

Oakland Wood history

The woodland was accepted as public open space after the local residents cleaned up and started managing the site in 1996.