They found that the earth was covered with beautifully coloured flowers. Some of the people collected daffodils, others collected shamrocks, some collected wild roses and others collected the beautiful flowers of the heather, which they found growing on the hills at the foot of the mountains. They were delighted with the beautiful colours and the delightful smells that came from the flowers. They became engrossed in collecting as many of their favourite flowers as they could. They delighted in giving garlands of the flowers to other people to wear. The earth was filled with the sound of their laughter and merriment.

Suddenly the sun disappeared, and they felt cold and hungry and afraid. They stopped what they were doing, saw that each of the groups looked different and they felt threatened and afraid of each other. The people with the daffodils clustered together and ran to one part of the earth. The people with the roses raced to another part, the people with the shamrocks raced to another and the people with the heather ran to another.

They soon forgot that they had once raced and laughed together and spoken with each other and been friends. Instead of seeing the things about them, which were the same, they saw only what was different. They hewed huge valleys out of the earth and surrounded them with ravines and canyons to keep people from the other groups out. Eventually they found that the daffodil people had rivers within their valley but no earth to plant their seed in, the shamrock people had earth but no rivers, the heather people had fire, but no animals and the rose people had animals but no fire. One day a person whom they didn't know appeared on a high hill between their valleys. She looked at the people huddled together in their separate valleys and called to them.

Some of the people very hesitantly came towards the visitor. She asked them what it was that they were afraid of and why they were so quiet and sad. They told her that they were afraid of the people in the other groups because they looked different from them and because they feared that they might be attacked and robbed of what their valleys possessed. They lamented about what they were short of and that they believed they would probably eventually die because of what they lacked.

The visitor said “Why don't you treat all your valleys as one place and share with each other what each valley has given you. Then everyone would have what she or he needs, and you would have no need to be afraid of each other.”

The people gathered, fell silent and thought about what the visitor had said to them. They began to remember that they had once all played together, had shared the garlands of flowers they had picked and had been happy in each other's company. Slowly they began to embrace each other and to celebrate the return of their friendship. The brightness of the sun returned to the valleys, and they felt the warmth of its rays growing through their bodies again. They took the garlands back and made new ones. The new ones were even more beautiful than the first. Because they were each made up of daffodils, roses, heather and shamrocks and the brilliance of their bright colours once again filled the earth.

Moral Dilemmas

- Your friends want you to go to Pizza Hut, but it is Ramadan, and you are fasting.
- You are picked for the netball team, but the away match is being played outside on a pitch adjacent to a main road and your parents would not be happy.
- The school will not allow mehndi patterns to be worn.
- You have been given permission to leave school to go to Friday prayers at the Mosque, but your friend wants you to go to town instead.
- Two non-Muslim/Hindu friends want to meet you in town and suggest McDonalds as the meeting place, but you are a vegetarian.
- MP's Discuss Foxhunting in Parliament
- Greenhouse effect discussed at European summit and Scientists Predict Global Warming Will Get Worse – what can we do about global warming?
- RSPCA officer claims this is the worst case of mistreatment he has ever seen - should you intervene if you see someone hurting an animal?
- Fridges and televisions left outside Council dump... it's a disgrace say local residents- should we say something if we see items dumped?
- Disabled resident stranded in her flat at night because of vandalised lifts.
- Teenage thieves steal mobile phone off two 14-year-olds – if you saw this happening, what would you do?

Overview of the Questions for each Year

Year Group	Autumn 1	Autumn 2	Spring 1	Spring 2	Summer 1	Summer 2
Year 1 What does it mean to belong?	Why are we thankful?	What places make you feel you belong?	Who is important to you?	Which stories are important to you?	Why do people celebrate?	How do you know you belong?
Year 2 What is Important to People?	What do some people believe about God?	How do people celebrate good over evil?	Who do you talk to if you need some help?	Why are some books special?	How do you show someone is important?	What is special?
Year 3 What do different people believe about God?	How do different people describe God?		What does it mean to be an inspiring leader?		How do people communicate with God?
Year 4 How is my community special to me?	How do I show I'm part of a community?		How do communities celebrate?		Why are places of worship important to communities?
Year 5 Why Should we care for our World?	What are the ways community's care?		In what ways are people judged?		What do Humanists believe?
Year 6 What do we need on Life's journey?	How do we change through life's journey?		How does a community work?		Why do people go on pilgrimages?
Year 7 How do I see myself in the world?	How do people gain their identity?		What do Hindus believe and practise?		Why is community cohesion important?
Year 8 What role does belief play in our world?	Jesus Christ - Man or Miracle?		How do people respond to environmental issues?		Who has made a difference in the world?
Year 9 Are Humans equally Special?	Why do we remember?		Is it wrong to be rich?		What are the 5 pillars of Islam?

KS2 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Some concepts may still be abstract and new ones may add to the cognitive overload. · Children may be more familiar with their own 'self' and ideas related to themselves and family.
- Recording / writing may still be difficult - consider this at the outset for success.
- For some SEND children, learning questions may still be able to be answered but how this is achieved may look different.
- Some children may have expert knowledge if learning relates to them. Plan for this to enable them success
- Consider any sensory issues
- Some children will require parallel activities not within these adaptations
- When assessing, give children a chance to show what they know using alternative materials/ means or provision where necessary.

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Pair children according to need.
- Use 'think, pair share' to allow children time to think, discuss their ideas.
- Plan questions in advance. Consider using blanks level questions (select type depending on need)

- Consider allocating roles in a discussion to keep children focused.
- Plan carefully for transition times between discussions. Prepare children for this using visual prompts or warnings.
- Where needed, adults to have visual prompts with child/ children they are working with as well as class teacher.

Strategies

- Use videos and real-life experiences (photos of children in your class). Use other children as experts.
- Use real objects allowing children to handle (where possible).
- Use simplified language when discussing ideas/concepts · Begin to reflect on prior learning to make links and connections.
- Consider how writing may be a barrier to success and plan independent tasks carefully. Identify the 'RE learning' you want to take place and plan activities for success.
- Make use of workshops/ visits/ visitors where possible. · Use pictures and symbols to make Learning Questions clear and visual.
- Try and ensure tasks are interesting and engaging and incorporate a wide range of learners needs (visual, kinaesthetic, multisensory for example).
- Teach in small chunks. All learning questions may not be achieved in each lesson.

Adapted outcomes

- Use some key vocabulary functionally.
- May be able to discuss things that they have experience of related to themselves.
- Identify objects and artefacts using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt.
- Take part in some activities which support learning.
- Unable to relate to abstract concepts such as faith, friendship, belief.
- Unable to transcribe at a level which reflects their understanding.
- Learning should remaining challenging but adaptations should be made (where needed) to make outcomes achievable.
- Verbal feedback should be considered where understanding might be a challenge.
- Take into account children's variety of responses (verbal, group work) when assessing against any learning criteria.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Select essential vocabulary for children to learn. Where possible, pre teach vocabulary and revisit where possible.
- Have vocabulary accompanied by an image, displayed around the class. Consider using real images as opposed to cartoons.
- Teach new words in context. · Play games to reinforce learning of a new word in a fun way.
- Use word trees to build vocabulary and reinforce over time.

- Use mind maps to revisit prior learning and connect ideas and concepts.
- Use word mats which show key vocabulary with pictures.
- Try and keep the pictures used consistent with those used in any teaching or resource.
- Label resources to support

Adaptive Teaching

- Consider ICT, for children to create presentations etc as an alternative to writing.
- Adapt how children show understanding- discussion/ drawing/ annotations etc.
- Avoid using lots of different types of questions during discussions.
- Use pictures/images on resources as a prompt. · Incorporate drama/ roleplay/art where appropriate.
- Use a range of mixed peers/ near peers and group tasks as well as individual tasks.
- Where possible, use local references and photos of things they may be familiar with.
- Pupil made videos to show learning for some children where writing is a barrier

What is a pilgrimage and what is it's significance?	A pilgrimage is a religious journey, often very difficult to make, to a special religious place. People do it to help them come closer to God, to get to know God better and to be better Christians/Muslims/Hindus etc. Canterbury is the chief cathedral in the country (the Archbishop of Canterbury is the leading churchman of the Church of England) Religious people may see life itself as a pilgrimage i.e. a religious journey whose purpose is to help them come closer to God. They will try to live their lives according to the guidance of their religion: at important times in their lives, when they have important choices to make, they will pray for God's guidance in making the right decision: and they will see death possibly, depending on the religion, as the possibility of a fuller life with God.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have pupils got a special place they have been to? • What made the journey special, how did they prepare for it? • Was the journey special because of where they went, or was it (also) special in itself? • What did they see and do on the journey? • Have parents or grandparents been on a Pilgrimage? Where to? 	Introduce the idea of pilgrimage. Discuss the key facts and also ask whether following your football team abroad might be a sort of pilgrimage.	Pupils to think about their own 'pilgrimage' through life so far and in the future. How will they make decisions about their lives? In groups make up a set of values to live life by (previous work on the laws of various religions and worldviews) e.g I want to be rich/ happy/healthy/ wealthy/charitable etc. Put the values in order of priority and discuss as a class. Pupils then either make a display of these values or write about their own aspirations for their lives ahead with reasons. Resources: Make a List of values to help pupils Pictures of people of different faiths on pilgrimage	pilgrimage

Christianity

Recap on Baptism and Christening within the Christian Church

Islam

When a baby is born, the Muslim call to prayer, known as the Adhan, (“God is great, there is no God but Allah. Muhammed is the messenger of Allah. Come to prayer.”) Is recited into the baby’s right ear by the father. The baby is given a taste of some- thing sweet, it was a practise carried out by the Prophet Muhammed PBUH (Peace be upon Him) and is believed to help the digestive systems get started. After seven days the Aqiqah ceremony is performed in which the baby’s scalp is shaved of hair. This is to show that the child is the servant of Allah. Parents then weigh the hair and give the equivalent weight in silver to charity or distribute meat to the poor. Muslims often naming sons Muhammed and daughters after his wife/daughter.

Hinduism

The jatakarma ceremony welcomes the baby into the world. The father places a small amount of ghee and honey on the baby’s tongue and whispers the name of God in his ear. During this the father feeds honey to the baby and pierces the baby’s ear. This ear piercing is supposed to enhance the memory of the child. Brahmins chant Mantras for a healthy, long life of the child. In Nama- karana ceremony the child is given a name. Nama literally means ‘name’ and karana means ‘to make, to effect’. All the activities in the world are carried on the basis of name. Every parent has the duty to give a nice name to the child, which reminds the child of some goal or objective in the life.

Judaism

Any child born to a Jewish mother is considered a Jew. On the first Sabbath after a Jewish child is born, the infant’s father is called forward at the synagogue to recite the aliyah (an opportunity to bless the reading of the Torah)and ask blessings for the health of mother and child. If the child is a girl, she is named at this time. Boys will be named on the eighth day after birth, as part of the rite that takes place on the 8th day.

Sikhism

When a Sikh baby is born the Mool mantra is whispered into its ear and a drop of honey put on its tongue. The baby is taken to the Gurdwara, and mother and baby are given Amrit to drink, the parents bring butter, sugar and flour for making Prashad for the worshippers. The parents might also present a new Rumala to the Gurdwara (the cloth covering the Guru Granth Sahib). Each day the Granthi opens the guru Granth sahib at random and the first verse on the left-hand page is the message for the day. The first letter of the left-hand page of the random opening becomes the first letter of the babies name. The parents bring a number of choices for the name and the congregation is often asked to help choose.

Humanism

Humanist naming ceremonies provide a good way to illustrate the importance of freedom to humanists and the value they place on the support we receive from, and the connections we make, with other people in our lives. A humanist naming ceremony is a non-religious ceremony at which there are no set words or actions. The parents are free to decide where to hold it, what happens, and what they want to say. Freedom is very important to humanists. The focus at a humanist ceremony is often on the child’s freedom to decide for themselves what they believe and how they want to live, and the responsibility of other people to support them to find happiness. Typically, family and friends will make promises or offer advice to the new child. Humanists don’t believe in a god or gods. The connections we make with other people, and the love and support they can offer us, is therefore very important to them.

Christianity

Confirmation is a sacrament or ritual that strengthens or deepens a baptized person's relationship with God. It serves as a way for individuals to confirm the promises made on their behalf during infant baptism. Through confirmation, a person becomes a full member of the Christian community. During the ceremony, a bishop (or other clergy) usually lays hands on the confirmands, symbolizing the gift of the Holy Spirit. Confirmands publicly declare their faith and commitment to Christ, having been to a series of classes on what it means. In the Bible Acts 8:14-17 describes how Peter and John laid hands on the newly baptized in Samaria, and they received the Holy Spirit.

Sikhism

Dastar Bhandi Usually, when a Sikh boy reaches a certain age, usually 11 to 16, a turban ceremony is performed for the child. The Sikhs tie turban for the first time on the head of a child in presence of Sri Guru Granth Sahib. This ceremony can be held at the Gurdwara or at any place where the Guru Granth Sahib is installed. At this ceremony, Ardas is recited and then the child's first turban is ceremonially tied on by the Granthi, or a Sikh elderly person

Judaism

Bar/Bat Mitzvah bar (male) bat (female) mitzvah is a coming-of-age ritual mentioned in the Talmud. According to Jewish law, before children reach a certain age, the parents are responsible for their child's actions. Once Jewish children reach that age, they are said to "become" b'nai mitzvah, at which point they begin to be held accountable for their own actions. Traditionally, the father of a bar or bat mitzvah offers thanks to God that he is no longer punished for his child's sins. In Orthodox communities, boys become bar mitzvah at 13 and girls become bat mitzvah at 12. After this point, children are also held responsible for knowing Jewish ritual law, tradition, and ethics, and can participate in all areas of Jewish community life to the same extent as adults.

In some Jewish communities, men's and women's roles differ in certain respects. For example, in Orthodox Judaism, once a boy turns 13, it is permitted to count him for the purpose of determining whether there is a prayer quorum, and he may lead prayer and other religious services in the family and the community. At the ceremony in the Synagogue the candidate reads from the Torah in front of the congregation in Hebrew.

Humanism

At around the age of 7-9 years old children enter a period of childhood, which is commonly known as 'The Age of Reason'. This is a very special time in the lives of these young people and we gather to celebrate and give thanks for their presence in our lives and to mark their stepping into another phase in their development. Coming of Age Ceremonies Humanist 'Coming of Age' ceremonies are a non-religious alternative to rites of passage for young persons as they prepare to enter adulthood. These ceremonies mark the person's transition into adulthood where Humanist values-social justice, human rights, equality and compassion - are emphasised.

Hinduism

Ritu Kala Samskara is a ceremony for girls at puberty where they are given their first saree to wear and celebrated as a woman. For boys it is known as the Sacred Thread ceremony (the Upanayanam in Sanskrit), and can take place during any odd-numbered year in a boy's life, usually when he is seven, nine, or 11 years old. There is a solemn religious rite that inducts the little boy into youth, where the father tells him secretly the Gayathri Mantra--the supreme and most sacred of all Hindu mantras, which is the basis of all other mantras and the essence of the Vedas (a Hindu scripture).

Wedding Rituals

Christianity

Christian Marriage - YouTube

Sikhism

Firstly, The bride and the bridegroom exchange garlands (jayamaala) and declare: “Let all the learned persons present here know, we are accepting each other willingly, voluntarily and pleasantly. Our hearts are concordant and united like waters.” The bridegroom is brought to a specially decorated altar called ‘mandap’ and offered a seat and a welcoming drink and the groom’s mother gives a necklace (mangala sootra- the emblem of marital status for a Hindu woman.) to the bride. A sacred fire is lit and the groom, holding the bride’s hand, says “I hold your hand in the spirit of dharma we are both husband and wife” and they walk round the fire 4 times. The couple walk seven steps reciting a prayer at each step, the seven vows which are exchanged. for food, strength, prosperity, wisdom, children, health and friendship. A symbolic matrimonial knot is tied after this ceremony and then they are blessed the priest for a long and prosperous married life.

Islam

In Islam a marriage is a social contract which brings rights and obligations to both parties and can only be successful when these are mutually respected and cherished. The actual Muslim wedding is known as a nikah. It is a simple ceremony, at which the bride does not have to be present so long as she sends two witnesses to the drawn-up agreement. Normally, the ceremony consists of reading from the Qur’an, and the exchange of vows in front of witnesses for both partners.

No special religious official is necessary, but often the Imam is present and performs the ceremony. He may give a short sermon. There are certain things which are basic to all Muslim marriages. The bride and groom are asked three times if they accept each other in marriage according to the terms of their traditional marriage contract which they then they sign, Marriages have to be declared publicly. The publicity is usually achieved by having a large feast, or walimah - a party specifically for the purpose of announcing publicly that the couple are married and entitled to each other. Many wedding customs are a matter of culture and not of Islam. The bride and groom may be obliged to sit on ‘thrones’ on a platform, to be seen by the guests. They may receive gifts, or gifts of money.

Judaism

Jews are traditionally married underneath a special canopy known as a chupa, which symbolises the home that the couple will share. The rituals associated with Jewish weddings begin as soon as a couple are engaged, with a ceremony known as tena’im. It involves breaking a plate to symbolise the destruction of the temples in Jerusalem, as a reminder that even in the midst of celebration Jews still feel sadness for their loss. Many Jews fast on their wedding day to cleanse themselves of sin The ceremony begins with the signing of the Ketubah - the Jewish marriage contract which sets out the legal terms of the marriage. The origins of the Ketubah go back to the days of the Sanhedrin - the Jewish Supreme Court - in Jerusalem a few thousand years ago - in order to protect the bride by the terms of her dowry. Next there is a ceremony known as Bedecken (veiling), in which the bridegroom places the veil over the bride’s face. This symbolises the groom’s intent to clothe and protect his wife, and dates back to Biblical times, when Rebekah covered her face before she married Abraham’s son Isaac.

Seven is an important number because God created the world in seven days and so the groom and the bride are symbolically creating the walls of the couple’s new home. When the bride reaches the Chupa she walks round the bridegroom once, or if orthodox seven times. Seven cups of wine are drunk during the ceremony and several prayers are said binding the couple together. One of the most important parts is the giving of the ring. It must be a complete circle without a break, to emphasise the hope for a harmonious marriage and must be plain without stones or decoration. During the ceremony, the officiator of the service, usually the Rabbi, will make a speech about the couple and bless them as they begin their new life together. The service also features a prayer, usually sung by a cantor, about the sadness Jewish people at the destruction of the Temples in Jerusalem. The ceremony ends with the breaking of a glass by the groom, which is also linked to remembering the destruction of the Temples.

Humanism

A humanist wedding is a non-religious ceremony that often focuses on the value of our connections with other people and celebrate the diversity of loving relationships.

Sikhism

Marriage is an important aspect of Sikhism, as it is seen as a sacred bond of mutual help and spiritual bliss. According to Sikh teachings, marriage is not just a social contract, but a way to attain union with God through love and devotion. Here are some key points about the Sikh view of marriage: Marriage is a unity of mind and soul between two people who become one in the eyes of God. Marriage is a means to attain spirituality and not an end in itself. The real goal of marriage in Sikhism is to merge both souls with Waheguru, the Supreme Soul. Marriage is a partnership of equals, as the husband and wife have equal rights and responsibilities in their relationship. They are expected to support each other in worldly and spiritual matters. Marriage is a commitment of fidelity and mutual respect. The couple vows to remain faithful to each other in the presence of the Guru Granth Sahib, the Sikh scripture, and the holy congregation. Marriage is a blessing of sexual union and procreation. Sikhs believe that sex is a gift from God and a way to express love and intimacy. Children are seen as a great blessing and a continuation of the family lineage.

Funerals and Death Rites

Christianity

Get an order of service for a funeral from the local church

Sikhism

Most Hindus are cremated as it is believed that this will help their soul to escape quickly from the body. Various rituals take place, prayers and hymns are sung and a lamp, rice balls and a mala, or garland of flowers, are placed in the coffin. In India people hope to have their funeral at the burning ghats on the shores of the sacred river Ganga (Ganges). Here the body is placed on a large pile of wood, then the eldest son says the appropriate Vedic prayers and lights the fire. Incense and ghee (cooked and clarified butter) are poured into the flames. Afterwards the ashes are sprinkled on water. Many people take the ashes to India to put on the waters of the Ganga: others may take them to a river or the sea near to where they live

Islam

Muslims try to bury as fast as possible and certainly within three days. The body is washed and wrapped in a white cloth or in the Itham they wore on Hajj. Muslims prefer not to use a coffin but in some countries they must by law. Muslims are buried facing the Muslim holy city, Makkah, which is also the direction that Muslims always face when praying. Muslims believe that there will be physical resurrections on the Day of Judgement so do not have cremation. Tombstones and decorations are not usually found and Muslims like to have a section of a cemetery only for Muslims.

Judaism

Men and women have equal rights to play a part in funeral and mourning rituals. As soon as someone dies preparations are made for burial which must take place as quickly as possible. The body is washed and dressed in a simple white shroud. Men are wrapped in their tallit (prayer shawl) with the fringes cut off to show that he is now free of the religious laws. From the time of death until burial, the body is never left alone in its simple wooden coffin.

No flowers are given at a Jewish funeral and the service is short. Orthodox Jews do not usually allow cremation but Progressive Jews sometimes cremate the dead. For the next seven days a candle is kept burning and the mirrors in the house are covered. The mourners stay at home praying. The dead person is remembered each year on the anniversary with a lit candle and a special prayer. When people visit a Jewish grave they place a small stone on the gravestone as a sign of respect.

Sikhism

Sikhs Death –Antim Sanskar is considered a natural process: an absolute certainty - an event that will happen sooner or later - an event that is guaranteed to take place: and only happens when the Almighty commands and never otherwise - as a direct result of God's Will or Hukam. To a Sikh, birth and death are closely associated, because they are both part of the cycle of human life of "coming and going" which is seen as transient stage towards Liberation. When a person dies the next of kin will visit the gurdwara to arrange a Sehaj Paath (10-day full reading ensuring the 10th day falls on the day of the funeral cremation). After the cremation the family and friends will return to the Gurdwara, for the final reading and hymns being sung from the Guru Granth Sahib. Langar is served and congregation will pay respects and leave.

Kiratpur Sahib is the place where Sikh people immerse the ashes of their departed ones into Sutlej River. This city was founded by Guru Hargobind Sahib ji. The ashes of Sikh's three gurus were immersed here, so it has become a sacred place to Sikh community.

Humanism

We all need ceremonies to mark such important events such as Births, Marriages, and Death. Humanists conduct ceremonies for themselves, and for members of the public who wish to have a non-religious event. All ceremonies can be big or small, indoor, or out, but they are all individually tailored to suit those involved.

For many humanists, the main purpose of a funeral is to provide an opportunity for the family and friends of the deceased to grieve, to share memories, and to celebrate the life of the person who has died. Humanists do not believe in an afterlife. Many therefore feel that the words and sentiment at a religious funeral would be inappropriate for them. A humanist ceremony is conducted by a humanist celebrant and there will often be music and readings chosen by the deceased or by family and friends. Sharing stories about the deceased can support the grieving process and help people to remember them. Rather than prayers, there will often be time for reflection.

Muslim Pilgrimage

Packing the suitcase: A way to investigate the artefacts associated with Hajj. Pupils read one of the sections below and select correctly from a range of artefacts to place in a 'suitcase'.

- 1) As a Muslim I believe that there is only one God, and that Muhammed is the messenger of God. This is the Shahadah that I have in my house and in my car. I will want to place these in my case.
- 2) My sisters and cousins all wear the Hijab to cover their head and neck. They wear it when they are outside. My sister started wearing hers at puberty, but my cousins want to wear it at seven. I will pack an extra one for the journey in case it is needed.
- 3) At last the time is drawing near for my pilgrimage and I have to think very carefully about what I will take with me. I know that at Gatwick Airport there is a prayer room so I will be able to offer my prayers. I will need to keep my special prayer mat in my hand luggage. In Islam you can pray anywhere as long as you are facing Makkah, have the right intention and have washed. I like my prayer mat as it helps me to concentrate, and I know the ground is clean.
- 4) I must not forget my Hajj belt. Many people say this is where the idea of money belts originated.
- 5) On the way back from my pilgrimage I will make up some fast days I missed due to ill health. I will break my fast at sundown with these and bring these for my friend who is a Turkish Muslim.
- 6) Throughout my journey I will use my Subhah. This will help me to focus my thoughts on Allah and his many glorious attributes. I shall use my Subhah to help me pray.
- 7) I will need to take my Ihram with me. This indicates brotherhood, equality and purity. Just imagine ... the richest person in the world may stand next to me wearing exactly the same Ihram as me! I would like to be buried in the ones I have worn for Hajj in the way my grandfather was buried.

8) I have requested Halal food on the plane. This is because Muslims do not eat pork or substances such as gelatine and all animals must be killed in a special way. Just in case, I have brought some of my own Halal food. This will need to go in my hand luggage.

9) I know how special the Qur'an is to my daily life and I will soon be able to see the cave at Hira where the Qur'an was revealed to the Prophet. I will take it to read on my journey.

10) Before I go it is essential that I see all my family are provided for. I usually take my grandmother to the Mosque for prayers, but she will be able to pray at home while I am away. As she is partially sighted I will provide her with a Muzzein Alarm. I know that when I get back home it will bring back memories for me too.

11) I am afraid my geography is not very good so when I am on the plane, I will have difficulties finding which way to pray as I must face Makkah the city where the Prophet was born, and the Kaaba is located. I am sure I will find this very useful, so I will pack it in my hand luggage.

12) Islam places great emphasis on the value of drinking water. Past pilgrims have told me how thirsty they get. I will get a container from the ZamZam well. This is where the water first sprang from in answer to Hagar's prayer

13) It is hard to believe that this time next week I will have seen the Kaaba. This is the cube shaped structure in the centre of the grand Mosque in Makkah, believed to be the first house built for worship of Allah. I think I will keep these postcards in my luggage so that I can look at them and the plaques from my wall during the long flight.

Year 6 - Summer Term

Actions on Hajj

The Hajj

is the fifth pillar of Islam, and all Muslims are expected to try to go to the Holy City of Makkah on a pilgrimage at least once in their life. It is mainly undertaken during the month of Ramadan. There is a set route to take to fulfill the Hajj. Only Muslims are allowed into Makkah to perform Hajj and a special visa and permission letter from the Imam must be taken. Everyone dresses in a white garment called an Ihram to show that everyone is equal.

Preparation

Pilgrims bath and dress in IHRAM and express intention to perform Hajj Go round the Ka'aba seven times touching or raising hand to the black stone Walk seven times between the Safa and Marwa hills. This recalls Hagar's search for water for Ishmail when they were in the desert

Day 1

Move to MINA which is 3 miles from Makkah by noon. Prayers are said in the mosque. This is the day of reflection.

Day 2

After sunrise, journey to Arafat by noon. At Jabul-al-Rahma, a small hill, is the place where Adam and Eve were reunited. This is called the day of standing and intense prayer and devotion is made until sunset. Without this event the hajj is not complete..

Day 3

Known as Yaum-al-Nahr or day of sacrifice. Pilgrims collect 7 stones to throw at the pillars at Mina to recall Abraham throwing stones at Satan. Then a sacrifice of a lamb or goat is made to remember Abraham who was willing to sacrifice his son. Elsewhere in the Muslim world this day is celebrated as Eid-al-Adha and involves celebration and sacrifice

Day 4

Pilgrims stay at Mina, by the roadside and throw more pebbles at the pillars. This and day 5

Day 5

Having stayed again at Mina the pilgrims return to Makkah and again go seven times round the Ka'aba. They then drink at the zamzam well where Hagar found water for Ishmail in the desert.

Questions and activity

- Why does a Muslim save up to go on Hajj?
- What does it feel like to be with all the others and all dress the same?
- What does it feel like to be in places that Mohammed was in?
- Write a postcard from your Hajj telling how you feel
- Create a board game of your Hajj
- Devise 5 beliefs that affect the way you live
- Read The cobblers story
- Packing the suitcase activity

KS3 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Encouraging inclusive language in the classroom and avoid essentialist teaching that reinforces stereotypes.
- Some students may be sensitive to topics around suffering, death and injustice – ensure they have a point of reference and support if needed.

Strategies

- Letting the students handle artefacts respectfully
- Using a variety of multi media
- Challenging ways to assess progress through a number of different tasks – written, spoken, interview, a diagram, or a table.
- Use children's own experiences.
- Students to talk to the class about special days and holidays and questions can be asked.
- Getting involved in a celebration, for example creating a baptismal certificate or a advent wreath
- Word processing written responses or asking AI to interview a historical character.
- Using Mnemonics to remember.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Regular retrieval
- Support vocabulary with a relevant image (dual coding).
- Using the word confidently in a sentence. Students can identify when the word is being used correctly.
- Learning mats used for every lesson.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Regular points to pause
- Using Etymology to understand the word's history and development

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Use of Adults to facilitate learning or individualized support
- Providing scaffolds for extended writing
- Understand the child's need by referring to EHCP if applicable
- Focus on command words
- Accessible resources. Consider colour of text and background, size of font, stimuli and space to responses

- Provide word mats with literacy sentence starters, vocabulary and structure

Adapted outcomes

- A response to “Tell me” or “show me”
- Participating in independent practice by providing a scaffold or sentence starters
- Identify using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt with more than one possible outcome.

Adaptive teaching

- Use curricular links for reinforce learning – through literature, Art, Drama and Music
- Interleave learning opportunities and make clear links for previous and past topics
- Use simple drawings, mottos and icons to sum up what has been learned
- Metacognitive approach to learning where relevant
- Refer to the resource pack or artefacts to illustrate examples
- Thin pair, share responses
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Consideration of format and presentation of lessons and slides

- Provide a stimulating environment by visiting a local place of worship

Guidance Year 8

The Big Question for Year 8 is What role does belief play in our world?

There are 3 main topics for the year one for each term - the topics are:

Autumn - Jesus Christ man or Miracle?

Spring - How do people respond to environmental issues?

Summer - Prejudice and discrimination - Who has made a significant impact on our world?

There are 6 Topic learning Objectives for each Term so that teachers can spread the learning out over the whole term.

Assessment questions are built in and found at the end of each term's unit along with a glossary.

The Resources suggested for each term are at the beginning after the knowledge organiser.

At the end of the year pupils can discuss whether they have answered the Big Question for the Year.

KS3 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Encouraging inclusive language in the classroom and avoid essentialist teaching that reinforces stereotypes.
- Some students may be sensitive to topics around suffering, death and injustice – ensure they have a point of reference and support if needed.

Strategies

- Letting the students handle artefacts respectfully
- Using a variety of multi media
- Challenging ways to assess progress through a number of different tasks – written, spoken, interview, a diagram, or a table.
- Use children's own experiences.
- Students to talk to the class about special days and holidays and questions can be asked.
- Getting involved in a celebration, for example creating a baptismal certificate or a advent wreath
- Word processing written responses or asking AI to interview a historical character.
- Using Mnemonics to remember.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Regular retrieval
- Support vocabulary with a relevant image (dual coding).
- Using the word confidently in a sentence. Students can identify when the word is being used correctly.
- Learning mats used for every lesson.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Regular points to pause
- Using Etymology to understand the word's history and development

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Use of Adults to facilitate learning or individualized support
- Providing scaffolds for extended writing
- Understand the child's need by referring to EHCP if applicable
- Focus on command words
- Accessible resources. Consider colour of text and background, size of font, stimuli and space to responses

- Provide word mats with literacy sentence starters, vocabulary and structure

Adapted outcomes

- A response to “Tell me” or “show me”
- Participating in independent practice by providing a scaffold or sentence starters
- Identify using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt with more than one possible outcome.

Adaptive teaching

- Use curricular links for reinforce learning – through literature, Art, Drama and Music
- Interleave learning opportunities and make clear links for previous and past topics
- Use simple drawings, mottos and icons to sum up what has been learned
- Metacognitive approach to learning where relevant
- Refer to the resource pack or artefacts to illustrate examples
- Thin pair, share responses
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Consideration of format and presentation of lessons and slides

- Provide a stimulating environment by visiting a local place of worship

KS3 Adaptive Teaching ideas

Sensitivities

- Encouraging inclusive language in the classroom and avoid essentialist teaching that reinforces stereotypes.
- Some students may be sensitive to topics around suffering, death and injustice – ensure they have a point of reference and support if needed.

Strategies

- Letting the students handle artefacts respectfully
- Using a variety of multi media
- Challenging ways to assess progress through a number of different tasks – written, spoken, interview, a diagram, or a table.
- Use children's own experiences.
- Students to talk to the class about special days and holidays and questions can be asked.
- Getting involved in a celebration, for example creating a baptismal certificate or a advent wreath
- Word processing written responses or asking AI to interview a historical character.
- Using Mnemonics to remember.

Teaching Vocabulary

- Regular retrieval
- Support vocabulary with a relevant image (dual coding).
- Using the word confidently in a sentence. Students can identify when the word is being used correctly.
- Learning mats used for every lesson.
- Consider strategies to help memorize words such as clapping out the syllables
- Regular points to pause
- Using Etymology to understand the word's history and development

Adaptations for including children in discussions

- Use of Adults to facilitate learning or individualized support
- Providing scaffolds for extended writing
- Understand the child's need by referring to EHCP if applicable
- Focus on command words
- Accessible resources. Consider colour of text and background, size of font, stimuli and space to responses

- Provide word mats with literacy sentence starters, vocabulary and structure

Adapted outcomes

- A response to “Tell me” or “show me”
- Participating in independent practice by providing a scaffold or sentence starters
- Identify using pictures/ continual visual aids as a prompt with more than one possible outcome.

Adaptive teaching

- Use curricular links for reinforce learning – through literature, Art, Drama and Music
- Interleave learning opportunities and make clear links for previous and past topics
- Use simple drawings, mottos and icons to sum up what has been learned
- Metacognitive approach to learning where relevant
- Refer to the resource pack or artefacts to illustrate examples
- Thin pair, share responses
- Teach in small chunks if needed and show steps using a visual timetable
- Consideration of format and presentation of lessons and slides

- Provide a stimulating environment by visiting a local place of worship

Year 9 Guidance

The Big Question for Year 9 is Are humans equally Special?

The three termly Topics are ‘Why Do we Remember?’, ‘Is it Wrong to be Rich?’ And ‘What are the Five Pillars of Islam?’

At the end of the year pupils can consider whether they have answered the Big question.

Each topic is to take a term and teachers can spread the lessons out as suitable.

The suggested resources for each unit are at the end of the unit there is also a glossary at the end of each unit.

It is advised to look at previous learning as indicated.

Assessment opportunities are also at the end of each unit as well as in the Knowledge Organiser and under ‘Activities’.

Under ‘Resources’ you will find general information and photographs of places of worship in Croydon
